Communists Openly Assailed By Hungarian Liberty Leader; Reds Purging All East Europe

Un-American Probers Use Scare Tactics, Says Wallace

House Group Seen Trying to Keep Federal Employes From Rally Here

Mrs. Roosevelt Won't Run

MRS. ROOSEVELT declines to run for Vice President. Page 12.

Observers to Attend

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

Henry A. Wallace charged last night that the House Committee on Un-American Activities is trying to "scare" Government workers out of attending his speech at the Watergate Monday night.

The Wallace blast was in answer to a committee announcement that it would have "several observers" present at the meeting, sponsored by the Southern Conference for Human Welfare.

The committee unanimously approved a report yesterday charging that the Southern Conference for Human Welfare is "a Communist front organization." The report will be issued for Sunday publication.

Wallace Assails Committee

The former Vice President called upon Government workers to reply to the House committee by attending his rally in overwhelming numbers.

"The real purpose of the committee," Wallace said in New York, "is obviously to scare Government workers so that they will not attend the meeting. If the police state has not yet arrived in the United States, the Government workers will rebuke these tactics by turning out in force."

In Atlanta, Ga., Dr. Clark Foreman, president of the Southern Conference, had said he hoped the report would be based on fact, "and not a report of smears-by-innuendo in an attempt to discredit Henry Wallace, who is speaking under the auspices of our Washington committee at the Watergate next Monday evening—the day following the scheduled release of this weekend report."

Observers to Attend

Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.) of the House Committee said observers would note who occupies the platform at the Wallace rally Monday night and would check on what literature is distributed.

Senator Claude Pepper (D., Fla.) is scheduled to introduce Wallace. Wallace said that copies of the New Republic, the magazine he edits, will be distributed. He said the contents of the magazine will indicate "exactly what I think" and added that anyone is welcome to read it.

Thomas declared that the committee report will show exactly how the Southern Conference for Human Welfare is manipulated by Communists.

He pointed out that Wallace had been listed as an advisory associate for 1947 and 1948 on the organization's list of officers.

Proceeds of the ticket sale from the Wallace rally will go to the regular work of the conference,

Jealousy a Reason

Jim Farley

Franklin D. Roosevelt conducted his administration on a basis of personal loyalty, often swayed on momentous issues by whim and jealousy, former Postmaster General James A. Farley related yesterday.

His own hitherto unexplained break with Mr. Roosevelt, Farley wrote in the first of a series of articles in Collier's, stemmed from the fact that he was not taken "into the bosom of the family" despite his long years of association with "the Boss." He described the gap between them as a "slow, imperceptible drifting apart of political principles" which continued until "the gap yawned unbridgeable."

"White House confidence on politics and policies," Farley wrote at one point, "went to a small band of zealots, who mocked at party loyalty and knew no devotion except to their leader."

"I believe that deep down inside," he wrote again, "he never forgave me for putting party welfare about the personal allegiance he considered his due."

Mr. Roosevelt, according to Farley, employed appointments of Federal judges to force support of his 1937 Supreme Court packing bill.

"First off," he quoted the President as saying, "we must hold up judicial appointments in States where the delegation is not going along. We must make appointments promptly where the

Catholic Group Hits Labor Bill As Aid to Reds

Welfare Conference Urges President To Veto Measure

The social action department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference voiced strong opposition last night to the Taft-Hartley labor bill as one which "will almost inevitably lead to industrial strife and unrest."

It made four specific objections, including one saying that the requirement that union officers disclaim under oath any Communist party links would "lead to serious confusion . . . and play into the hands of the Communists."

"It will prove to be very embarrassing to the great majority of sincere anti-Communists in the American labor movement," the social action department said in an official statement.

"Simply by refusing to sign the required affidavit, a single Communist officer could prevent an otherwise decent and legitimate union from being legally certified for purposes of collective bargaining.

"This provision of the bill is calculated, therefore, to play into the hands of the Communists, who thrive on confusion and disorder."

It called this method "an oversimplified legalistic approach . . . which . . . is rejected as worse than useless by the vast majority of those who have had practical experience in combating the influence of the Communist minority in the labor movement."

The National Catholic Welfare Conference is made up of all the Catholic bishops in the United States who meet annually and elect an administrative board of 10. These board members administer various departments, of which the social action division is one. Headed by Bishop Karl Alter of Toledo, the social action department concerns itself with industrial and economic problems, international peace, interracial matters, etc.

Besides the Communist angle, the department objected to the Taft-Hartley bill on these grounds:

1. To outlaw the closed shop (where only union members may be hired) "is to invite legitimate rebellion on the part of organized labor and consequently to encourage widespread industrial unrest and confusion." Closed shop contracts, "in the vast majority of cases, have operated and are now operating to the mutual benefit of labor and management alike."

Senate to Act On D. C. Funds Bill Next Week

Committee Erases Income Tax Exemption Of Federal Workers

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

The Senate District Committee yesterday voted to send a 14-million-dollar Washington revenue bill to the Senate for action next week.

Its decision forecast a sharp fight later with the House over how the District income tax law should be extended.

Senator Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.) won committee backing for the income tax extension plan originally presented to the House.

Exemption of Federal workers with a domicile elsewhere was passed in the House. The Senate group voted to ask the upper body to cancel that exemption.

The Senate committee also followed up protests from veterans' organizations, by voting to raise from $2000 to $3000 the amount of veterans' disability pensions which the District could not tax. Cain pointed out the effect would be to give a minimum $4000 tax exemption to disabled veterans—$1000 as the personal exemption everyone gets, and a tax-free $3000 in disability pension income.

Complete New Bill

Senator Cain said he expected to present the committee-approved program as a complete new bill. Senate District Chairman C. Douglass Buck (R., Del.) said he would seek Senate action early next week.

Between the House revenue bill passed Monday, and the program cleared by the Senate committee yesterday, the main fighting ground is the design for income tax extension. The House and Senate committee have agreed on these other points:

A four-million-dollar increase in the annual Federal payment, mak-

'Flagrant Miscarriage'

Judge Flays Jury for Freeing Motorist in Traffic Death

A verdict which freed a Baltimore truck driver of a negligent homicide charge was criticized as a "flagrant miscarriage of justice" by Municipal Court Judge George D. Neilson yesterday.

Marvin B. Stevens, 33, who went on trial in connection with the death of 87-year-old John H. Cook, of 515 8th st. ne., March 31, still faces charges of driving while intoxicated and operating on a suspended driver privilege.

The jury of six men and six women deliberated two hours yesterday before returning the not guilty verdict. They had heard two policemen testify Stevens smelled of alcohol and was unsteady on his feet immediately after the accident.

The jury also heard Deputy Coroner Dr. Richard Rosenberg testify a urinalysis disclosed .22 of alcohol in Stevens' body after the accident. Rosenberg said .1 is considered intoxicating.

Cook, a pedestrian, was struck at 1st st. and New York ave. ne. on March 19 and died at Casualty Hospital March 31.

Stevens testified his truck did not strike the man. He said Cook apparently was frightened when Stevens stopped the truck suddenly and fell on the paving, striking his head.

Police Pvt. Joseph A. Meyer of the traffic division, one of the two policemen testifying as to Stevens' sobriety, said he saw the truck strike Cook. The other policeman was Pvt. John C. Vinson of the accident investigation unit.

Stevens' attorney was Michael J. Colbert.

Judge Neilson's criticism lashed the jury immediately after the verdict was read. He repeated the "flagrant miscarriage of justice" and [illegible] it is high time an [illegible] this sort of thing."

Funds Swap May Prevent Fleet Slash

Committee Studies Plan to Make Cuts From 'Old Money' As Navy Safeguard

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

A plan to avoid heavy slashes in naval operating forces by trading in "old money for new" is under consideration by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

This was disclosed on Capitol Hill as Secretary Forrestal asked the committee to restore 301 millions of the 377½ million dollars cut from the 1948 naval budget by the House.

Under the fiscal plan being studied by the Senators the Navy would get most of the money asked for next year, while 1948 expenditures still would be slashed more than proposed by the House. Reductions would come out of the 760 millions voted last year and the year before which are due to be actually spent in 1948.

These carryover funds can be cut with much less harm to national security than new money, an informed source stated. Some projects for which contracts were placed a year or 18 months ago can be dispensed with at far less risk than sharp reductions in the fighting fleets, it was said.

It is a question of hindsight being better than foresight. Some programs launched just after VJ-Day look less promising today.

If Congress decides to follow such a budget plan, it would mean the cancellation of a number of large contracts the Navy has with private firms—some of them partially completed.

The Senate Naval Appropriations Subcommittee yesterday continued hearings on the Navy bill behind closed doors. Lesser naval officials followed Forrestal and Admiral Chester W. Nimtz on the stand.

Officials warned the Senators that the House cuts would seriously weaken America's fleets and our stature before the world.

Testimony was presented showing that even if the House cut in funds for personnel is restored, the number of enlisted men and warships in active service must be further reduced. Later study of the budget estimates for pay and subsistence reveal, it was said, that they will not provide for 425,000 men in 1948, as reported in the Truman budget.

An average of only 400,000 men can be carried on the rolls in 1948 with the $1,240,190,000 asked by President Truman, it was said. As the Navy now totals about 430,000 men, they would have to cut down to 375,000 at the end of fiscal year 1948.

Such a personnel slash, officials said, will require the following ships now in service to be laid up even if the full budget estimate is voted: One Essex-class carrier, two escort carriers, three cruisers, four destroyers, two submarines and 20 patrol and auxiliaries.

Labor Party To Discuss Russia As Guide to Britain

London, June 12 (U.P.)—An informed Laborite source said today 600 Labor Party groups throughout the country soon will discuss whether Britain should adopt or adapt Soviet methods to increase her industrial output.

The groups will study the problems of "socialist emulation," establishment of patronage of "good" factories over "bad" ones, creation of special orders of merit for particular achievements in production, the Stakhanov movement and newspaper publicity for praise and criticism of workers and plants.

Easy Way to Help

Pepco Refunds May Be Given To Children's Hospital Fund

Ten cents a month you've already spent can help build a new Children's Hospital.

The lagging public subscription campaign to pay for the new hospital was revitalized yesterday with a plan whereby Potomac Electric Power Co. consumer refunds will be donated to the building drive.

Private consumers are due $690,616 under the refund from the company. The hospital needs at least $80,000 to complete its fund.

The refunds represent 10 cents per month over a three-year period and maximum payment will be $3.60. To make your donation to Children's Hospital, clip out the coupon appearing in today's Post, fill out the authorization and mail it to Room 200, Washington Post, or to the the electric company. Postcard acknowledgments will be sent to the consumer by Pepco.

Ten-Cent-a-Month Refund

The amount of refund due each customer is computed at 10 cents per month from March 1, 1944, to February 20, 1947. Any customer on the electric company's lines during that period, but for less than three years, will be refunded on the 10-cents-per-month basis.

Acknowledgment and "thank-you" cards also will be mailed to each donor by the hospital.

The goal to build a new hospital to replace the 75-year-old structure on W st. between 12th and 13th sts. is $1,300,000. According to original estimates, at least $78,000 is still needed. Since that time, however, construction costs have risen and the hospital's needs will require in excess of that amount.

The new, modern fireproof hospital will provide 75 additional beds over current capacity. Largest of the hospital's buildings was condemned 20 years ago by the building department as unsuitable for housing patients. It has been used since then for administrative offices, nurses' quarters and supply rooms.

The movement to appeal for donation of the refund money began with a letter to Pepco from Frank Lyon, 79-year-old pioneer attorney and land developer.

Lyon, long-time Arlington county resident and developer of Lyon Park and Village in nearby Virginia, sent copies of the letter to newspapers and radio stations here.

The Post approached Pepco officials, proposing widespread adoption of Lyon's idea. Officials con-

Militant Activity Sweeps 7 Nations Despite Protests Of U. S., Britain

London, June 12 (U.P.)—A Communist-inspired political purge swept through eastern Europe today. It appeared to be intensifying despite the increasingly insistent protests to Russia by the United States and Great Britain.

Twenty-three opposition members of Parliament were expelled in Bulgaria.

Romanian and British sources report a purge under way in Romania and asserted that the Communists were preparing to overthrow the government coalition of which they are a part.

The Warsaw radio reported that four members of the Polish Parliament, belonging to the opposition Peasant Party, had been arrested on the charge of distributing "anti-government pamphlets."

Greek Reds Hit U. S.

In Greece, the Political Bureau of the Communist Central Committee, asserted that Greece was coming under control of an "American gaulieter" — former Gov. Dwight Griswold of Nebraska, named to administer President Truman's aid program—and said it was completing organizational and technical preparations to meet the situation.

With this outburst, militant Communist activity had spread to seven eastern European countries—Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania, Poland, Greece, Czechoslovakia and Austria.

The London Star reported from Paris that the United States and Britain were "about ready" to "launch their counter-proposal against an expansion of the Soviet sphere of influence in Eastern and Central Europe." The dispatch said that the program had been agreed on some time ago but was held up while there was hope of Russian collaboration.

The Bulgarian expulsions, demanded by a parliamentary election committee, were approved on the ground that the deputies in question had submitted written resignations to Nikola Petkov—jailed agrarian party leader—for use if he desired in any political situation—and thus had forfeited their mandates.

Resignations Found in Safe

Parliament Speaker Vasil Kolarov, of Premier Georgi Dimitrov's Communist Party, said that the resignations were found in a safe in the apartment of Petkov, whose recent arrest on charges of anti-government conspiracy caused an international sensation.

"They lost their dignity and quality as members of Parliament," Kolarov said, because they subjugated their will to Petkov.

"To honor the will of the electorate," he added, "the seats of the expelled deputies would be given to the candidates who ran second to them in the general election last October.

(This undoubtedly would mean that most if not all of the deputies would be replaced by Communists. Unlike other countries where Communist activities are now in the spotlight, the Communists are dominant in the Bulgarian Parliament.)

(The Russian official news agency Tass, in a Moscow broadcast recorded in New York, said that the deputies expelled included Asen Pavlov, former agriculture

President Says U. S. Desires Friendship of Every Nation

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Montebello, Quebec, June 12.—In an interview under a maple tree, President Truman today said that the United States wants friendship with every nation in the world.

He told reporters to underline the word every.

This appeared to be a broad hint to Soviet Russia of America's desire for friendship, the first that Mr. Truman has given since he laid down his "Doctrine" for halting aggressive Communism in the world.

Mackenzie King at Side

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who was standing alongside the U. S. Chief Executive, spoke up and said that Canada likewise wanted friendship with all the countries of the world.

"I am going to keep alongside you, as good neighbors," Mackenzie King said.

President Truman enunciated his "Montebello Declaration" in an extraordinary press conference at the famous Seigniory Club.

This is a vast and swanky establishment of 104 square miles once owned by the Grand Seigneur, Louis Joseph Papineau, celebrated French-Canadian patriot.

Mr. Truman drove 48 miles from Ottawa to the little Quebec town of Montebello where the club is situated. He had luncheon with United States Ambassador Ray Atherton in the 97-year-old Papineau Manor House and then drove over to the golf course.

He found reporters standing outside the log clubhouse, where they had been surveying the rolling green hills.

He told them he had something to say and led them over to a point near the eighteenth hole. Standing under the tall maple tree, flanked by red-coated Mounties, he talked with the understanding that he was not to be quoted directly.

This is what he said:

The Canadian trip had been most interesting, an event in the history of the two countries. He thought the two countries would understand each other better as a result of the visit.

He hoped that the Canadians would now pay the United States a visit. There wasn't a chance in the world that they would get a reception such as he has received

U. S. Program To Aid Europe Taking Shape

State Aides Say Nations Must Stress Recovery Not Politics

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

Two of Secretary Marshall's closest advisers last night filled in additional details of the emerging program of large-scale American help in the reconstruction of Europe and Asia.

State Department Counselor Benjamin V. Cohen, speaking in California, said priority should go to specific programs, such as coal production and transport, which would help to revive the European economy as a whole.

He confirmed the estimate in last Friday's Post that the "rudimentary rehabilitation needs" of Europe, including Great Britain, might require as much as five or six billion dollars a year for three or four years.

Economic Recovery Paramount

Assistant Secretary Willard Thorp, speaking in New York, said many Europeah and Asiatic countries would have to reexamine and perhaps overhaul some of their domestic policies if American help were to be effective.

To increase their food production, he said foreign countries would have to reconsider compulsory collection systems, rationing, open markets and price structures. To produce and export more raw materials, as in the East Indies, he said they would have to subordinate political controversy to economic recovery.

Secretary Marshall himself told his news conference yesterday that the initiative must come from Europe before he would commit himself further on the problem of reconstruction abroad. He had outlined his ideas at Harvard last week; yesterday he firmly declined to go further in disclosing what procedures would be followed or what conditions, if any, would be imposed by the United States.

Beaten G. U. Student Freed; Assault Complaint Is Planned

By Howard L. Dutkin
Post Reporter

Daniel J. Fitzpatrick, 22-year-old Georgetown University student, who has charged he was beaten by a Metropolitan policeman, yesterday was found not guilty of disorderly conduct.

Immediately after the verdict in Municipal Court, Attorney Edward B. Williams, representing the youth, announced he would file a complaint of assault with a deadly weapon against the policeman, Pvt. James A. Stewart, No. 7 precinct. The charge, a felony, will be lodged with the United States attorney's office today, Williams said.

Judge Nadine Gallagher indirectly criticized the policemen as she rendered the not guilty verdict. "There is no question that the defendant was an innocent victim of a distressing incident," she said.

Earlier the court heard two defense witnesses testify that Stewart, without provocation, blackjacked Fitzpatrick, until blood made his clothing "look like a red uniform."

(Stewart and a fellow-officer, Pvt. Warren L. Garrett, have been suspended and are currently awaiting trial before a police board.)

The trial which directly concerned only the charge against Fitzpatrick, turned into an indictment of Stewart's actions in arresting the youth on the corner of Wisconsin ave. and N st. nw., early June 4.

Besides the accusations of unprovoked assault, lodged against the policeman, the court heard two other witnesses testify that Stewart and Garrett had been drunk in a hamburg tavern earlier that day. Stewart was accused of throwing a

The Gallup Poll

74% Favor Military Training Bill

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., June 12.—President Truman's forthright request to Congress for action on the peacetime military training bill strikes a responsive chord in public opinion.

For four and one half years a substantial majority of voters polled by the Institute have expressed approval of a program of one year's military or naval training for all able-bodied young men. The most recent survey of public opinion on the matter, completed during the first week in June, finds the same high majority in favor, as follows:

"In the future, do you think every physically fit young man (who has not already been in the Armed Forces) should be required to take military or naval training for one year?"

The vote:

Yes	74%
No	21
No opinion	5

That majority is the second highest found in the Institute's surveys on the subject since 1942. In November, 1945, the number favoring peacetime military training was just a trifle higher — 75 per cent.

The current difficulties with Russia may help to account for the large majority in favor of peacetime preparedness. One of the major reasons given by voters in support of the program is that the United States must never again be caught weak and unprepared as she was in 1941. The second reason given in favor of peacetime training is that a taste of military discipline and orderliness would be good for the young men.

The President's advisory commission on military training, headed by Dr. Karl T. Compton of the Massachusetts Institute of Parliament Thrown Into Uproar by Attack on All Who Had Hand in Crisis

Budapest, June 12 (U.P.)—Liberty Party Leader Dezso Sulyok caused an uproar in the Hungarian Parliament today by attacking the Communists, the secret police, the present cabinet and ousted Premier Ferenc Nagy for their parts in the political crisis.

Two hours after he spoke, and caused the suspension of the session, the Peasant Party newspaper appeared on the streets with a report that prosecution authorities intended to arrest him and his deputy.

Lashing out against all elements involved in the crisis and accusing the Communist-dominated interior ministry of trying to trap him into accepting bribes, Sulyok said:

"The city is calm. But it is the calm and peace of fear and terror. There is no democracy here. All of public life is thrown into a net of police espionage. There is no freedom of press or assembly here."

Communists In Frenzy

Roused to a frenzy of anger, Communists cat-called and shouted. The Communist whip stalked from the chamber.

Sulyok spoke unscheduled soon after news reached Parliament that Brig. Gen. George H. Weems, American member of the Allied Control Council, had delivered to Russian Gen. N. P. Sviridov, the man behind the crisis, the State Department's note accusing Russia of a most flagrant interference in Hungarian affairs.

His speech followed also the disclosure that a Russian claim to 825 American-owned paten worth many millions of dolla had been referred to the All Control Council in Berlin. R sia claims the patents as "Germ assets liable to seizure as rep tions."

Szabad Szo, the Peasant Pa paper, said the public prosecu intended to arrest both Sul and his deputy, Janos Nagyivan, the basis of speeches they made a Szeged two months ago.

Frame-Up Attempt Charged

The prosecutor intends to ask the lifting of Sulyok's parliamentary immunity to accuse him of "treacherous and libelous remarks against the government," the newspaper said. Nagyivan, it added, is to be accused of breaking the laws "for the protection of democracy."

Sulyok charged in his speech—a possible foreshadowing of his arrest—that several frame-up attempts had been made recently to trap him into accepting money for "political espionage."

Speaking despite the cat-calls of his opponents, Sulyok charged that the press had been muzzled and appealed to the Catholic Church to suspend negotiations with the government until students, arrested months ago for demonstrating against religious bills, had been released.

Churchill Irked By Cigar Ban After Operation

London, June 12 (U.P.)—The five eminent physicians who operated upon Winston Churchill yesterday for a hernia were surprised today to find their patient sitting up in bed and grumbling about being deprived of his cigars.

They promised him he could have a cigar next Wednesday. There were no further bulletins on his progress, but unofficial reports said he was recovering far more rapidly than his physicians had thought possible. Churchill will be 73 in November.

His present diet is glucose and water, but he may be allowed a full meal Sunday and may go home by the end of next week. He is in a nursing home, presumably in London, which has never been identified.

Argentine Plan

Peron Seizes Scarce Goods, Cuts Prices

Buenos Aires, June 12 (U.P.).—President Juan D. Peron today issued five decrees authorizing the Argentine government to seize private stocks of scarce merchandise and to reduce rents and the price of movie tickets.

In the latest move of his two-week personal campaign against the cost of living, Peron said that clothing prices would be reduced 30 per cent, hotel rates and some rents 17 per cent and movie prices 20 per cent.

Stocks of textiles, shoes and hats throughout Argentina were subjected by the first and most sweeping of the decrees to immediate seizure by the government, which will regulate their sale to the public.

A second decree, aimed to faciliate the "entertainment of the population of modest means," forced movie houses to reduce their rates by 20 per cent on three nights a week if the admission charge is more than 38 cents, and to 20 cents on three other nights, leaving Sunday only for present rates..

The three other decrees all were aimed at relieving the housing shortage. They included an extensive government loan program to facilitate new construction.

Peron said the rent control program would result in a 17 per cent reduction in hotel rates and in some rents, especially of one and two-room modest living quarters.

Manufacturers Fix Prices

The decrees caused a sensation in business and commercial quarters. Peron said:

"The freedom of commerce is not being attacked. The prices at which the seized goods will be sold are those fixed by the manufacturers themselves."

Russian Official Says Nationalists Confuse Emblem

Nanking, June 12 (AP).—Chinese defenders of Sinkiang, beating back invading Outer Mongolian troops, have been bombed and strafed for three days by warplanes with Soviet emblems, Central News Agency said today.

A Russian source in Nanking declared the planes undoubtedly were Outer Mongolian, and that emblems of the two countries were simliar.

Central News Agency emphasized fighting still raged. Chinese concern was reflected by a reliable report that Gen. Pai Chung-hsi, minister of defense, would fly to Tihwa, Sinkiang's capital.

Foreign Minister Wang Shih-chieh was reported to have told a closed meeting of the legislative Yuan (council) that the government was "not unsympathetic" to its demand for a stronger policy toward Russia as a result of the incident in the sprawling northwest province."

Central News Agency said the pro-Soviet Outer Mongolians were driven out of Peitashan, 50 miles inside Sinkiang, on June 7, the day after the government garrison had been forced to withdraw.

Government positions in the area then were bombed and strafed by the warplanes with "Russian emblems" for the next three days, the agency added.

The Russian source said there the Outer Mongolian warplanes all were Russian built and the similarity of emblems probably caused the confusion.

He confirmed that the Russians had trained and equipped a "modern army" in Outer Mongolia, including a small "but surprisingly efficient air force."

There appeared to be some new but undisclosed development in Sinkiang, which had delayed the departure of Defense Minister Pai for Tihwa.

An informed source said he had been given full power by Chiang Kai-shek to seek a solution and had planned to leave at once but a cable from Sinkiang had necessitated further conversations with the generalissimo.

This source said, however, that Pai was expected to leave by plane for Sinkiang "within two or three days."

Geopolitics Now Has Home In U. S., Pravda Writer Says

Moscow, June 12 (AP).—A Pravda mmentator declared today that home of geopolitics had moved Nazi Germany to the United States and that the United States had become the world center of reactionary ideology.

(Geopolitics, the study of the relation between a people's political development and their physical and geographical surroundings, was developed by some German scholars into a theory that Germany in the center of the "heartland" of Europe was destined to rule Europe and the world. Their teachings made a strong impression upon Adolf Hitler.)

The commentator in the Communist party organ said the United States was importing to an increasing extent not only "fascist scientists and specialists for military purposes, but Fascist ideology as well."

"Reactionary bourgeoise social science, or it would be more correct to say false science, is trying presently to establish its ideological base in the plans of American monopolists for world domination," he continued.

The writer said geopolitics was being used by "American imperialists" to justify extension of American influence to "the Pacific Ocean, the North Pole, Central and South America" and so on."

This comment was only one of a series of attacks on the United States appearing in the Moscow press today. Another article in Pravda said Americans in advancing their program of aid to Turkey were showing "complete disregard of Turkish sovereignty."

Another commentator in Trud, trade union newspaper, charged the United States with interfering in the internal affairs of Hungary by cutting off 15 million dollars in credits because of the ouster of Premier Ferenc Nagy.

Weapon Held Equal of Atom

Auckland, N. Z., June 12 (U.P.).—Prof. T. D. J. Leech, who was awarded the order of commander of the British Empire yesterday by King George VI, today was disclosed to be the leading figure in development of an American-British weapon said to be as terrible as the atom bomb.

(A dispatch from Auckland to the London Evening News described the new weapon as an effective alternative to the atom bomb. It quoted Prof. Leech as saying that "by comparison the atom bomb is a clumsy method of making an attack.")

There was no hint of the weapon's nature, and it was doubted that there ever will be unless some other nation starts a war.

It was said to be much cheaper to develop than the atom bomb, and to offer less of a threat to world peace. Research studies of the weapon are reportedly continuing in the U. S., Great Britain and New Zealand.

Work on the weapon originally was started in Florida, but, because of espionage danger, research was transferred to New Zealand, where Prof. Leech was aided by American, British and New Zealand scientists, engineers and high naval authorities.

They worked day and night, and the importance of the task was considered so great that Professor Leech was able to bypass generals and admirals. The coordination of the work involved the highest commands in the United States and United Kingdom.

As in the case of the atom bomb, work on the weapon was split into phases, and only a handful of the men involved knew what the idea was. This was said still to be true.

Reds Assail U. S. Attitude On Atom Plan

Lake Success, June 12 (AP).—Russia demanded today that the United Nations start work now on new Soviet proposals for atomic control and assailed a United States move to keep the Soviet and United States atomic plans apart.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet deputy foreign minister, declared at a closed meeting of the working committee of the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission that the United States and Russian programs must be considered simultaneously on their merits

He opposed a suggestion by Frederick H. Osborn, United States deputy, for separate consideration.

Gromyko charged that Osborn was goingon the attitude that it would be impossible to reach agreement on the basis of the two plans. He declared Russia could not accept responsibility for such an attitude and that the Soviet Union felt all methods and ideas must be fully considered.

The working committee temporarily put aside an expected debate on the veto issue. It addeciding what to do with the new Russian proposals. These were submitted by Gromyko yesterday to the full Atomic Commission but they did not change the fundamental differences between the United States and Russia. They dealt mainly with principles for an international control commission.

Gromyko wants the Commission's political committee to take up his plan without delay but Osborn countered that such an important proposal should be dealt with by the working committee.

Gromyko's move apparently is intended to give it priority over a series of papers on operation, management, and control methods submitted by delegates on all individual basis and not as Government documents. It also would mean that the political committee would be talking about Russian ideas for control while the working committee would be debating Russian amendments designed to put atomic control under the Security Council veto.

Osborn said he feared if the Soviet and nUited States proposals were mixed a hybrid might be produced.. An anthropologist in private life, Osborn said that hybrids are sterile and they have no pride of parentage and no hope of prosterity.

Final 'Look-See' Slated for Today On Rent Ceilings

By the United Press

Senate and House conferees yesterday agreed to meet today for a final "look-see" at legislation to extend Federal rent ceilings until March 1, 1948. All major features were approved Wednesday.

Senate Chairman C. Douglass Buck (R., Del.) said today's conference would be held only to see if "there are any bugs" in the final version, which is expected to be sent to President Truman early next week.

One difficulty that might confront the conferees is over the question of what Federal agency will have charge of the control program. The conferees accepted the Senate plan to put it under Housing Expediter Frank R. Creedon. While they were reaching an agreement, however, the House was approving separate legislation which would abolish Creedon's office June 30.

Ethridge Cites Peril to Greece

Border Security Problem Is Called Country's Greatest

By The Associated Press

Mark F. Ethridge, American member of the United Nations Balkan Inquiry Commission, said after a meeting with Secretary of State Marshall yesterday that border security is the primary requirement for restoration of stability in Greece.

Ethridge plans to confer today with Dwight Griswold, director of the American assistance program in Greece. Griswold is en route to Washington from Germany where he was one of the top officials on the American Government staff.

Ethridge spent about 25 minutes with Marshall and would say of his talk only that the Secretary asked about the work of the inquiry commission and Ethridge told him about it.

Lists Requirements

Asked by reporters to list the chief requirements for restoration of more normal conditions in Greece, Ethridge said:

"Of course, the primary thing is border security. One would hope also for an end to the civil war on generous terms. That would contribute greatly to political stability but that is an internal affair of the Greeks. And then there is the problem of supplying desperately needed economic help as provided in the American program."

Ethridge tersely replied "nuts" to a criticism of him by Yugoslav Ambassador Sava N. Kosanovic because of statements he made about aid furnished to Greek guerillas by Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Albania.

Etheridge had said in an interview last Monday in New York that those three countries were "arming, training, supplying and giving hospitalization and refuge to guerilla forces operating in northern Greece."

U. N. Report Agrees

Kosanovic challenged the propriety of such a statement by Etheridge as a member of a United Nations agency. Ethridge told newsmen that he had made the statement but that the United Nations Commission had said the same thing, but an eight to 2 vote, in its report of its investigation into conditions in Greece.

Kosanovic made his protest in a letter to Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations. The letter said of Ethridge:

'His conduct in this instance makes it permissible to conclude that what he presents to the Security Council will not be the objective findings of an investigator seeking to help the Security Council by ascertaining the facts and thereby making it possible to adopt the right solution for a most important problem, but a very prejudiced report with a specific political aim."

Who, Us?

Chains Shy At Adopting U.S. 'Voice'

By The Associated Press

CBS and NBC radio officials backed hastily away yesterday from a suggestion that the commercial networks take over the State Department's "Voice of America" broadcasts.

The suggestion came from Senator Ball (R., Minn.) at a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee hearing on the State Department request for 34 million dollars to run its international information and cultural program.

Edmund A. Chester, director of CBS shortwave broadcasting, and William F. Brooks, NBC vice president, testified that private business could not afford the 14-million-dollar-a-year broadcast section of the program.

As for commercial networks taking over under contract, the two officials noted that the department has studios, technicians and hundreds of employes already functioning.

Chester and Brooks said the broadcasts should be continued. Chester estimated the listening audience, including Russians, "in the millions."

On the House side, lawmakers expect to resume debate and perhaps complete action today on a measure authorizing the information-cultural program.

On three separate days, sponsors of the bill have attempted to push it through the House, only to run into delays which have brought charges an informal filibuster is under way. The program will expire June 30 unless Congress acts otherwise.

In an effort to whittle down opposition, Representative Mundt (R., S. Dak.) agreed to support an amendment to place the program, if approved, under a 10-member bipartisan advisory control group. This body would be named by the President, subject to Senate confirmation.

The board would include "outstanding Americans" qualified in the fields of journalism, business, radio, education and veterans' affairs. It would be empowered to draft policies and required to report to Congress.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Marshall reiterated at a news conference his desire for continuation of the broadcasts.

Marshall also said he is "unreservedly in favor of the exchange of students, professors and books" with other nations.

"These methods in the long run may be far more important for the interchange of information than broadcasting," he said.

Russians Block Austrian Talks

Vienna, June 12 (AP).—All proposals to widen the scope of discussions by the four-power Austrian Treaty Commission were rejected by Russia today, leaving the commission where it started when sessions began six weeks ago.

This development came as a surprise, in view of yesterday's agreement in principle by all commission members on methods of procedure.

"At no time," U. S. Delegate Joseph M. Dodge said, "have the Russians been willing to give us formal assurance that we would ever proceed to a discussion of anything but oil."

Under yesterday's tentative agreement, discussions of Austrian assets would include oil, Danube shipping, financial institutions, industry and state property, with not more than two consecutive meetings devoted to any one subject.

Romania Arrests Thousands

Gen. Nicolae Radescu, who served as Premier after the Russians invaded Romania, was one of the informants on the Romanian situation, which was sumarized thus:

1. Pro-Soviet Premier Petru Groza's government has arrested thousands of political opponents.

2. The Communists are steadily filtering into key administrative posts preparatory to throwing over the six-party coalition in which they rank fourth in the number of seats held in Parliament.

3. Information seeping out of Bucharest is that the Communists hope to complete their coup by November.

Radescu said that the Russians organized a demonstration against him in February, 1945, to force him from the Prime Ministry. He charged that they shot eight of their own supporters "so they could call me a people's murderer and prevent me from holding free elections as I intended."

The Central Committee directs the Greek guerilla army of an estimated 15,000 men.

In its first statement since September, the Political Bureau said that its "democratic" army was growing stronger as a result of "the Greek people's hatred of monarchy-fascism and its foreign protectors."

The only intervention that has occurred in Greece, the bureau said, is that of the United States and Great Britain, which have turned the country into "an anti-Balkan, anti-Soviet bridgehead and an American protectorate with a person who had police duties in subjugated Hitlerite Germany as a gauleiter."

and submitting to the domination of the Marxist parties, Sulyok said:

"Hungary has fallen between two chairs as a result of Nagy's equivocal policy. Both the Soviet Union and the Western powers have lost confidence in Hungarian politics. Hungary must now make herself independent of the great powers and pursue an independent foreign policy."

Sulyok said the solution of the political crisis lay in forming a true coalition without the revival or reaction and without "the fear that such a coalition would lead to a Marxist revolution and single-handed dictatorship."

If Nagy had been frank in his dealings, he said, the situation would now be different. When Nagy finally failed, he said, the Leftists "allowed him to escape—an excellent political maneuver for then they could make him appear a traitor." The result of Nagy's policies, he said, was that Russia distrusted all non-Marxist parties and the Western countries see Hungary as a mere Russian satellite.

He also criticized Premier Lajos Dinnyes for failing, in his maiden speech in Parliament yesterday, to mention the new electoral law which is to disenfranchise more than 10 per cent of the country's registered voters.

Sulyok said that, though foreign reports exaggerated the situation here, civil liberties had been suppressed.

"It is not true that there are bloodshed and barricades in the streets," he said.

Communist Leader Joszef Revai stalked dramatically from the chamber in anger and shouts of "Fascist" came from Communist members. Sulyok turned to Communist Interior Minister Laszlo Rajk and said:

"It was no use sending political spies to me. Not long ago I had a visitor who asked if I would accept financial assistance from Anglo-Saxons. Well, it's a waste of time trying to trick me this way. I will not be deceived by such tactics."

After Sulyok's speech, the speaker suspended the order of business, including speeches by other opposition leaders and a vote of confidence in the new cabinet, and adjourned the session until next Wednesday.

Sulyok and 15 adherents were expelled from the Smallholders Party of ousted Premier Ferenc Nagy in April, 1946. A prewar liberal and wartime resistance leader, his party is conservative and opposes Soviet domination.

Nagy Expected In U. S. Tomorrow

By the United Press

A State Department spokesman said last night that ousted Premier Ferenc Nagy of Hungary "has expressed a desire to come to the United States," and Hungarian sources said they expect him to arrive at New York's LaGuardia airport at noon tomorrow

The Hungarian spokesman said that originally, Nagy and his family were due in New York last night, but their Trans-World airliner has been delayed in Cairo, Egypt.

He said the Premier will board the plane in Geneva, Switzerland and proceed directly to the United States.

He said that the plane will probably be met in New York by Hungarian Ambassador Aladar Szegedy-Maszak and Ferenc Nagy, Jr. Both Szegedy-Maszak and young Nagy are still in Washington.

French Railroad Strike Ends, But Country Fears Others Due

Paris, June 12 (AP).—France's railroad strike ended today but fears were expressed that in its wake would come increased pressure by labor for a general wage hike that might touch off the worst wave of strikes since the end of the war.

Premier Paul Ramadier expressed the belief that France's "social climate will be measurably improved" because of the strike settlement, but many legislators, including members of his own Socialist Party, differed with him.

In all recent major strikes or strike threats, workers have succeeded in getting more money, either in bonuses or job reclassifications. Said one deputy from the middle-of-the-road MRP party:

"The wage freeze program no longer exists. The dam has broken."

The Communist-dominated General Labor Confederation (CGT), France's largest labor union, has said it will formally pronounce judgment on Ramadier's wage-freeze, price-lowering economic program by July 1. Ramadier has declared he intends to postpone his promised reexamination of all wages from July 1 to December 1.

A forecast of things that may come was seen in tomorrow's one-day strike by several thousand state-employed street cleaners, firemen and administrative personnel. Postal and telephone company employes have threatened to strike in three weeks if they are not given wage satisfaction.

The rail strike was settled when Ramadier consented to give the workers an increase amounting to 9,900,000,000 francs ($82,500,000).

Freed in Austria

Diplomat Is Acquitted Of Treason

Vienna, June 12 (AP).—A people's court today acquitted Guido Schmidt, 49-year-old Austrian diplomat, of charges that he betrayed his country by helping to pave the way for Adolf Hitler's easy annexation of Austria in 1938.

Dr. Schmidt

The five-man court trying Schmidt for treason held that the prosecution failed to substantiate charges that the former Austrian Foreign Minister had negotiated secretly with the Nazis to bring about the downfall of Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg. The court said Schmidt never belonged to the Nazi Party and did not profit from anschluss, as the prosecution asserted.

U. S. Asks All For Friendship

in Canada, but we would do the best we can.

The objective of the visit to Mexico and the visit to Canada was to solidify the friendship of the people who live on this continent. The United States wants to do that for the whole Western Hemisphere and then it wants to do it for the whole world.

The aim of the United States is peace in the world for the benefit of all the peoples of the world. Unless that can be achieved, all the men who died in both World Wars died in vain.

(Mr. Truman repeated the foregoing and said that was exactly what it meant.)

The United States, he went on to say, has but one objective in view and that is peace in the world and friendship with every nation in the world.

It was here that he said to underline the word EVERY.

As happens at White House conferences, the reporters said, "Thank you, Mr. President." The 100 or so American, British and Canadian newsmen were about to disband when Prime Minister Mackenzie King started to talk.

Canada Pledged

"I want to say on behalf of the Canadian government," he said, "that every sentiment that the President has expressed is reechoed in the hearts of all of us who had the great pleasure of meeting him and talking to him on his delightful visit to our country."

President Truman, turning to Canadian leader, chuckled and said that he wasn't trying to put him on the record, but that he had gone on the record, anyway.

Mackenzie King then made the remark about Canada standing alongside the United States as a good neighbor.

The country club interview was a sequel to President Truman's triumph yesterday when he won his greatest ovation after outlining American foreign policy before the Canadian Parliament.

It was just a week before that he condemned as outrageous the Communist coup in Hungary, which was widely interpreted as a counter move to the "Stalin Doctrine."

Carefully Worded

Despite the setting for today's press conference, and the seeming informality that surrounded it there was no question but that Mr. Truman had studied his words carefully before uttering them.

He spoke with considerable emphasis when he said that the United States wanted friendship with every nation in the world. And his suggestion to the reporters that they underline the word every was clearly something he had in mind to say long before he started.

What prompted Mr. Truman to go out of his way to say this—which everybody who heard him him interpreted as a gesture toward Russia—was something best known to himself.

It might be mentioned, however, that some of the Canadian papers, in commenting on his speech yesterday, said that he apparently took it for granted that there had to be "two worlds" or a "split world."

Leaving the Seigniory Club this afternoon, Mr. Truman returned to Ottawa in a limousine that traveled through the blooming Quebec country at 50 miles an hour.

At the American Embassy, he awarded the Legion of Merit to Lieutenant General Foulkes, chief of the general staff of the Canadian army.

The Presidential Special was to start the return trip to Washington at 11:30 p. m., Washington time. Mr. Truman has directed that, on the way back, the train stop at Niagara Falls so that he and the First Lady can see that spectacle for the first time.

Socialization in Germany Rests With People

Berlin, June 12 (U.P.).—Frank L. Howley, director of American Military Government in Berlin, announced today that U. S. Military Government would not hinder or obstruct socialization in Germany, provided the German people themselves want it.

"But we want to be sure that it is what the German people want and not what a noisy minority wants," he emphasized, saying that socialization could be established by referendum or a new, permanent constitution.

Howley said the United States realized Germany was one of the birthplaces of socialistic ideas, and that Americans were not as hostile to socialism as was popularly supposed.

"It is only fair to say that the United States favors private industry for itself because it gave us the highest standard of living," he added. "However, there are many people in the United States who believe in socializing certain activities."

The question of socializing German industry has been one of the main obstacles holding up American-British planning for the future of their zones, which are combined for economic purposes. The ruling British Labor Party naturally favors socialization of German industry, because that is the basis of its program at home.

Howard C. Petersen, assistant United States Secretary of War, said in Berlin last week that the differences between the United States and Britain on that point was more than "fundamental."

U. S. Aid Plans Given Shape

of "Europe" he had in mind in his Harvard speech, he answered that he meant the commonly accepted idea of Europe—namely, west of Asia. Some reporters thought his reply was cryptic; it left them still uncertain whether he meant to include Soviet Russia in the scope of his projected reconstruction program.

His emphasis on European initiative suggested that the United States was looking to some European government, or group of governments, to convene whatever conference might be needed to work out common programs and common requirements, in accordance with his Harvard speech.

Jean Monnet, author of the French reconstruction plan, has discussed such conference informally on a recent visit to London; Eelco van Kleffens, the new Dutch Ambassador to the United States, has also been active in making preliminary soundings for his government. There have also been informal discussions here between American officials and British, Canadian, French and Dutch representatives in Washington.

First Move Up to Europe

It may be that the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg will make the first move, since they have already launched the first genuine economic union on the European continent.

In any case, Secretary Marshall made it plain that the first move would have to come from across the Atlantic rather than from the United States.

Although the Secretary was careful not to seem to be dictating to Europe, both Counselor Cohen and Assistant Secretary Thorp did not hesitate last night to suggest some of the prerequisites of large-scale American aid.

Cohen, addressing the Junior Chamber of Commerce at Long Beach, Calif., in one of his rare public speeches, said the United States must help to "win the peace" in two ways:

"In the first place," he said, "we can and must make it clear that we ourselves intend to live by the Charter of the United Nations and that we will exercise all our power and influence to see that other nations, large and small, live by the Charter.

Ravages Underestimated

"In the second place, we can and must exert ourselves to help those countries whose economies have been shattered by the war to become again economically self-supporting. For only if the war-wrecked countries of the world are restored to health will their people feel that they have a stake in the peaceful world of law that is worth defending."

He admitted that previous American economic programs "underestimated the ravages done to the European economy, the time which would be taken to restore its effective functioning, the substantial rise in the costs of American exports, and other factors."

The important problem now, he said, "is not whether Europe should be helped but how Europe should be helped."

"If we are to assist in intelligent programs of economic aid for Europe," said Cohen, "our first and primary objective should be to assist programs that will rebuild a self-supporting European economy. Until the European economy does become self-supporting it is difficult to see how Europe can make substantial payment of capital or interest except as she borrows from or puts off payment to Peter in order to pay Paul."

This was interpreted as an indirect way of saying that the United States cannot expect interest repayment—not, at least, for a long time—of whatever dollars it may make available to put Europe on its feet.

"We must not forget," Cohen went on, "that unless we wish to subsidize heavily our future foreign trade, we can, over the long term, be repaid only in goods and services which we are willing to accept and in investments which we are willing to hold in foreign countries. If we wish to preserve over the long term our economic position in the world, we must build up and replenish the resource base upon which the continuance of our productivity and prosperity depends.

"Inasmuch as the economies of the individual European states are closely interrelated, priority in economic aid should be given to programs which will serve to revive the European economy as a whole. Particular consideration should be given to projects which will serve to remove economic bottlenecks which obstruct the efforts of European states to increase their trade and production.

"For example, whatever we can do to help increase coal production and facilitate its transport would have a stimulating effect upon the economy of nearly every European country."

As examples, Cohen suggested a project to increase European food production by the supply of fertilizer, seed and farm machinery.

"We should consider our help to Europe and other countries not merely in terms of dollars but in terms of the production and goods for which the dollars are to be used."

Assistant Secretary Thorp, addressing the American Marketing Association in New York, warned that Europe would cut down its imports from the United States unless it got credits or grants to pay for them.

"There are various signs," he said, "that the present situation will lead in part to increased restrictions against American goods by foreign countries in an effort to husband their resources in hard currencies and to make sure that only essential imports are permitted.

"It seems clear that the level of our foreign trade in the immediate future will be largely determined by the volume of American aid and assistance."

D. C. Hospitals To Seek New GHI Contract

The hospital council of the National Capital area will request a meeting with officials of Group Hospitalization, Inc., to discuss possible contract revisions, it was announced yesterday.

Henry P. Blair, member of the council, said he will make the request as soon as he has compiled statistics on hospital expenses.

J. G. Capossela, head of a special committee to study the local nursing situation, made the following suggestions to the council:

1. That further study and consideration be given to the bill for the licensing of practical nurses but no action be taken before next January.

2. That an in-training program for nurses aides, which would meet the requirements for training of practical nurses, be set up in all hospitals.

3. That at least two of the five members of the present Nurses' Examining Board be directors of nursing in hospitals having nursing schools.

4. That practical nurses be licensed by a board including two representatives each of the Graduate Nurses' Association and the Undergraduate and Practical Nurses Association, and one each of the Hospital Council, Board of Education, medical profession, public health officials and professional women's organizations.

5. That an advisory council be appointed to the Nurses' Examining Board, made up of the president of the Graduate Nurses' Association and two members each from the Hospital Council, the District Medical Society and local educational leaders.

No action was taken on the suggestions.

ferred with PUC members and obtained approval of the plan.

A similar plan to turn in invalidated streetcar tokens netted Children's Hospital close to $2500.

Yesterday, the hospital received 318 tokens, bringing the total to 25,179. These were redeemed for a total of $2098.25 in cash. A total of 6060 envelopes have been received by the hospital. Along with the tokens, $488.36 in cash was sent in. The token refund plan was suggested by Bill Gold in the District Line column of The Washington Post.

Public Sentiment Receptive To Peacetime Training Bill

Technology, turned in a report early this month unanimously recommending a one-year training period.

The interviews on which this poll is based were obtained before the report of the President's Advisory Commission. This report might be expected to increase even further the already overwhelming majority in favor of military training.

Whether Congress will take action at this session is uncertain, according to Washington observers. But the position of the general public on the principle of peacetime training should be clear from the following trend in Institute polls.

	Yes.	No.	No op.
Dec., 1942	66%	27%	7%
Nov., 1943	63	29	8
Sept., 1944	63	23	14
Dec., 1944	70	25	5
Feb., 1945	69	22	9
May, 1945	70	24	6
July, 1945	69	24	7
Oct., 1945	70	24	6
Nov., 1945	75	21	4
TODAY	74	21	5

PEACETIME training is one of those issues on which the minority side is apt to bring more pressure to bear on Congress than the majority. Mothers and fathers who do not want to see their sons have military training in peacetime tend to be more vocal in their opposition to such a bill than those who are willing to see their boys make the sacrifice. People willing to undergo sacrifice are seldom likely to make a big noise about it.

One of the facts that stands out clearly in today's survey is the remarkable uniformity of support for peacetime military training in all major population groups. As the following table indicates, all favor the program by 70 per cent or more.

	Yes	No	No opin.
Veterans of World War II	76%	21%	3%
By age
21-29	74	23	3
30-49	75	21	4
50 and over	73	20	7
By sex
Men	73	22	5
Women	75	20	5
By parties
Democrats	77	18	5
Republicans	71	24	5
By education
College	70	26	4
High School	73	24	3
Grade Schol or no school	76	18	6

(The Post Poll on June 9 showed 76 per cent of Washingtonians favor peacetime military training, 20 per cent were opposed and 4 per cent undecided.)

Marshall Encouraged by Korean Prospects

Secretary Marshall expressed the hope yesterday that a provisional government for all of Korea could be formed soon as a result of the resumed talks of the joint Soviet-American commission in Seoul.

The commission's recent agreement to start consulting Korean democratic parties was "especially gratifying," said the Secretary, since failure to reach such agreement last year caused an indefinite adjournment of its work.

He announced that consultations with Korean parties and social organizations would start at Seoul in the American zone on June 25 and would continue at Pyengyang in the Soviet zone on June 30.

Held Up by Differences

Formation of a provisional government for all of Korea was provided in the Moscow agreement of December, 1945, but has been prevented since then by Soviet-American disagreements. As soon as such a government is formed—in all of Korea if possible, in the American zone if not—civilian occupation authority can be turned over to State Department from War Department control.

The Secretary dealt with a wide range of other questions at his news conference, as follows:

1. He welcomed the progress of Dutch-Indonesian negotiations, and expressed the hope "that a peaceful solution will be achieved promptly in a spirit of good faith and compromise."

Confirms Armour's Duties

(2) He confirmed the news that Norman Armour, newly appointed Assistant Secretary, would have charge of all four "geographical" offices in the Department. Heretofore, the Secretary explained, Undersecretary Acheson had been handling the work of three of the four offices. He said he would not decide on a replacement for Ellis O. Briggs, director of the office of American Republics Affairs, until Armour assumed his new duties.

(3) He said informal consultations were already going on with other American republics over convening a new hemisphere defense conference at Rio de Janeiro. In spite of suppositions that he would go to Rio himself, the Secretary said he was not ready to assume that he would go.

4. He announced that former Governor Dwight Griswold, newly appointed chief of the United States mission to Greece, would arrive here tomorrow morning for several days of conference. He said the State Department was having no particular difficulties in assembling a competent group to serve in Greece with Griswold.

5. Refuting suggestions that the United States was no longer anxious for an American treaty, he said agreement on an Austrian treaty continued to be very urgent.

6. He said the State Department had no evidence that the Peron government in Argentina was giving active support to the government forces in the civil war in Paraguay.

7. Apparently answering recent criticisms in Congress by Senator Owen Brewster (R., Me.) the Secretary emphasized that bilateral air transport agreements were reciprocal agreements between sovereign nations; that other nations had just as much right to deny flying rights to American planes as the United States had to deny rights to them.

Civilization Not Near Death, C. P. Taft Says

Oxford, Ohio, June 12 (AP).—Charles P. Taft, president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, said today he did not believe "civilization is at the point of death, nor do I think it even needs a major operation."

Addressing the North American Interseminary Conference at Miami University, Taft said human nature basically remained the same, and added:

"Revolutionary changes won't make things different. Russia has found that out. Russia today is hardly any different than under czars."

New Uranium Fields Found in Australia

Melbourne, June 12 (U.P.).—Australian army officials announced today that new fields of uranium, used in atom bombs, have been discovered within a few miles of the Mount Painter fields which already are being mined.

Three other nearby areas are being prospected, the announcement said.

King George Celebrates His 51st Birthday

London, June 12 (AP).—King George VI officially celebrated his fifty-first birthday today, six months after the actual anniversary December 14.

Thousands watched the traditional spectacle of "trooping the colour," the first such military ritual since 1939 and the day's principal event.

The King, Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Gloucester took the salute of more than 2000 men and officers of the famed Guards. The princess, in blue riding habit and blue peaked cap and riding side saddle a short distance behind her father, was cheered with gusto.

Other members of the royal family, Prime Minister Attlee and fellow cabinet ministers and visiting American airmen saw the show from special positions.

The King, accompanied by the Queen and Princess Margaret, also opened the first Royal tournament since the war at Olympia Stadium where army, navy and airforce vie with each other.

Portsmouth honored the sovereign with a parade and salutes from warships. Most large cities joined London in a display of flags and bunting.

Hospital Drive Lags

Arlington residents were taken to task yesterday by John F. Phelan, director of Arlington Hospital's drive for $47,000.

Phelan said drive collections as of Wednesday totalled only $19,271 of the quota and added that residents "seem unwilling to acknowledge their financial and moral responsibility for their community hospital." Since the campaign was extended on June 2, he said, $10,707 had been contributed with nearly $28,000 still to go.

Party Marks 'Birthday' of King George

By Marie McNair

The sound and fury caused by the last formal garden party at the British Embassy when King George and Queen Elizabeth visited here in 1939, has long since dissipated.

Whom to invite, whom to omit was a question more easily solved for the fete yesterday given by the Ambassador, the Rt. Hon. The Lord Inverchapel in celebration of the birthday anniversary of His Majesty the King.

It was largely an official party. All the Chiefs of Mission and their wives had been asked; the embassies second in command; members of the Supreme Court, the Cabinet and the Congress and a good representation from resident society. In addition there were all staff members of embassies and legations of His Majesty's dominions.

Actually King George was born in December, but the British, nothing if not practical, chose June 9 as his official birthday so the empire might carry out the tradition of celebration when the flowers are in bloom and strawberries are at their height.

Simplicity Is Stressed

Arrangements for the fete yesterday were far more simple than in former years. Guests entered the garden gate. The Ambassador, in well cut white linens, stood at the foot of the broad terrace under the trees.

The gray topper, traditional sartorial accessory at a British garden party, gave way to more informal attire. Garden party frocks with trailing skirts were also conspicuous by their absence. And the eternal feminine question "of what to wear" was dictated by the weather.

Skirts ended just below the knee or else at the ankle. There were but two ladies in the gathering wearing gowns which swept the greensward. But it was a colorful scene with the garden dotted with bright frocks and uniforms; a striped marquee at the foot of the sloping lawn, and buffets offering iced punch and fruit juices and coffee ice cream.

The Soviet Ambassador and Mme. Novikov were among the first to arrive—and to leave.

The Portuguese Ambassador, Joao de Bianchi, in white linens, carried his movie camera in hand while Mme. de Bianchi in a flower splashed black gown and pink tulle hat fanned herself under the trees.

The Cuban Ambassador and Senora de Belt were there as were the Egyptian Ambassador and Mme. Hassan, the Ambassador of El Salvador and Senora de Castro, the Ambassador of China and Mme. Wellington Koo.

The New Zealand Minister, Sir Carl Berendsen was talking with the South African Minister and Mrs. Harry Andrews; India's Ambassador, Asaf Ali headed the Indian Embassy group which included among others the First Secretary and Mme. Baig. The stalwart figure in white with a yellow turban turned out to be Mr. Gruewal of the Indian Education Mission.

Chief Justice and Mrs. Fred Vinson arrived from Alexandria where they had attended the wedding of Hugo Black, jr., son of Justice and Mrs. Black and Miss B. Graham Hobson. Justice and Mrs. Robert Jackson were others from the Supreme Court circle and the Cabinet had representation in Mrs. Robert Patterson, wife of the Secretary of War and Mrs. James Forrestal, wife of the Secretary of the Navy who was accompanied by her young son, Michael.

Others Present

Mrs. James F Byrnes, wife of the former Secretary of State, chatted at length with Mrs. Walter F. George, wife of the Senator from Georgia. Senator and Mrs. Tom Connally were stopped at every step, as was Speaker of the House Joe Martin.

Then there were Senator and Mrs. Robert Taft, Representative Sol Bloom and his daughter Vera. Also in the gathering were former Attorney General and Mrs. Francis Biddle, Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, General and Mrs. Gordon Young, Admiral Sir Henry Moore and Admiral Agnew of the Canadian Joint Staff, with their heads together; Mrs. Dean Acheson, Gen. and Mrs. Hoyt Vandenberg, Marriner Eccles, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, Judge and Mrs. George Neilson, Representative and Mrs. Albert Thomas of Texas; Senator and Mrs. Alexander Wiley, Mrs. Robert Love Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Whittemore, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Witt and Mrs. C. J. Roberts, wife of the King's Foreign Service Messenger.

Mead to Appear as Witness in May, Garsson Case

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

Former Senator James M. Mead (D., N. Y.) will be called as a defense witness in the May-Garsson bribe-conspiracy trial next week.

Mead will be asked about papers that Henry and Murray Garsson claim have been missing ever since Mead's agents seized them. He will not be asked about the part his political ambitions may have played in the Senate investigation of the Garsson munition contracts.

Justice Henry A. Schweinhaut ruled yesterday that Mead's ambition to be Governor, or President, had nothing to do with whether the Garssons bribed Andrew Jackson May when he was a Congressman. Defense Counsel Charles J. Margiotti then said he would call Mead to the stand to tell what happened to the Garsson papers. The brothers claim they need them for their defense.

Justice Schweinhaut said yesterday that it looked like the trial would end late next week, but arguments are likely to carry it well into the following week. There will be no sessions today or Monday, because Margiotti has to argue a case in the Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia.

Wheat Surplus Danger Cited By Anderson

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The specter of overproduction and price supports for wheat was raised in the Senate Agriculture Appropriations Subcommittee yesterday, when Secretary of Agriculture Anderson warned against slashing price support funds.

Anderson, whose department proudly predicted Tuesday that this year's wheat harvest would be a world-beater of 1.4 billion bushels, told Senators the Ukraine also is facing a bumper crop.

As a result, he said, his department will seek a reduction in acreage planted to wheat this fall for next year's crop.

The Russian harvest, he said, promises to be the greatest in 50 years.

"That will make Russia the greatest wheat salesman," he added. "I've been that for several years."

Defends Program

"Salesman or Santa Claus?" asked Senator Henry C. Dworshak (R., Idaho).

"Salesman," snapped Anderson. "We get paid for every bit. Let some other department worry about where the money comes from."

Anderson asserted that the potato program, in which 80 million dollars were paid out in price supports, really returned a profit for the Government. Additional internal revenue taxes on beverage alcohol made from part of the surplus, amounted to more than the potato losses, he said.

If the House-approved appropriation bill for Agriculture becomes law, Anderson said, it will require the Government "to break promises to farmers, which Congress had plainly directed us to make."

Crop Contracts Cited

Anderson said that 540.000 "valid contracts" with farmers have been made by the Crop Insurance Corporation.

Crop insurance for wheat farmers, he said, had showed a profit for the Government. He pictured as unfair the House proposal to cut off the service, after agreements for this year have already been accepted.

Congress established a soil conservation program in 1936, and last year "committed itself firmly to provide 300 million dollars" for the year starting July 1, he said.

"Now comes this appropriation bill in which the House has voted not 300 million but around 165 million.

"It would provide for payments to farmers of 150 million instead of 267 million, which had been planned.

"It would cut national and State administrative expenses from the required amount of about 8½ million to 1 1/3 million.

"It would cut funds for county committees from the 22½ million required, to 11 million."

Pleads for Lunch Program

If the cut stands, Anderson said, the rates of payment would have to be slashed in two.

"Many farmers have already received advances of materials" he said. From them we would have to collect millions of dollars, representing the difference between their share of the cost of such materials and services at the announced rates, and their share of the reduced rates.

"You can't run a program that way. You can't even liquidate it properly."

Anderson pleaded also for the school lunch program, cut by the House from 75 million to 45 million dollars. "Last year," he said, "we asked for 75 million, and Congress raised it to 81 million. Now Congress cuts it in half. How can we plan intelligently under those conditions?"

He urged funds for the operation of the Forest Products Laboratory at Madison, Wis., cut out by the House. He related profits accruing to the Government from its operations.

Soil Depleted

He declared that the farmers were entitled to aid under the soil-conservation program to help build back the soil depleted by heavier demands for food.

He urged the farm tenancy program, to aid veterans wishing to buy farms.

He declared elimination of an item of $600,000 in the forestry program, "eliminated the possibility of a return of two and one-half million dollars to local, State and Federal Government in timber fees."

Anderson's proposals appeared to be well received. Support for many items, such as soil conservation, rural electification and crop insurance was expressed by several Republican members.

As part of the department's presentation, charts were introduced showing that employment at Agriculture has been reduced to 73,000 persons from a wartime-peak of 103,000.

Wages Challenged

This showing was challenged by Chairman C. Wayland Brooks (R., Ill.) who asked how much average wage payments had increased.

He had been told, he said, that the Agriculture average wage in 1940 had been $2081; that it now is $3413.

'Lute Song' Star Pleads For Tolerance

Dolly Haas, attractive red-haired star of "Lute Song," hopes to interest her profession in spreading tolerance and understanding.

She revealed that yesterday in an informal talk to the Washington Roundtable of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, at the Willard Hotel.

Miss Haas, a Lutheran who left Germany in 1934 because she "saw what was coming," feels the theater can make a great contribution to democracy by using its natural talents.

Thus, when she returns to New York City this weekend after "Lute Song" closes at the National Theater, she will "buttonhole" stage folks and ask them to speak on tolerance before high schools and other groups in cities where they are appearing.

The star feels its important to get the message of religious tolerance across to school children, since "they need to learn to think for themselves." She said she had seen the minds of Nazi youth "poisoned" by hate propaganda and warned against the infiltration of such ideas into America.

During World War II, Miss Haas was the counterpart of "Axis Sal" and "Tokyo Rose," through her OWI program, "Music for Margaret," beamed daily at 4:30 a. m. to her native land. Many of her broadcasts were jokes on Hitler, she related.

Miss Haas was introduced by Mrs. Verna D. Linzel, director of the Washington Roundtable of the National Conference of Christians and Jews. In private life, Miss Haas is the wife of Al Hirschfeld, caricaturist on the New York Times. They have a red-haired, 1½-year-old daughter, Nina.

Oliver Appointed Union Arbitrator

Labor Attorney Eli Oliver has been named union arbitrator in negotiations between the Arnold Bus Co. and the bus drivers' union, union business agent Jack G. Hodges said yesterday.

Representing the bus company will be Arbitrator Douglas L. Hatch, who has handled its labor relations work since 1944. Both men now have 10 days in which to pick a third and neutral arbitrator, Hodges said.

The bus drivers' union, Local 1097, Amalgamated Association of Street Railway and Motor Coach Employes (AFL) seeks a flat 38-cent hourly increase for all its drivers, added vacation time, overtime pay, and severance pay provisions.

Mrs. Roosevelt Won't Run for Vice President

Jamestown, N. Dak., June 12 (AP).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt declined today to become a candidate for Vice President, saying "nothing could induce me to run for any public office."

North Dakota Democrats, at an April meeting in Fargo, adopted a resolution indorsing her as a running mate for President Truman in 1948. A copy of the resolution was mailed to Mrs. Roosevelt.

Today Daphna Nygaard of Jamestown, national Democratic committee woman for North Dakota, received a letter from Mrs. Roosevelt.

"While I am honored by this evidence of confidence, I feel I must tell you that nothing could induce me to run for any public office," Mrs. Roosevelt wrote. "I seriously doubt any woman could be nominated, but even in that eventuality, I could not even permit my name to be entered."

Predicts Wallace Candidacy

Los Angeles, June 12 (AP).—The Los Angeles Times asserted today that "Henry Wallace will toss his hat in the ring for President within the next two months."

A story by Kyle Palmer, Times political editor, said that Wallace "will be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in the preferential primaries of California and in at least a dozen other States.

"Machinery looking to the organization of a Wallace-for-President Committee here (Los Angeles) is in operation—with the knowledge and consent of the former Vice President and Cabinet officer.

"Hoping to stir the fires of insurgency among 'Progressive' Democrats throughout the Nation, Wallace and his supporters will center their drive in the West and along the Pacific Coast."

The paper said Robert W. Kenny, former California attorney general and one-time Democratic candidate for Governor, "and others not yet willing to publicly identify themselves with the Wallace revolt" were supporting the movement.

Kenny is now Southern California chairman of the Progressive Citizens of America which sponsored Wallace's recent speaking appearance in Los Angeles.

The Times said Wallace supporters figure he would have a better-than-even chance to win delegates of California, Oregon, Washington, Colorado and Idaho, and would make "a formidable showing in various other Western and Middle Western States."

Dewey Trip Causes Speculation

By The Associated Press

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's scheduled invasion of the West stirred fresh speculation in Washingtn yesterday of a possible stop-Dewey drive among other prospective candidates for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination.

The New York Governor's July junket to scenic points beyond the Mississippi is frankly regarded among Republican politicians here as more of a vote-seeking trip than the sight-seeing tour it has been labeled in Albany dispatches.

While Dewey has said he is taking his family along and making no speeches, friends of the 1944 nominee haven't tried to deny that he plans to meet about as many local Republican leaders as want to see him.

He will make a stop in Salt Lake City for the annual Governors' conference, which sometimes has provided a sounding board for Dewey in the past.

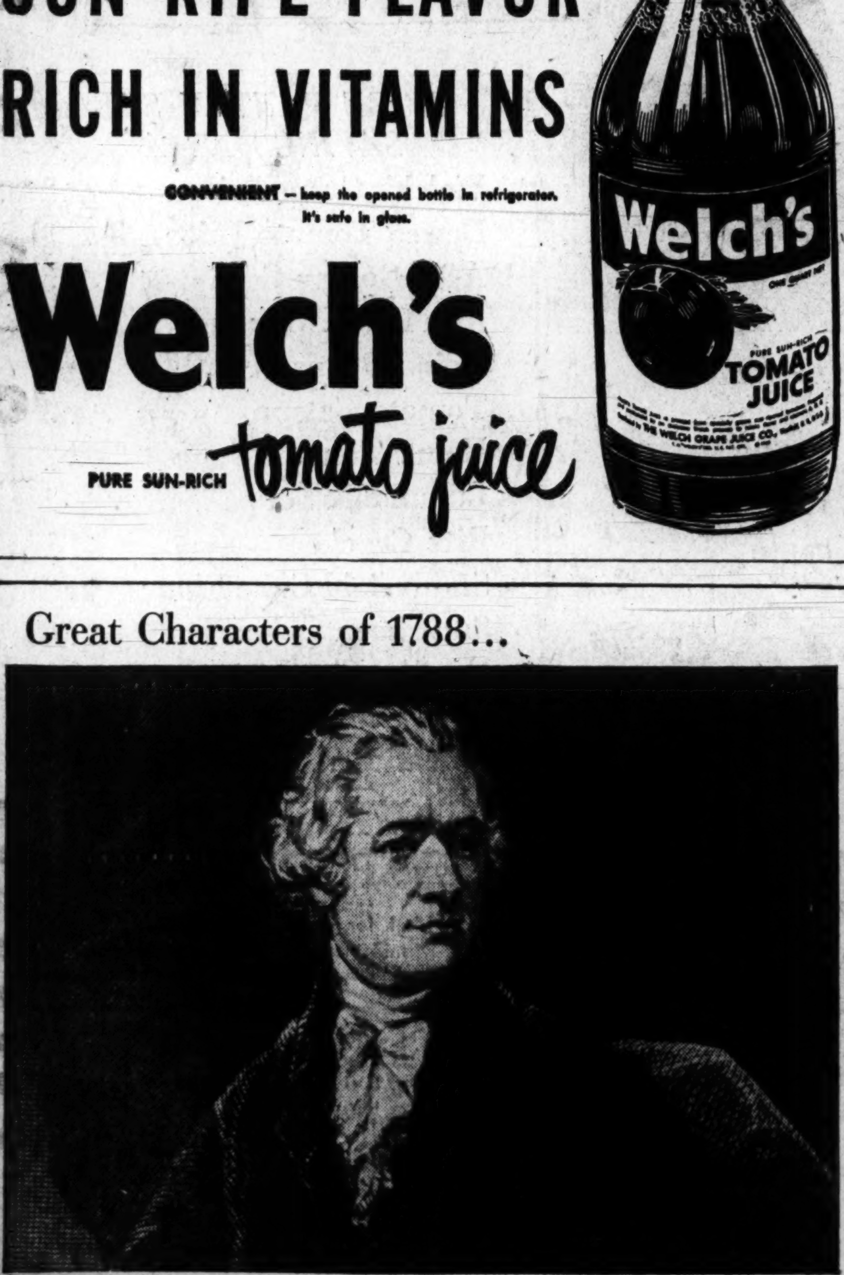
Great Characters of 1788...



From an engraving of the original painting of Alexander Hamilton, painted by Chappel.

Alexander Hamilton entered the business world at twelve, and became the first Secretary of the U. S. Treasury at 32. It was his strong character that made him an outstanding figure.

It is character, too, that distinguishes "Carstairs Est. 1788"—justly noted as America's most luxurious blend.

With your first sip of its glorious flavor and mellowness, you'll know why it is the favorite of those who insist on the finest. If you haven't already discovered its superbly smooth quality, why not do so tonight?

Marshall Again Hits Wool Bill, Due Monday

House agriculture leaders yesterday made plans to call up the controversial wool bill for final action Monday, while Secretary of State Marshall loosed another blast at its provisions for import-fee increases.

Earlier plans to act on the measure were put off by Agriculture Chairman Clifford R. Hope (R., Kans.) because of the absence of the leading House opponent, Representative Harold D. Cooney (D., N. C.).

Marshall reiterated his belief that the compromise bill reported out of conference committee Wednesday, permitting higher tariffs or import restrictions on wool will hinder world trade agreements.

The legislation, he said, will complicate present efforts at Geneva to set up an international trade organization.

Marshall declined to state whether he will recommend that President Truman veto the measure in its present form.

Marshall added the names of two former Secretaries of State to his warnings against the act. Letters from Cordell Hull and Henry L. Stimson protesting the measure were released by him.

Hull, author of the reciprocal trade agreements program, said that any increased tariff on wool "would seriously endanger the success of the negotiations now going on in Geneva." He added that any weakening of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act "would be tragic."

Stimson said that "to other nations now watching for proof of American sincerity and unity it would be a shocking indication that the policy of the United States can at any time be shackled by the sort of economic shortsightedness for which all the world has paid so dearly in recent years."

Over previous objections of Marshall and other Administration leaders, the conferees approved a bill to continue the wool price support program through 1948 at 1946 prices and to permit tariff increases up to 50 per cent or quota restrictions on imported wool when the Tariff Commission finds it necessary to protect domestic growers.

FBI Aid Is Asked In Woman's Slaying

Atlanta, Ga., June 12 (U.P.).—Fulton County today asked for Federal Bureau of Investigation aid in the Peggy Refoule murder case, Police Chief G. Neal Ellis explaining that "this thing is so widespread we need the FBI."

The county commission voted to appeal directly to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to put his operatives on the case of the pretty French artist's wife who was strangled in or near her picturesque old mill home May 14.

spokesmen said. It will be a standing room only show, with all reserved seats sold out days in advance, conference spokesmen said.

Foremen made public the following telegram to Thomas:

"You have announced to the press you're going to declare the Southern Conference for Human Welfare and me guilty of un-Americanism at high noon Saturday. May I again point out that in America it is customary to hold a public hearing and to be faced by your accusers before conviction? The Southern Conference strives for full democracy gained through the Democratic process. We are still ready, even though you have announced your judgment, to appear and be questioned before any public hearing of your committee."

The committee is holding up issuance of its report until noon Saturday for publication in Sunday papers. David Lachenbruch, press relations director, said the conference will have a reply to the committee ready at the same time.

Evicted Family Uses Church Pews for Beds

Chicago, June 12 (AP).—Six pews in the Bethlehem Presbyterian Church have been home since Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Ortiz and their six children.

Ortiz, a baker, and his family turned to their pastor, the Rev. W. E. Hunter, after they were evicted from the flat now occupied by a new owner. The pastor bedded them down in the church basement, where the children usually go to Sunday school. Six pews, pushed together, made three beds.

'Ideal Father' Winner Will Know Today

Washington's "ideal father" will be notified of his selection today.

Judges in The Washington Post contest last night narrowed the competition down to a few outstanding entries.

Tomorrow's Post will carry the winner's name and also the letter that brought him the title.

Whoever he is, Sunday will be the biggest Father's Day he's ever known. The Post has arranged to take him and his family to the Statler's Embassy Room for dinner. Then they'll go to station WINX for a broadcast at 5:45 p. m.

The day will be topped off with a show at the Capitol Theater where dad and his family will sit in a box and be introduced from the stage.

Streptomycin Held Cure for Eye Infections

Atlantic City, N. J., June 12 (AP).—Serious eye infections can now be cleared up in many cases through use of the drug streptomycin, two scientists of Northwestern University reported to the annual meeting of the American Medical Association today.

These infections include both chronic and acute infections of the cornea, or transparent part of the eye, and conjunctiva, or delicate membrane that lines the eyelids, Dr. John G. Bellows and Dr. Chester J. Farmer said.

They reported that their findings were based on both experimental animals and on humans in clinical treatment.

The infecting microbes are rapidly eliminated after administration of streptomycin drops and healing follows rapidly, they reported.

ANOTHER PROVEN SUCCESS

Farley Relates Roosevelt Split

delegation is with us. Where there is a division we must give posts to those supporting us. Second, this must apply to other appointments as well as judicial appointments."

During the fight between the late Pat Harrison and Alben Barkley for majority leadership of the Senate, Farley said, Mr. Roosevelt asked him to "put the pressure" on Senator Dieterich of Illinois to vote for Barkley. When Farley replied that he had, with the President's permission, committed himself to stay out of the contest, Mr. Roosevelt said "curtly" that he would have Harry Hopkins do it. Barkley was elected, 38 to 37, with Dieterich casting the deciding vote.

Previously, Farley wrote, Mr. Roosevelt had assured him and Harrison that he also was neutral.

Farley gave five reasons for the gradual break between himself and the President. One of these, he intimated, was the difference in their social backgrounds. After explaining that he never was invited privately to the White House, but always on business of one sort or another, he wrote:

Mrs. Roosevelt once said, 'Franklin finds it hard to relax with people who aren't his social equals.' I took this remark to explain my being out of the infield."

Farley enumerated the five events leading up to his resignation from the Cabinet and National Committee in August, 1940, as follows:

1. After Farley shared in a big ovation given Roosevelt on October 14, 1936, in Chicago, Marvin McIntyre, the President's secretary, told Farley the next day, "They thought it best" that thereafter Farley should not appear on the same platform with the President "because of the Tammany situation."

"I bristled with indignation," Farley said. "I knew my presence would not have been resented by anyone except those disturbed by the widespread friendships I had gained. At that time there was no Tammany situation, and if there had been one, I could not have been involved in it."

2. A few weeks later Basil O'Connor, Roosevelt's former law partner and now chairman of the Red Cross, reported to Farley that the President thought Farley "was nursing presidential aspirations for 1940."

"This simply was not true at the time," Farley said. "Yet I have often wondered whether this uneasy suspicion colored my subsequent relations with the White House."

3. Charles Michelson, then publicity director of the Democratic National Committee, had to urge the President to write a letter of appreciation to Farley for his work in the 1936 campaign. The letter was for use in the printed program of a testimonial dinner to Farley.

"There was no mention (in the letter) of my services, even after a special request," Farley wrote. He added, however, that Roosevelt was "most generous" in his remarks at the dinner.

It was at this affair—February 15, 1937—that Mr. Roosevelt first mentioned he did not plan to run again, Farley wrote, adding:

"Yet in the months to come he was to find fault with a long list of suspected and actual aspirants to his succession. They were either too old or too young; too ambitious or too unknown; too conservative or too radical, or too poor in health or too lacking in personality."

4. Farley supported the President's plan to revamp the Supreme Court, but refused to go along a year later—1938—with the "no less disastrous attempt to purge the Democratic Party of those who had opposed his will. I believe that deep down inside he never forgave me for putting party welfare above the personal allegiance he considered his due."

glass of tomato juice in the face of one of the countermen.

Student Tells of Assault

Fitzpatrick, on the witness stand testified that he had left a hamburg stand at Wisconsin and N sts. nw., with an acquaintance, Paul Ward, shortly after 5 a. m. on June 4.

He said that suddenly a car, operated by Stewart and with Garrett as passenger, pulled up to the curb.

The student declared that Stewart leaped from the car and, grabbing him, tried to stick his fingers into Fitzpatrick's eyes at the same time saying: "So you're the wise college punk." (Several weeks before Stewart had arrested Fitzpatrick on drunk and disorderly charges in the Hoya, a tavern patronized mainly by Georgetown University students).

"He hit me twice in the face and again on the forehead," Fitzpatrick told the court. "I don't know if he used his fist or a blackjack then."

"After telling Ward to go away," the youth related, "Stewart drew a blackjack from his pocket and hit me over the head."

Stewart Denies Drinking

Stewart, who denied that he had been drinking previous to the alleged assault, testified he was going on a fishing trip with Garrett on the morning of June 4.

He said as his car approached Wisconsin ave. and N st. nw., Fitzpatrick approached, cursing and threatening with his fist.

"I put him under arrest for disorderly conduct and he fought me. We both fell to the ground. I was on top. The defendant ceased to resist and when we arose I noticed him bleeding from the back of the head," the officer declared. Stewart's testimony was corroborated by Garrett.

Louis Sittadino, Little Tavern employe, said he was washing the windows of the establishment at Wisconsin ave. and N nw., when he saw Stewart hit Fitzgerald with a blackjack. "The blood spattered so that his (Fitzpatrick's) clothes looked like a red uniform," the witness declared. Sittadino asserted he heard Stewart tell Ward not to say anything about it or he'd "fill him full of lead."

"Did Fitzpatrick do anything to provoke the attack?" Williams asked.

"No, sir," Sittadino answered.

Ward Admits Arrest Record

Ward, who admitted to a record of 27 arrests on various charges and to a conviction for housebreaking, told how he met Fitzpatrick for the first time in the Little Tavern at Wisconsin and N st. nw.

Ward testified they left the tavern about 5:10 a. m. and chatted outside for a while. Suddenly, he said, Stewart's car pulled up. Stewart got out, the witness testified, and without warning struck Fitzpatrick in the face with his fists and then "hit him twice with a blackjack." Ward denied that the men fell to the ground.

Counsel for the accused policemen has requested that the police board trial slated for today be postponed. The decision of the trial board as to continuance will be made known today.

Mass Celebrated For Rockiewicz

A memorial mass for Wladyslaw Rackiewicz, late President of the exile Polish government, was celebrated yesterday at St. Matthew's Cathedral.

Polish residents and former members of the staff of the Polish Embassy worshiped at the mass, celebarted by the Right Rev. Msgr. John K. Cartwright, rector of St. Matthew's.

Mr. Rackiewicz died Friday in England. He became President of Poland when a Polish government without a country was established officially in Paris, September 30, 1939, after the republic was divided between Germany and Russia.

300 W. Va. Boys Tour Capital as Rotarians' Guests

By The Associated Press

Some 300 West Virginia boys—more than half of whom had never ridden a train before—arrived in Washington yesterday well initiated as railway tourists.

The group toured the Washington area as the climax of a three-day trip sponsored by the Beckley, W. Va., Rotary Club for boys between 12 and 15 years of age.

They also visited Virginia's historic peninsula.

The party left for home last night after lunching in Alexandria and a visit to Mount Vernon.

The boys were greeted at the Capitol by Senators Kilgore (D., W. Va.) and Revercomb (R., W. Va.) and by Representative Hedrick (D., W. Va.) and Mrs. Hedrick.

M. A. Johnson of Beckley, a leader of the group, said at least 55 per cent of the boys had never ridden a train before.

Textile Union Trims Demands in Strike

New York, June 12 (U.P.)—National Maritime Union President Joseph Curran in a joint press conference with CIO West Coast Maritime Leader Harry Bridges and other union leaders announced today that he has notified the Department of Labor of a threatened national shipping tieup on June 15.

Curran also announced that the CIO Maritime Committee, representing five unions, will meet tomorrow in Washington with CIO President Philip Murray to discuss what he termed an "impending lockout" in the maritime industry.

Union leaders, including Hugh Bryson, president of the West Coast Marine Cooks and Stewards Union, defined the threatened work stoppage as a lockout on the grounds that Bryson's union's contract has been cancelled effective at midnight Sunday.

Bridges, whose International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union on the West Coast has signed a contract with shipowners, said the union membership would support other West Coast CIO unions "in event of a lockout action."

Packard Raises Wages

Detroit, June 12 (AP).—The Packard Motor Car Co. announced tonight a flat 15 cents an hour general wage increase for its production workers linked with an agreement for dismissal of 45 million dollars in back pay claims.

George T. Christopher, president and general manager, said a new contract providing for the wage increase and a two-year "wage freeze" was signed with the CIO United Auto Workers.

As part of the agreement, local 190 of the UAW-CIO representing 8000 workers "will immediately act to have dismissed" portal-to-portal pay claims of 44 million dollars and $1,765,000 in super-seniority suits, Christopher said.

The Packard-union agreement came at a time when the automobile industry was being disturbed by labor disputes idling 20,000 workers in the plants of two important producers.

The agreement also followed within less than 48 hours a threatened tieup of Packard production which would have resulted from a scheduled UAW-CIO strike at Packard's car body supplier—the Briggs Manufacturing Co.

Union Trims Demands

Cumberland, Md., June 12 (AP).—Union leaders announced today they had modified some of their demands in an attempt to settle the 13-day strike of 8600 textile workers at the local plant of Celanese Corp. of America.

Allegany County's delegation in the Maryland General Assembly meantime joined several other groups in suggesting to the company that it arbitrate the dispute. The company issued a statement saying such actions showed a lack of knowledge of all the issues.

Wesley Cook, assistant rayon industry director for the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), said the union had offered to modify "premium pay" demands and sign a two-year work contract.

In a letter to the company, the Allegany County delegation in the General Assembly said they were disturbed at the prospects of a long and bitter strike and the attendant disruption of the section's economic life.

FBI Probing Death Threats Sent to Thomas and Rankin

Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.) disclosed yesterday that he and Representative John Rankin (D., Miss.) had received an anonymous death threat which is now being investigated by the FBI.

The somewhat incoherent, three-page, handwritten letter warned him of death in June with Rankin to follow in July, Thomas said.

Part of the letter was an amateur attempt at versification. It said:

"My little butterball,
"You're due for a fall
"Sometime in June
"There will be a boom."

The letter was headed "Obit (Obituary) No. 1" and signed Latin for "end."
"Finis" Latin for "end."

Thomas made the letter public after Rankin had referred to it on the floor.

The chairman of the Committee on Un-American Activities said he had intended to keep the letter a secret pending the FBI investigation but decided to release it after the Rankin speech.

Part of the letter read:

"May I be the first to inform you that you will be relieved of your duties in June? In fact, you won't have any duties. There will be a resistance movement among righteous people, white and black, that will make any underground look silly.

"Your most logical successor, Rankin, would be silly because his month is July.

"This is not a threat or warning or bargaining. Can't bargain with a super race. It is simply a death notice.

"You, the first, may laugh. But Rankin, the second, won't. Laugh long and loud today. Tomorrow may not come."

One committee member pointed out that one clew contained in the letter is the evidence that the writer did not know that Rankin, a Democrat, could not follow Thomas, a Republican, as chairman of the committee during the present GOP organized Congress.

Thomas announced yesterday that the committee will continue its investigation of Communist penetration into labor unions with hearings beginning June 24.

The committee has decided to subpena 10 witnesses for an inquiry into the difficulties of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Union, CIO. Members of the Bridgeport, Conn., local have charged that the local was ousted from the national union because it removed officials whom it declared Communists.

If the new labor bill becomes law, as most Capital Hill authorities predict it will, regardless of whether or not the President vetoes it, the committee's inquiry into Communist labor union officials will take on a new importance.

Under the act labor union officials are required to make affidavits swearing they are not Communists. If the affidavits are not correct, the makers are subject to perjury charges in the courts.

The committee has not yet acted on a subcommittee recommendation for a full investigation of charges that there is Communist leadership of the strike at R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. at Winston-Salem, N. C.

Other Committee Action

Other actions taken yesterday by the committee were:

1. A hearing was scheduled for June 26 to hear Victor Kravchenko, who threw up his job with the Soviet Purchasing Commission in New York to remain in the United States. Kravchenko, a former Russian Army officer, is the author of the book "I Choose Freedom" in which he describes the secrecy and terror of life under the Soviets.

2. An all-inclusive program of investigations into fascism was ordered. The committee added the recommendation of its subcommittee calling for the inquiry and decided that additional staff members will be added to help in the study.

15 Million for Flood Repairs Voted in House Deficiency Bill

The House yesterday passed a deficiency appropriation bill insuring Government workers against payless paydays after the June 30 end of the fiscal year.

The measure, in addition to a freshly added 15 million dollars to repair some of the damage of recent and current floods in the Midwest, authorizes Federal agencies to incur legal obligations after June 30 if their regular supply bills have not been enacted by that date.

The flood control funds were added to a 55 million dollar urgent deficiency bill, which has now been sent to the Senate.

The flood provision was introduced by Representative Sid Simpson (R., Ill.), and unanimously adopted on a voice vote.

It provides that Army engineers can use the funds to repair, restore and strengthen levees, seawalls and other flood protection works threatened or damaged by floods.

Fifteen Thousand Homeless

Simpson said about 15,000 persons have been made homeless and at least one million acres of land flooded in current floods.

The House reduced from $415,000 to $215,000 the funds to be used by the Agriculture Department for sugar rationing during the remaining days of the present fiscal year. The cut resulted from Secretary Anderson's order of Wednesday night ending household and institutional sugar rationing.

Most of the new funds provided in the bill are for the Veterans' Administration and the Postoffice Department.

Committee Speeds Work

The action came as the House Appropriations Committee stepped up its work in an effort to avert the threat of a year-end tieup of departmental funds.

The committee sent the deficiency bill to the floor on the heels of Wednesday's passage of the $37,097,580 Government corporations supply bill for 1948.

Meanwhile, its subcommittees ordered morning and afternoon sessions to put the finishing touches on four other bills awaiting congressional action before the fiscal year runs out at midnight June 30.

These finance civil functions of the War Department—such as rivers and harbors work—Congress itself, the District of Columbia and a group of assorted activities including the Greece-Turkey aid measure and foreign relief.

unionization of foremen are an "open invitation to foremen and supervisory employes to disrupt industrial relations by fighting a last-ditch battle for the free exercise of a right which they know to be theirs."

3. The bill "would tend to encourage the separate States to enact antilabor legislation. It would do this by going out of its way in a most unprecedented manner to provide that in spite of Federal law the States are free to outlaw the union shop." The union shop permits hiring of nonunion workers but they must joint the union shortly.

The social action statement said that the bill "runs the risk of disorganizing and disrupting industrial relations by hastily and completely recasting the whole range of Federal labor legislation just at the time when collective bargaining shows definite signs of moving toward collective cooperation for the common good."

The statement asked Congress to reconsider the whole matter of labor legislation with an accent on study before legislation. Copies were sent to President Truman, chairman of the Senate and House Labor Committees and to the Senate-House conference committee which put into final form the measure now awaiting presidential action.

Democrats Assail Tax Adviser Plan

By The Associated Press

Three Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee said yesterday an 11-man group of citizens set up to advise the committee on changes in the Federal tax structure is "a precedent dangerous to the Democratic process."

Appointment of the group was announced jointly last Saturday by Ways and Means Committee Chairman Knutson (R., Minn.) and Representative Doughton (D., N. C.), senior committee Democrat.

Representative Eberharter (D., Pa.) charged the move is "part of the Republican program to reduce income taxes primarily upon the rich, and to impose a host of Federal excise or sales taxes which everybody knows fall heaviest on the poor."

Addressing the House, the Pennsylvanian said Knutson usurped the authority of the committee in creating the group.

Eberharter was joined by Representative Dingell (D., Mich.) and Forand (D., R. I.) in a formal statement criticizing the move.

The three said it would be a dangerous precedent for any outside group to advise "in final decisions in executive ways and means sessions on what and whom to tax, at what rate and with what exemptions."

Meanwhile, the tax study group organized yesterday under the chairmanship of Roswell Magill, former Undersecretary of the Treasury and now a New York lawyer.

Magill, who supported the current Republican-backed bill to cut individual income taxes four billion dollars, issued a statement saying:

"Our committee will not undertake to prepare a 'tax plan.' Nor will it attempt to draft legislation. That is the job of the Ways and Means Committee.

"Instead, our committee will attempt to formulate an unbiased analysis and report on each tax problem which the Ways and Means Committee may refer to it in the course of its work on tax law revision."

He said now "is the time for a thorough revision of the Federal tax laws."

Gov. Frank Carlson of Kansas, a former Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee, is vice chairman of the study group.

Meanwhile, Knutson announced that hearings aimed at general revisions of the tax structure in 1948 will continue until Congress adjourns.

Richberg Predicts Drastic Changes In Labor Law

Hot Springs, Va., June 12 (AP).—A "drastic revision of our national labor law is imminent," Donald Richberg, Washington labor attorney, told the thirty-fifth annual meeting of the American Drug Manufacturers Association today, "whether the President approves or vetoes the Taft-Hartley bill.

"You may be sure that changes in the existing law which are favored by over two thirds of both houses of Congress are going to be made effective before long," he declared.

If a new labor law does not work, the next revision of the labor law will impose more stringent obligations and more Government controls on both capital and labor, he said.

New 4-State Flood Threat

St. Louis, June 12 (AP).—Heavy rains built up a new flood threat in northwest Missouri and three adjacent States today, but the situation eased somewhat on the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers above here where more than one million acres had been inundated with damage estimated by the War Department at 26 million dollars.

As the crests approached the confluence of the two rivers 15 miles north of here, key levees were holding and the Government Weather Bureau said it was unlikely the high waters would meet and that no major flood damage was expected in the St. Louis area.

The weather bureau at Kansas City issued a warning to lowland residents in northwest Missouri and nearby sections of Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska after heavy rainfall sent the Missouri and its tributaries on the rise again in that area.

"New rises have already begun on all streams in this area," the Kansas City Weather Bureau said. "Flooding will occur in that area not already flooded. Considerable overflow will continue many days below Kansas City."

Ostrich Talk

For the most penetrating remark of the week, we nominate the observation on the proposed District tuberculosis X-ray survey by that eminent medical authority, Commissioner Guy Mason. We don't have enough hospital beds to accommodate a large influx of tuberculosis patients. Therefore, says Mr. Mason, we shouldn't tell people they have TB. The chest survey now would be a bad thing because it "would frighten people needlessly."

Apparently the Mason prescription for combating disease is to ignore it and hope that it will go away. That might satisfy a tribe of savages, though we doubt it. Certainly it is a stupidly archaic and unrealistic formula to foist on Washington. What are the persons to do who have TB but don't know it? Go on blissfully infecting their families and friends? Health Commissioner George Ruhland, who himself voiced a somewhat similar objection in the past, is quite right in comparing a person who has TB to someone whose house is on fire. Of course the person would be scared, but if he used his head he could do something about putting out the fire—provided, that is, that Commissioner Mason were not on hand to prevent his finding out about it.

Obviously Washington lacks adequate tuberculosis treatment facilities. One of the objects of the projected chest survey is to focus attention on the need. Incidentally, hospital beds are needed primarily for the care of advanced stages of the disease. One of the principal services of the survey would be to disclose incipient cases that could be treated in clinics or at home. Thus, while the survey would be certain to demonstrate the shortage of hospital beds, it would help arrest many TB cases before they reached the bed stage.

More than two thirds of the funds for the survey have been pledged by private organizations. All that now is preventing the X-rays from going forward is the lack of some $60,000, the District government's share of the cost. That sum ought to be forthcoming, and if the Commissioners cannot find it, they ought to appeal to Congress. If Commissioner Mason's bright saying did nothing else, it should illustrate the shortsightedness of delaying the survey further.

Light And Darkness

In our naivete we have been under the impression that the function of the public information office of any Government agency is exactly what is implied in the title. Judging from recent twists, however, precisely the opposite is becoming the rule. The State Department Security Handbook has put employes on tenterhooks lest they be suspected of consorting with newspapermen, who seem to be regarded as on a par with enemy secret agents. And now we learn that the Department of Justice has similar ideas. In his testimony on the 1948 appropriation bill, Mr. S. A. Andretta, administrative assistant to the Attorney General, described the duties of the public information staff. "I would say," he informed Congressmen, "that their function, rather than publicity, is to prevent information from leaking out of the department."

This, we submit, is a formula which turns the information staffs into security police. Strangely enough, the author of this doctrine, at least in the State Department's case, is a man under jail sentence for concealing his Communist affiliation—Carl Aldo Marzani. The strangest thing about this perverse doctrine is that no one in Government has risen to challenge it. It would be odd, indeed, for an agency to espouse the motto of "Let there be darkness," but that is precisely what unwarranted secrecy promotes.

It seems to us that conscientious public officials ought to be aware of the danger of a formalized, take-it-or-leave-it relationship with the press and hence with the public. Inevitably, that is what would be encouraged by allowing contacts to degenerate into mere handouts that discourage objective inquiry. That is the way to perfunctory, ill-informed reporting that makes for a misguided public at a time when intelligent public opinion is of extreme importance. To whom, pray tell, does information about the Government belong if not to the people? How is the public to be informed about the Department of Justice or any other agency unless reporters are free to ask questions and officials are free to provide background without fear of recrimination? Are we to be fed only a diet of rumor?

Obviously what brought on this flurry of precautions was the problem of leaks to columnists. The answer to this problem, in our opinion, is self-discipline, and top-level officials should turn the screws on themselves first. The solution certainly is not to turn Government employes into a society of quivering clams. The infection that seems to be attacking certain distrustful minds in the invoking of this absurd iron curtain ought to be halted before it becomes an epidemic.

Corpus Christi Revisited

A communication from Tom Mulvany of the Corpus Christi Caller-Times, appearing on the page opposite, reviews the background of the contempt of court case involving that newspaper which the Supreme Court settled three weeks ago. We did, indeed, as Mr. Mulvany conjectures, base our criticism of his reporting on the opinion of Mr. Justice Douglas, who said, speaking for the Supreme Court majority, that news articles out of which the contempt citation arose "did not reflect good reporting, for they failed to reveal the precise issue before the judge" and that they "were by any standard an unfair report of what transpired." These charges from so unimpeachable a source warranted our assertion, we think, that the local trial had been "erroneously reported." We cannot agree with Mr. Mulvany that the postdated check was "of no consequence"; on the contrary, it was a vital factor, to our way of thinking, at least in the formation of public opinion concerning the local trial. Nor can we agree that it was by any means necessary to print a transcript of the trial in order to report so significant a circumstance.

In his letter to us, Mr. Mulvany stresses the point that "Burchard promptly offered the difference in cash." Perhaps he did. But in the trial record, which we have examined, there is testimony to the contrary which ought scarcely to be ignored. A news item in the Caller-Times on May 26, 1945, when the local trial was in progress, stated: "Burchard further claimed that although he had not known of the option clause, when he learned of it he had immediately proffered a check for $275 rental." This makes no mention of the interesting fact, disclosed in Mr. Mulvany's letter, that Burchard "testified under oath he dated it April 15 (a month later than it was due) through oversight." An oversight it may have been; but it was an oversight that certainly should have been reported.

We find ourselves very much in sympathy, nevertheless, with the editorial ire of the Caller-Times over what seems to have been unreasonable conduct on the part of the local judge. But it is in the context of the reporting that the editorial reference to "the wrath of public opinion" must be evaluated. The defects of the reporting, which agitated the community without giving it a full foundation for judgment, helped to instigate that wrath and to direct it against the local judge. The editorial assertion that the judge's behavior had "brought down the wrath of public opinion on his head," coming at a time when a motion for a new trial was pending before him, carried, we submit, the implication of a threat. While we agree with the Supreme Court majority which held that this threat did not present a danger to the administration of justice so "clear and present" as to warrant a contempt citation, we adhere to the gist of our original editorial which was simply this, that newspapers, through self-restraint, ought to give the impartiality of judges a protection which no laws and no judicial acts can provide without a fatal impairment of press freedom.

One point more. Mr. Mulvany is quite mistaken in charging us with a "sneering reference" to the Caller-Times as a "small paper." Of course, we made no such reference, either in our editorial or in Mr. Stokes' news story. Our criticism of the paper was in respect of its performance in an admittedly difficult situation and in the exacting terms of journalistic ideals to which its devotion, we do not doubt, is as faithful as our own. We are unreservedly glad, as we said in our original comment, that the Caller-Times won its case and we acknowledge gladly that its victory did indeed "strengthen the meaning of the first amendment."

Red Cheeks

The backfire is developing very quickly to our making up to Peron preliminary to an arms compact. It is all very disconcerting. No sooner had our officialdom digested the news of Mrs. Peron's triumphal progress through Franco's Spain than the news came out of Rio de Janeiro of Peron's arming of his stooge in Paraguay, Moringo, against whom a tidy little revolt is in progress. Most, most embarrassing!

Rio is the venue of the projected conference at which we propose to discuss a hemisphere defense pact the central feature of which will be the American arming of our sister nations. Already those doughty newspapers, La Prensa of Buenos Aires and Correio da Manha of Rio de Janeiro have called the arms proposal into question as a preservative of continental peace. Doubtless their opinion is shared by the little nations under Peron's shadow. It is one thing to end the ostracization of Argentina because of her tardy compliance with the Chapultepec pledges and the desirability of no longer delaying the inter-American conference at Rio de Janeiro. It is quite another thing, however, to bolster a government that plainly has aggressive overtones. Here is an instance in which the Truman Doctrine stands in danger of being perverted into a mere anti-Communist crusade.

It is no rationalization of the arms program to say that certain other American nations upon which we have looked with a friendlier eye have the same dictatorial cast as Argentina. The same arguments which are, in our opinion, paramount against sending weapons to Argentina apply to the entire proposal to supply our southern neighbors with American guns. The fact is that in many Latin-American countries the army has been the chief oppressor of the people. To strengthen such armies would merely alienate us further from the population, and, moreover, would give the Communists another talking point. In addition, modernizing the army would be sure to increase the grip of the regime in power and lessen the chances of its being dislodged by the popular will. We have just seen a sad example, in Nicaragua, of what happens when unscrupulous despots capitalize on American arms. Far from building stronger hemisphere defense, this sort of thing actually destroys cooperation at its grass roots—the people.

To our mind, the only possibly valid reason advanced for the hemisphere arms project is that it would afford a control over the arms traffic. Even this diminishes in validity by the meagerness of genuine outside competition. In any event, we ought to be supporting not unilateral, but international control of the arms traffic. This can be done through the United Nations, much in the same way that the drug traffic is regulated by international agreement. The United Nations will soon wither if we are not willing to entrust it with matters that are so clearly its legitimate concern.

Solicitor Generalship

The Solicitor Generalship, the Justice Department office second in importance to the Attorney Generalship, has been vacant since last October. President Truman nominated Philip Perlman of Maryland to fill this post on January 31 of this year. But Senator Homer Ferguson who heads a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee assigned to pass on the nomination just didn't get round to holding hearings until mid-May. And now that it is mid-June, the hearings have not yet been completed. There is danger, considering the pace at which Senator Ferguson has been proceeding, that the Senate will go into recess in July without acting upon the President's nomination.

Senator Ferguson ought to realize that this would create an extremely serious situation. Having nominated Mr. Perlman while Congress was in session, the President could not give him a recess appointment to fill the position until the Senate returned. Thus the Department of Justice would lack a Solicitor General to prepare its cases for presentation to the October term of the Supreme Court. It would lack the official who, by special provision of law, is designated to exercise all the duties of the Attorney General in case of the absence or disability of that Cabinet member. The organization and operation of the department, already handicapped, would be grievously disrupted.

It is very hard to understand Senator Ferguson's conduct in this matter. Such shadowy charges as have been lodged against Mr. Perlman have been thoroughly refuted and exploded. They have come, anyway, from pipsqueak sources which have been overwhelmingly counterbalanced by the indorsement of such witnesses as the Chief Justice of Maryland's Court of Appeals and the Chief Justice of the supreme bench of Baltimore. Indeed, these gentlemen, together with other past and present members of the two courts and leaders of the Maryland Bar Association, came to Washington to appear before Senator Ferguson and testify in behalf of Mr. Perlman. By all accounts, they were treated with extreme discourtesy and subjected to cross-examination as though they were accomplices of a man on trial for some criminal offense rather than sponsors of a man nominated to high office by the President of the United States.

The procrastination in dealing with Mr. Perlman has been evident in respect of so many other nominations sent to the Senate by President Truman that the Republican majority stands inescapably under suspicion of an exceedingly shoddy sort of politicking. A nomination by the President deserves prompt and thoroughly respectful attention by the Senate. Confirmation should be denied only when there are compelling objections to the nominee. In Mr. Perlman's case there are no such objections; on the contrary, his ability and devotion to the public welfare have been demonstrated by a quarter century of distinguished service to the people of his State. His own character and the importance of the post he has been chosen to fill deserve something more than the petty animosity that Senator Ferguson has displayed.

IMPRESSIONIST

He saw the boats, the small houses like boxes of onyx, the shark-skin nailed to dry on a green door, spoke to a fisherman, stared at the water swaying and balancing, lighted from within...
in short, decided suddenly to live here;

gave no reasons, was considered queer by many, talked no more than he could help but said in a picture that the water was gold along the shingle, tumbled the houses like blocks let fall anyhow among bronze rocks, enameled the margin with sea-urchin shell . . .
starfish skeleton . . . ribbon of kelp . . .
(people kept saying there were no such places;)

or looked far out, indifferent to dimension pulled the horizon closer, thought the Bay was like a great bowl of lupins and violets glittering and so he painted it that way.

And the sea stained the boats some days and sails heeled over under a purple wind and faces he saw were angles and planes of amethyst.

Saying It was like this his exquisite candor persuades, his vehemence prevails.
Strange that no one had ever thought of it.

This was a long time ago and many stars have fallen down since then into the sea.

Labor Bill Veto

A news report states that the majority of letters received at the White House ask for a veto of the Hartley-Taft labor bill. Is that surprising? If unions were able to force members to contribute money against their will to a political party or candidate, union pressure could likewise force members to write and/or simply sign mimeographed letters calling for a veto.

Another very influential factor connected with the number of letters received is the effect on certain people of the American Federation of Labor advertisements calling it a "slave labor bill" and asking people to wire or write President Truman to veto it. In both instances, I firmly believe many of the people who wrote asking for a veto have not even read the regulations contained in the bill.

Regardless of the number of letters received for or against the bill, however, I believe the President should judge the act in the light of "Is it good or bad for the population as a whole?" Our Government already has decided against the doctrine of laissez-faire with respect to business; therefore I don't see why it shouldn't adopt the same policy with respect to unions.

Furthermore, the act was agreed upon by a very great majority of representatives elected by the people of 48 States. Therefore, I would deem it strange indeed if just one man, even though he is President, should decide to veto the bill and thereby counteract such an overwhelming and nationally representative opinion.

O. PITSCHMAN.
New York.

New Formula

The Rockefeller Foundation report for 1941 asserts:

"Thought cannot be nationalized—ideas can never be hedged in behind geographical barriers. An indelible pattern of unity has been woven into the society of mankind. We are all debtors of contributions to knowledge made by every nation in the world. Our children are guarded from diphtheria by what a Japanese and a German did; they are protected from smallpox by an Englishman's work. A German soldier is shielded from typhoid fever with the help of the Russian, Metchnikoff. A Dutch marine in the East Indies is protected from malaria because a Frenchman, Pasteur, and a German, Koch, elaborated a new technique. A Russian soldier, by a blood transfusion, is indebted to Lansteiner, an Austrian. We are saved from rabies because of a Frenchman."

These were scientists who never served a lesser loyalty than the welfare of mankind—who never thought in terms of boundaries or flags or nations or races. We shall have to breed a strain of statesmen who are one-world minded as scientists always are.

Do we have some who are already of that high caliber? They should find out how to cultivate cooperation between nations. Building up huge armies and navies or air forces will never do it—that scheme has been tried so many times! How about trying to give other nations the opportunities we have—access to raw materials, trade with the whole world—a little cooperation, if you please!

MRS. CHARLES F. LOWRIE,
Washington.

Naturalized Citizens

I would like to call your attention to the official discrimination against recently naturalized citizens who came to this country as refugees from Europe before the war.

A rule of the State Department which lacks any foundation in the Constitution bars them from service abroad, and the War Department now bows to this ruling and threatens discharge of all citizens of less than 10 years standing working with AMG, according to a report from the New York Times of May 5.

While I was on a visit to Chicago, the overseas branch called for 20 translators for the Nuernberg war crime trials. I was hired after a test and medical checkup, but my appointment was canceled two days before the prospective departure and I had to return my travel papers. After my return to Washington, strong representations to the War Department resulted in many evasive answers while the true reason was not disclosed.

I hold that naturalization is a mutual act of give and take and that this Government should abide by the Constitution, which limits the differentiation between born and naturalized citizens to the requirement of citizenship by birth for the office of President and nine and seven years standing as a citizen for eligibility as Senator and Representative, respectively.

Free Baseball

I am amazed that the Washington Baseball Club has never seen fit to offer the youngsters of Washington some free baseball games. With summer vacations coming on, what better service could the Washington Baseball Club offer to the community than to rid the city streets of some youngsters for, say, about 15 afternoons? On the commercial side, it is common knowledge that the youngsters of today are the paying cash fans of tomorrow.

There are plenty of empty seats most of the time at Griffith Stadium. Adequate supervision for a "knot-hole" gang can be recruited, I think with the aid of social agencies.

Knot-hole gangs have been in existence for about 15 years in the International League. They have never caused a baseball club to go broke and they have stimulated interest in baseball.

Braden Resignation

The resignation of Spruille Braden comes with profound regret, I believe, to those of us who believe that the upholding of our democratic tenets is paramount to the paper alliances we can make today with "fair weather" countries like Fascist Argentina. Haven't we learned that we can never make friends with a dictator country? If we are on "friendly terms" with Argentina, then we are sanctioning a philosophy that is the antithesis of democracy.

Taft-Hartley Bill

We have read your editorials on the Taft-Hartley "labor control" bill with increasing dismay and disappointment. The disappointment flows from your support of so regressive a piece of legislation; the dismay arises from your highly unexpected illiberal approach to the whole problem and your reliance on demogogic cliches to support your arguments.

Is it not evident that, in the guise of correcting alleged excesses of organized labor and of the National Labor Relations Board, Congress has fashioned a powerful instrument for oppressing and seriously crippling the labor movement? You seem little worried by the recrudescense of government-by-injunction, which was a stench in the nostrils of all reasonable men only a few years ago; by the great enlargement of the jurisdiction of the Federal courts so that it becomes easy to sue the unions wherever an "agent" can be found, or by the fact that a wholly new and unexplored field has been opened for prosecution of union unfair labor practices.

Is it not evident that hostile employers, whose name still is legion, will use all these new resources to badger and harass the unions, and make them divert their energies and funds from organization to self-defense? The provocateur and the company stooge will be with us again. Do you seriously believe that this is the best way to promote labor-management relations, and to convert conflict to cooperation?

Your editorial of June 4 closes with the statement that "the net effect (of the bill), in our opinion, is to even the score as between employers and unions by making them equally liable to punishment for indefensible practices." One example may be sufficient to test this statement. Under the provisions of this bill, no matter how flagrant the violations of the employer may be, the board may not issue a complaint if the union involved has failed to file with the Secretary of Labor detailed reports about its finances and other activities, or has failed to furnish all of its members copies of the financial report submitted to the Secretary of Labor; or, furthermore, has failed to file affidavits that its officers are not Communists.

Confining ourselves only to the question of equality of treatment, just what connection do you find between the fact, for example, that a few members of a union did not, or claim they did not, receive copies of its financial reports, and the question of whether or not an employer is sabotaging the union, or is firing its leaders for union activities, or is subsidizing a company union? Would you consider it fair, for example, if A files suit against B, charging assault and battery, that the court should refuse to consider A's name unless he has proved he has paid his rent?

If such a thing were to occur, would you not consider that the court in such a case was, to put it mildly, being vindictive against A? There is, mind you, nothing in the bill placing any corresponding condition on employers before they may bring charges of unfair labor practices against unions. Nevertheless, you found it possible to say in your editorial of May 31 that "calm deliberation has prevailed over punitive motives."

Your position on this bill is all the more difficult to understand in view of your heretofore consistently liberal policy. You appear, moreover, to be impatient of those who have different opinions, and seem to think that such opinions are based on selfish or political motives. In your editorial of June 2 you imply that a veto by Mr. Truman would be a political maneuver for the purpose of "placating labor leaders or appeasing Mr. Wallace and his followers." You exclude the possibility, apparently, that Mr. Truman may really believe the bill is a bad one.

In your editorial of June 6 you denounce those who call the bill a "slave-labor bill;" because Mayor O'Dwyer opposes the bill you say he is "demogogic." Your own arguments make free use of inflammatory phrases like "inexcusable monopoly" and "ruthless labor bosses." It is apparent that your editorial writer is guilty of talk as loose as he claims that of the bill's opponents to be. It is possible, of course, that one's judgment as to the precision and restraint of the language used in discussing this bill depends on whose bull is being gored.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Dollar Famine

PRESIDENT TRUMAN and his Canadian hosts may not have got down to talking about anything as concrete as the United States dollar, but the dwindling supply of United States dollars is very much in the thoughts of Canadian policymakers.

In fact, the dwindling dollar disturbs the sleep of officials and importers in almost every capital of the world. That includes Washington, where it is fast becoming the portent of trouble on the near horizon.

Like the United States, Canada just now is enjoying a high level of prosperity. That means that Canadians are importing goods from this country as never before, measured both by volume of goods and in dollar volume. It also means that the unbalance between goods bought in the U. S. A. and goods sold to the U. S. A. is greater than ever before.

That, of course, is the catch. The supply of United States dollars is running out. As in Great Britain, in France, Belgium, Holland, and in India, the question before the Canadian government is what to do in the face of this dwindling reserve.

The last official report of the Canadian government, in December, 1946, put the total of United States dollars and gold at $1,245,000,000. Of this, roughly half was dollars. Measured by the present rate of imports, it was not a large sum.

OFFICIALS of the Mackenzie King government have recently expressed concern over the melting pile of dollars. They have pointed out that such a condition could not continue indefinitely.

The next official report on Canada's dollar-gold position will be made shortly after the end of this month. It may show such a shrinkage that Canada will be forced to curtail and control imports from her neighbor. The grim figures on the international ledger have a way of overriding even the most sincere gestures of good will.

Most of us in this country seem to be as yet blissfully unaware of what it will mean to us to have the dollars run out or come so close to running out that barriers must be put up. Something happened the other day which gave a hint of how each and every one of us—if it goes on long enough without some easement—will be hit.

The British stopped buying eggs in this country. One reason they stopped buying eggs was because the price was high. The people of Britain could eat a great many more eggs and be better off for it. But the dollars from last year's loan are running out at a far faster rate than had been anticipated.

The value of that loan was nearly halved by the price rise in the United States. Then the crisis of weather and coal last winter set back British recovery plans. Therefore, after buying 33 million pounds of dried eggs, the British called a halt.

THIS MIGHT have proved very embarrassing. American agricultural forecasters had anticipated a large egg surplus this spring. Under the support price program, the United States Government would have bought all those surplus eggs. Then what to do with them would have been the question. The Government is at present destroying "surplus" potatoes, thereby producing an angry outcry. To destroy eggs would seem even more senseless.

Only a moderate egg surplus developed. The surplus eggs could no longer be sold to the British, which was the "out" in the past. So in frozen form they are now being put into storage. The total is not large and perhaps, if eggs get scarce next winter, they can be released on the market.

But here's the curious thing about the price of eggs. Normally in this season when hens are laying, the price goes down. This week, however, it was announced that the 35-cent support price to the producer would be continued for July.

Farmers get 90 per cent of parity. In figuring parity, the cost of what the farmer must buy is taken into account—his machines, his fuel, the feed for his animals. Those things have been going up and so parity—the guaranteed floor under farm prices—moves up.

That is possible so long as the dollars last at home and abroad. But when they run out and the so-called surpluses from farm and factory begin to pile up, then the easy solution of a seller's market will be gone. Then the pinch will be felt very close to home.

Italy's Status

In answer to John O. Nestor's letter of June 8 I would like to state a few facts concerning Italy's status.

I, too, took part in the American campaigns in North Africa, the invasion of Sicily and Italy, and am very thankful to the Italian partisans who fought by the thousands on our side against the Germans, and saved countless thousands of American lives, possibly Nestor's and mine as well.

A review of past history by Mr. Nestor might enlighten him as to some of the probable causes of World War II. He will find that a very unjust treatment of Italy, whose people very definitely and wholly helped in an Allied victory in World War I, was a very large factor in Italy's joining the Axis.

And now, with the groundwork of a third and more terrible world war in the making, with real western democracy versus Red fascism, Italy has the courage to form a cabinet excluding Communists, our avowed enemies and next opponents just as sure as Harry Truman is our President today.

Courts And Press

A Communication

YOUR EDITORIAL of May 21, "Courts and the Press," relating to the Supreme Court opinion freeing three Caller-Times men from contempt, contains several statements which are inaccurate, although some of them are based on excerpts from the majority opinion of the court.

First is the statement: "The newspapers had erroneously reported a trial conducted by the judge." Obviously this comes from that part of the opinion in which Justice Douglas states that some of the news stories "did not reflect good reporting." And the judge specifies that this conclusion was reached through failure of the news stories to mention a so-called postdated check in reports of the trial which led to the contempt charge.

The charge of inaccuracy is not new to us. When the original citation for contempt was issued its principal allegation was inaccuracy. Later, when the transcript of the Jackson vs. Mayes trial became available for comparison, the opposing counsel (selected by Browning, the county judge) was compelled to stipulate out the "inaccuracy" charge and the contempt allegation was left resting on claims of omissions, overemphasis and distortion through these means. The "omission" referred to the postdated check. The "overemphasis" related to the constant identification of Mayes as a private in the Army.

THAT YOU may better understand what was at issue, let me briefly review the original issue—a suit by one Jackson to oust Mayes from a cafe. Mayes had a lease which expired March 15, 1945, but he had an option which gave him the right to a year's extension with an increase from $250 to $275 a month.

The evidence showed Mayes was drafted into the Army in January, 1945. He left his affairs in the hands of Burchard, an auditor. Burchard had never seen a copy of the option, but Mayes testified he had dealt with Jackson over a period of years, had seldom paid his rent on time, but never had any trouble.

On March 15, 1945, Burchard sent Jackson a check for $250. Next day Jackson told him to get out. Instead, Burchard went to the office of Jackson's attorneys where, for the first time, he learned of the provision for an increase of rent. He swore this was the first time he had seen a copy of the option agreement.

Burchard promptly offered the difference in cash. The offer was rejected and he was told again to get out—that he had violated his option. There was no provision that the option was to be void unless the increase in rent were paid. Next day Burchard received his $250 through the mail. Forthwith he sent a $275 check through the mail. He testified under oath he dated it April 15 through oversight.

THE COMMON LAW provides that, unless specifically agreed otherwise, the exercise of an option does not depend on the payment of rent. The option is exercised by notice of intent, orally or in writing, and the courts of Texas have so ruled time and again.

In this case there is ample proof that Mayes, before he went into the Army, had served proper notice on Jackson that the option granting him a year's renewal of his lease was to be accepted. It was also in evidence that Burchard confirmed this notice.

Therefore, the postdated check becomes of no consequence in the ouster suit because: (1) the option had been exercised (and the lease renewed) by proper notice; and (2) prior to the issuance of the postdated check, Jackson (or his counsel) had refused the cash tender.

Your attorneys will advise you that this is a correct statement of the law, and that Jackson's only recourse against Mayes would have been to sue him for his rent in the event that Mayes refused or failed to pay.

Beyond this point there can be found no evidence of what your editorial termed an erroneous report. The high court termed the news accounts "sketchy." From a lawyer's viewpoint, what news report of a trial lasting three days could be other than "sketchy?" We do not run transcripts as news stories; neither do you. Instead of the story on the opinions written by Dillard Stokes, why did you not run the opinions themselves. By comparison, Stokes' stories were "sketchy."

IT IS MY conviction that Justice Douglas never did read the transcripts of the Jackson vs. Mayes trial and compare them with the photostatic copies of the news stories. Both were before him as exhibits and he could not have opined as he did had he read and compared them.

As for your comment that our editorial had "disparaged his (the judge's) competence" and "had threatened him with the wrath of public oponion," these are flagrantly inaccurate statements on your part.

Keep sight of the fact that the events in county court took on sensational character with the unheard-of refusal—not once but thrice—of a jury to sign an instructed verdict, the last time after the jury had spent a night locked up at the judge's command.

Only when Mayes' attorney pleaded with the jury to find against him did the jury comply and then it was with the clear stipulation, written in the verdict, that the finding was "against the conscience of the jury."

The Caller editorial stated at the outset: "The basic fault lies with the Texas constitution . . . which vests judicial authority in a county judge but which does not require the occupant of the office to be an attorney." In conclusion, it read: "The Lookout (pen name of the writer), himself a layman, doesn't have the slightest idea whether the decision reached in this particular case is supported by legal authority."

AS FOR THE statement in your editorial that the judge had been "threatened" with the wrath of public opinion, you err again. Instead of "threatening," the editorial made observation on a fait accompli. It stated that Browning's action already had "brought down the wrath of public opinion upon his head." There is a very clear distinction here which your editorial writer failed to perceive.

In conclusion, we believe that the 6-3 opinion of the high court might well have been 9-0 in our favor had we chosen to enter testimony in our own behalf at the time we appeared before Browning in answer to his citation.

There were circumstances surrounding the Jackson vs. Mayes trial which were a sorry reflection on the dignity of the court. There were things that took place during that trial which do not conform with the American concept of decorum in a hall of justice. The whole trial was a tragic travesty but the laws of libel prohibit going into detail.

We chose to eschew the personalities. We elected to stand on our constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press and to take the position that we would not tolerate editorial interference from any bench.

Your sneering reference to us as a small paper does not shake us from our early conviction, and the intemperance of your editorial does less to strengthen the meaning of the first amendment than did our silent defense when we chose, from the outset, to take our plea to the Supreme Court.

Universal Training

By Ernest Lindley

Wallace Misconstrues Roosevelt

DURING HIS tour of New Jersey a few days ago, Henry A. Wallace denounced universal training as: (1) "the most warlike proposal which the Government of the United States has ever brought out in time of peace" and (2) "the entering wedge of a military - big business dictatorship."

Lindley

During the same tour he was quoted as urging that the Nation "return to the policies of the Democratic Party under Franklin Roosevelt."

Of all of Mr. Wallace's numerous inconsistencies, this is one of the most glaring. Franklin D. Roosevelt heartily favored universal military training. He favored it after the First World War. During the second World War he urged that it be adopted as part of our postwar program.

President Truman's Advisory Commission on Universal Training which recently urged universal training by a unanimous vote included several persons who were close to Franklin D. Roosevelt. Samuel I. Rosenman was the late President's close friend, aide, and adviser for more than 15 years—his counsel at Albany and again at the White House. Joseph E. Davies, former Ambassador to Russia, was one of the earliest supporters of Mr. Roosevelt for the Presidency. His indulgent interpretations of Soviet foreign policy are well known. Anna M. Rosenberg was one of Mr. Roosevelt's valuable behind-the-scenes aides, especially in the handling of various labor relations problems.

ONE COULD go on down the list of members of the Advisory Commission on Universal Training. The only businessman in the entire group was Charles E. Wilson of the General Electric Co., whom Mr. Roosevelt drafted to serve as executive director of the War Production Board.

It is not necessary, however, to read Mr. Roosevelt's mind on military training through the men who were closely associated with him. He spread his views on the public record. He believed in universal training not only as a measure of military preparedness but for its collateral values. He thought a period of service to the Nation by every young person would promote democracy and patriotism. He envisioned what this period of service could do for the health and education of the less fortunate—including snobbish and socially irresponsible offspring of the rich as well as the large number of economically underprivileged young people.

Indeed, it was Mr. Roosevelt's stress on the collateral benefits which annoyed the War Department during the war. The War Department was then thinking in narrow brass hat terms, of a program which would skim off those who were thoroughly fit physically and ignore the rest. President Roosevelt said the training should be for all and should not be confined to military preparation. The same idea was emphasized by President Truman when he told his advisory committee to drop the word "military" and examine the question of universal training.

THE REPORT submitted by the commission proposes a program for all young men. It holds that the by-products alone would not justify universal training, but recognizes that the benefits need not be confined to military preparedness. It recommends that those who are unfit physically for military training or who have conscientious objections be required to take other training which would be of value to the Nation in an emergency.

There is room for conjecture as to where Mr. Roosevelt would have stood on many questions today. There is no room for doubt about what his attitude would have been toward universal training or, indeed, on the question of adequate armed forces generally. He was always realistic about such matters. He was sometimes ahead of the military services—notably in the goals which he set for American air power in 1938, 1939, and 1940.

Mr. Roosevelt tolerated, and at times encouraged, the public expression of diverse views by men around him. But it is a completely safe statement that if Mr. Roosevelt had lived, Mr. Wallace would not be going around the country today attacking universal service under the pretense of being Mr. Roosevelt's spiritual heir. Mr. Wallace would be: (1) ardently supporting universal service, (2) silent, or (3) where he is, outside the Government, but without even a shadow of a claim to the mantle of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

This Week's Daily Double

THE DAILY double currently favored by the wise money is that the President will veto the tax bill next Monday, and the labor bill at the end of next week. Events have frequently proved the wise money pretty silly; the foregoing is, in fact, not a prediction but a report. It is interesting, however, to review the elements of the situation which make the best qualified political bettors think that the President is about to defy the Republican Congress on two issues of such far reaching import.

As to the tax bill, the President has already almost committed himself to a veto in his message on the state of the Union, Jackson Day dinner speech and other pronouncements. The tax bill veto is generally accepted as a fairly sure bet. The really delicate weighing of the odds is being done in the case of the labor bill. Here there is no prior commitment, and the President is under pressure from a public sentiment which may be uninformed, but is certainly strongly favorable.

IN VIEW of the President's peculiar administrative habits, the opinion of the Cabinet is the first factor bearing on the labor bill's fate. In such questions the President invariably consults his Cabinet, and gives greater weight to their views than any of his predecessors.

It has been incorrectly assumed that Secretary of Labor Louis B. Schwellenbach was a lonely voice, crying out for a veto against the combined opinion of all his Cabinet colleagues. In point of fact, however, Postmaster General Robert Hannegan has already taken to the long distance telephone, to urge, from the seclusion of his rest cure, the political desirability of giving the labor bill a thorough trouncing.

Hannegan and the Democratic National Committee argue that the President's signature on the labor bill will give the needed domestic issue to Henry Agard Wallace, his entourage of fellow travelers, and the Communist Party people who really pull the strings. Their theory is that the issue will be used as the foundation stone of a third party movement. The formation of a third party is still the dominant nightmare of President Truman's political managers.

What is really more important, however, is that Secretary of the Interior Julius Krug is also reported to favor a veto. Krug's part in the Administration's various engagements with John L. Lewis has given the President a special respect for his judgment in such matters. Krug is represented as feeling that the congressional labor bill is a badly drafted measure, unlikely to achieve much tangible result except the proliferation of litigation. Further, Krug is represented as thinking that the labor bill's presence on the statute books will not greatly aid him in his great serial combat with the grand panjandrum of the coal miners.

THIS IS deeply significant. The pressure on the President to sign the bill would be almost irresistible if Krug were pleading with him to do so (as has been widely supposed) in order to avert a July coal strike. But Krug and his staff are understood to believe, on the contrary, that signature of the labor bill will actually make a coal strike more probable. On the one hand, they appear to be convinced that there is the widest possible difference between a court injunction, such as was secured last winter, to make the coal miners abide by an existing contract, and a court injunction requiring the miners to continue work without a contract. This latter kind of injunction, contemplated in the labor bill, is not thought likely to be effective.

On the other hand, Krug and his staff also appear to be convinced that the President's name on the labor bill will provide John L. Lewis just the sort of pretext he wants to lead a dramatic strike. A strike would then become a protest against "slavery," instead of a demand for higher wages.

The miners are deeply in debt to the company stores, because of previous strikes, and they would now like a reasonable contract. Neither miners nor operators are willing to resume negotiations until the President has made up his mind about the labor bill. When that decision is taken, the Administration proposes to bring them together again. And a fair amount of confidence is still felt that a contract will result from the resumed negotiations, but only assuming Lewis is not given the opportunity to play the role of labor's martyred saint and hero defying the persecutor at the White House.

THESE considerations, plus what is known of the views of certain of the President's more personal advisers, are what influence the wise money to bet on a veto of the labor bill. On the other hand, the strength of the faction favoring signature of the bill cannot be ignored either. Its leader is reputed to be Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal, one of the ablest, most active and most influential men in the Government. Classed on his side also are Secretaries Snyder of the Treasury, Anderson of Agriculture and Harriman of Commerce. This, in itself, is a formidable combination.

There is one element that could make it almost irresistible—the addition of Secretary of State George C. Marshall, whose opinion the President certainly values above that of any other man. In the opinion of the wise money, however, Marshall will sternly tend to his own difficult knitting, refusing to become involved in a purely domestic political issue And if this is correct, the wise money's daily double seems a sound speculation, although anything but a sure bet.

A 25 per cent increase in water rates to raise $800,000 a year. The water fund would also get one million dollars of the increased Federal payment.

Gas Tax Hike Approved

A one-cent-per-gallon boost in the gasoline tax, making a new rate of 4 cents per gallon, to raise $1,600,000 for the highway fund.

A $1 fee for auto inspections, twice the present rate, to make the service self-supporting with an extra $65,000 a year.

Dispute over the income tax spells a difference of one to two million dollars in annual revenue. Cain's bill is calculated to add $3,100,000 a year to present revenue. Of that $900,000 would come from a franchise tax of 5 per cent on unincorporated business income over $10,000.

The rest would come from extending the individual income tax, mainly, to persons who live here, but escape the District tax by claiming a legal domicile elsewhere but pay no tax to the State of domicile.

By the Cain bill, first sponsored by Representative George J. Bates (R., Mass.) all persons living here seven months or more in the year would file a District income tax return. They would subtract from the District tax the amount of any State income or intangible property tax they had to pay. If the State payment was higher, the District would get nothing.

That plan was thrown overboard by a House vote of 78 to 30, in favor of the plan of Representative Joseph P. O'Hara (R., Minn.) His plan keeps the District from applying the income tax to Federal employes who show they have a legal domicile in another State.

District officials predicted the O'Hara plan would wipe out a large part, if not all, of the revenue gains expected from the individual income tax through the Cain-Bates plan.

Cain, in yesterday's committee meeting, attacked the Federal employ exemption as having "very little equity so far as I can see."

Constitutional Question Raised

"It would remove enough people from coverage of the income tax to make very serious inroads on the revenue expected," he said.

Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West told the committee O'Hara's formula posed a very serious Constitutional problem of discrimination.

A sales tax bill, with a 2-per-cent rate, and no exemption for food or medicine, was introduced in the House yesterday by House District Appropriations Chairman Walt Horan (R., Wash.). The House Monday turned down his sales tax proposal.

Senate District Appropriations Chairman Henry Dworshak (R., Idaho) said he might sponsor a sales tax for the District in the Senate.

Skidding Cars Kill One Man, Hurt Another

Similar traffic accidents in opposite ends of Prince Georges County yesterday resulted in the death of a Washington man and serious injury to a New York City policeman.

Ray Holben, 24, of 1250 Queen st. ne., was fatally injured shortly after 3 a. m. when his car failed to make a turn on the Marlboro pike near Melwood, skidding 100 feet before striking a pole. The car continued another 125 after the impact, Prince Georges County police said, before overturning. The driver was thrown 25 feet away.

The Marlboro Rescue Squad rushed Holben to Casualty Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

In the early afternoon, Robert Weston, 22, a New York City policeman driving to Virginia Beach for his vacation, was injured when his car struck a telephone pole just south of Beltsville on U. S. Highway No. 1.

Weston told county police that his right front tire blew out and he lost control of the car. The vehicle skidded off the right side of the road, brushing a sign in front of the Pinehurst Tourist Home, and crashed head-on into the pole. The car was demolished and the top of the pole broken off by the impact.

At Leland Memorial Hospital, Riverdale, where he was taken, Weston was treated for a fractured right arm, fractured ribs and numerous lacerations on the body. His condition is undetermined.

Express Agency Pleads for Legible Addresses

Vacation time is headache time for expressmen as long as vacationers insist on writing, and illegibly at that, the address labels on their luggage.

So said the Railway Express Agency yesterday as it issued its annual plea to print not write address labels. What with a Washington in 26 States, not counting D. C., a Madison in 26 States and a Richmond in 17 States, the harassed expressman has enough of a job getting luggage to its proper destination, the agency explained.

It just isn't fair to burden him even more with an illegible scrawl that makes Miss. look like Minn. or N. Y. like N. H. or Ky., the agency said, adopting the slogan "A shipment properly marked is halfway there."

$224,782 for District

The House yesterday approved $224,782.06 for the District in the second urgent deficiency appropriation bill. Biggest city item is $140,510.25 to finish paying this year's District share for operating Federal courts here.

Capital Transit Bus Driver Held in Death of D. C. Woman

A 27-year-old Capital Transit Co. bus driver was held for action of Municipal Court yesterday under the Negligent Homicide Act, in the death January 7 of Minnie L. Kirkpatrick, 30, of 649 Florida ave. nw.

Later, a coroner's jury found the death of 11-year-old Patricia Ryan, 823 4th st. ne., "accidental" and released Samuel A. Petro, 32-year-old cab driver, of 317 3d st. se.

The bus driver was Clarence Woods, of 9720 Old Bladensburg rd., Silver Spring, Md., who told the 5-man jury the brakes on the bus "seemed to drag." The vehicle "struck the curb, knocked me out of my seat and I lost complete control," he testified.

Miss Kirkpatrick was crushed to death by the bus, which she was waiting to board on the 30th pl. hill at Legation st. nw.

Woods, married and an Army veteran of five years, will be arraigned at 9:30 a. m. today. He was released under $1000 bond.

In the second inquest, the jury heard testimony that Patricia, who died June 10 at Providence Hospital, was riding a bike in the middle of the road when struck by a cab last April 27 on South Capitol st., south of Firth Sterling dr. se.

The witness was Patricia's friend, Elizabeth Gibbs, 11, of Neptune Green, Bellevue, sw. The child told the court Patricia "slid on the gravel and the car hit her." Mrs. Agnes C. Corcoran, a housewife, of 1206 E st. se. testified that Petro was driving in a "careful manner." The cab driver rushed the child to St. Elizabeths Hospital for first-aid following the collision.

Physicians testified death was due to blood poisoning, resulting from injuries received in the collision. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ryan.

Burglars Rob Drug, Food Stores Skip Apparel Shop

Women's wear apparently held no appeal to thieves who broke into two stores in Southeast Washington.

Julius Fries of 941 5th st. ne., manager of a People's Drug Store at 2529 Pennsylvania ave. se., reported his store was entered Wednesday night by thieves who sawed through bars on the basement window.

Mrs. Helen Peters of 3400 Carpenter st. se., proprietress of the Penn Market, grocery store at 2525 Pennsylvania ave. se., reported similar depredations at her establishment. Neither was prepared to give a full inventory of a miscellany of items taken.

Between the two stores at 2527, the proprietor of Kane's, wearing apparel, reported his store untouched.

Arlington Man With Circus Shot to Death in Ringling Tent

An Arlington man died yesterday under a salvo of pistol bullets in a tent of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus in Baltimore.

He was Richard Sheehan, 34, a circus truck driver, whose mailing address is 5711 N. Washington blvd, Arlington.

Baltimore police said that shortly after the five fatal shots rang out at breakfast yesterday, three men rushed from the scene of the shooting.

Sheehan's body, with a blue star tattooed on the forehead and other tattooes elsewhere, was found beside a stack of tires in a rest hall tent for circus truck drivers.

No marks of violence other than the pistol wounds were found on the 6 foot 7 inch man, reported Dr. George G. Merrill, who conducted the autopsy for the homicide bureau.

Five circus truck drivers were questioned by Baltimore police and released.

The slain man's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Sheehan, and brother, Edward J. Sheehan, live at the N. Washington blvd. address in Arlington.

Other survivors here are two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Burns of 2525 N st. se., and Mrs. William J. McCarthy of 1513 28th Pl. se.

Montgomery To Make Budget Public Tuesday

Formal adoption of the 1947-48 budget for Montgomery County will be announced on Tuesday, the County Commissioners said yesterday.

A final conference on the proposed $5,696,711 budget was held yesterday by the five commissioners.

County Supervisor Irving G. McNayr said the commissioners had settled on final details of the budget and had instructed him and County Comptroller Alexander K. Hancock to work out the financial aspects of "minor changes" between now and Tuesday at which time it will be made public.

Bill Would Put Catoctin Area in Capital System

Representative J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.) yesterday introduced a House bill to make the Catoctin recreation area near Thurmont, Md., a part of the National Capital Park system.

The area is now under control of the Richmond office of the National Park Service, officials said.

The bill would let the National Park Service contract with individuals or corporations for operation of facilities and services—without advertising and without competitive bids.

It would also extend U. S. Park Police powers to the Catoctin area, to the Chopawamsic, Va., recreation demonstration project, and to the portion of the C. & O. Canal outside the District line. The bill went to the House Public Lands Committee.

No Criminal Violation Seen In

Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West yesterday said he found "no evidence of criminal violations" in correspondence linking former Fire Alarm Superintendent Herbert A. Friede with the Gamewell Co.

He said he had personally studied copies of the fire alarm equipment company's letters, which are now in the hands of the Justice Department, and had prepared a report for the Commissioners.

He declined to make his recommendations public without the consent of the Commissioners, but admitted that he thought Friede had been "indiscreet" in his activities as fire alarm superintendent.

The Gamewell Co. is now under indictment in Boston, charged with monopolistic practices leading to high and unreasonable prices for fire alarm boxes sold to a number of cities, including the District.

Company letters allege that Friede assisted the Gamewell Co. in negotiating the District contract.

West also conceded that the Commissioners had the power to fire Friede, who now serves as superintendent of communications for the District. Friede, although not a Civil Service employe, is entitled to veteran's preference for serving in World War I, however, he said.

Commissioner John Russell Young said the Commissioners were still investigating the case.

Rationing End Starts Quarrel For the Credit

By The Associated Press

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson's action ending household sugar rationing Wednesday midnight caused the Republican-controlled House yesterday to put aside a bill proposing to kill by congressional action this last of wartime coupon controls.

House GOP Leader Halleck (Ind.) said "it is assumed" the legislation killing sugar rationing will not now be needed. The House had planned to vote on the bill yesterday.

Halleck indicated, however, that the bill would be kept around in event there is any indication later that sugar rationing may be restored.

Anderson's action closing out sugar controls for home, restaurant and hotel use echoed on the House floor in a heated but sometimes humorous exchange between Democrats and Republicans.

Representatives Rich (D., Pa.) and Keefe (R., Wis.) shouted that Anderson was "pushed" into the lifting of sugar rationing by a threat that the Congress would take the matter into its own hands.

Democratic Leader Rayburn of Texas commented:

"The Secretary of Agriculture has been working on this for many weeks. It was known what he would do. What hurts the gentleman from Pennsylvania is that the report has gone out to the country that the Secretary of Agriculture ended rationing and the Republican Party in the Senate and House did not. I can see why the Republicans are complaining.

Consumption Of Sugar Here Half of Normal

The average Greater Washington housewife is purchasing only half the usual amount of sugar with the end of rationing, a spot survey of Greater Washington grocery stores disclosed yesterday.

No longer compelled to purchase 10 pounds at a time with one stamp, most housewives who bought sugar yesterday were satisfied with 5 pounds. Those who could find it settled for a 1 or 2-pound box.

For example, Victor Murphy, manager of Earl Plummer's Grocery Store, 621 Sligo ave., Silver Spring, Md., said he made only one 20-pound sale in the morning, although sales of that size were common during rationing. Most of his sales were 5 pounds, he said.

No Rush for Supplies

Actually, few Greater Washington housewives rushed to the corner grocer for sugar yesterday, although it was the first time in five years they could buy as much as they wanted.

Retail and wholesale grocers offered the following explanations for the lack of a run on sugar supplies:

1. When sugar was first rationed, most housewives bought as much as they could and stored it up in case rationed amounts were decreased later. Now they have sugar on hand.

2. Knowing they can get all the sugar they want now, most housewives will buy only when they actually need it.

The Dumbarton Market, 1357 Wisconsin ave. nw., reported that sugar sales were actually below normal yesterday. William Weinstein, manager of the Mayflower Market, 1733 L st. nw., said he hadn't made a single sugar sale up to 2 p. m.

Sugar sales were very slightly higher than normal at the Minnesota Market, 2235 Minnesota ave. se., but there was no rush for the item, according to Owner Milton Kolodin.

Trade Is Normal

The Arlington Market, 2719 Wilson blvd., Arlington, said only the regular customers had been in to buy the same way they would have done if rationing were still in effect.

R. M. Hardy, president of the Nation-Wide Service Grocers, said several of their stores reported a slight rush at the start of the morning.

570 Veterans Granted Loans

Loans under the GI bill to veterans in the Washington area reached $60,365,820 last month, the Veterans' Administration announced yesterday.

During the month, 528 veterans borrowed $4,934,920 to buy homes and 42 others borrowed $102,403 to go into business, VA reported. Close to 8000 veterans in the area have taken advantage of the GI loan program since its start in 1944.

'Bread Cast Upon Waters' Brings Up Drowned Man

Riverton, Md., June 12 (AP).—The Negro community on San Domingo buzzed today with the story—bread had been cast on the waters and a body came up. The "FBI man" was in jail down at Salisbury—a few miles to the east.

It all started when Sam Brown, 30, the village grocer, drowned in Nanticoke River. Dr. Charles T. Fisher, acting Wicomico County medical examiner said all the circumstances pointed to suicide. A Negro suicide is almost unheard of.

That was enough to throw the neighborhood into a dither of furtive conversation. Then the "FBI man" came around and asked questions about the drowning.

Time Held Lacking

There wasn't much time to answer his inquiries, for most everyone was busy over at the river. Mrs. Eleanor Morris, Brown's sister from Laurel, Del., had taken over direction of the search for his body.

Folklore dictated her technique. She placed a loaf of bread on the quiet waters of the Nanticoke.

"It floated around in circles for a while," she reported. "Then it stopped. I sent up to the house for the sheet."

The sheet was the one on which her brother had slept before he drowned.

It was cast on the Nanticoke. Mrs. Morris said it floated for a time, then sank at the same spot where the bread stopped circling. The body came up a little while later.

State Trooper James A. Staubs came along then and the Negroes told him about the "FBI man." Staubs said his investigation showed Preston Adkins, about 30, of Laurel, had represented himself as an FBI agent.

In the County jail at Salisbury, where he was held on a charge of impersonating an officer, Adkins said he had served in the Army's military intelligence section during the war and was a Pinkerton agent, a fire underwriters representative and a private detective.

Truman Asks Continuation Of Credit Curb

By The Associated Press

President Truman asked Congress yesterday for a peacetime act permitting Government to curb installment buying and some other forms of credit lest easy money keep prices from coming down.

But if Congress refuses he will bow to its decision, he announced, and remove the credit controls now imposed under wartime powers.

The President's views were made known in his absence in Canada in a letter he wrote to Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. Eccles read the letter to the House Banking Committee yesterday following his disclosure of its existence Tuesday. The committee is considering legislation such as Mr. Truman wants.

Eccles, like the President, urged the committee to approve the bill giving the Federal Reserve Board authority to continue in peacetime the wartime credit curbs it now exercises. Representatives of the American Bankers Association oppose some parts of the measure.

The principal control now requires a down payment of at least one third of the price, and limits the time in which the balance is paid, on installment purchases of such things as automobiles and household goods.

Mr. Truman's letter quoted a paragraph from a memorandum of the Council of Economic Advisers with which he expressed "full accord":

"There now exists the power to limit the growth of installment credit which, even under the present restraints, has been expanding at a disturbing rate. This power now rests on wartime executive order, which may have to be rescinded in the absence of legislative authority for its continuation. If the curbs on the extension of installment credit now being exercised under regulation were to be removed at this time, there would be a tendency of producers and distributers to try to sustain the absorptive power of the market by accepting lower down payments and a longer time period rather than adjusting prices to the purchasing power of the current incomes. This would postpone rather than promote the kind of stable adjustment that our economy requires."

Mr. Truman did not set a date for removing the existing credit controls, if Congress declines to approve peacetime control. But presumably he would wait until this session adjourns July 31.

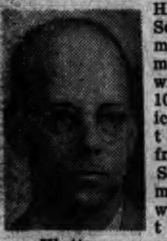
WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, JUNE 13, 1947

The Federal Diary

By Jerry Kluttz

Committee Approves Retirement Pay Clause

CAPITOL HILL: Yesterday's developments on the Federal employe front were:



Kluttz

Approval of the bill by the House Civil Service Committee to permit employes with less than 10 years of service to withdraw their money from the Civil Service retirement system when they leave the Federal service.

The same committee okayed a bill to direct the Census Bureau to take a business census next year and every five years thereafter.

Representative Lane (D., Mass.) said he would introduce bills to require the Government to pay a dismissal wage of 30 days' salary to employes who are fired for economy reasons. He would also bring Federal workers under unemployment compensation.

Chairman Langer of the Senate Civil Service Committee, proposed creation of a joint congressional committee to investigate the loyalty of Federal employes. The 10-man committee would be made up of five members from each the House and the Senate.

The House committee also approved the Rees loyalty bill with amendments. The bill provides that all Federal employes and applicants are to be investigated: that the preliminary work is to be done by Civil Service, but FBI is to take over the cases when derogatory evidence is found; that FBI is to report its findings to an independent loyalty board of five members to be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate; that the central board is to recommend disposition of the cases to agency heads, but that reports must be made to both the President and the Congress when the agency heads refuse to follow the suggestions.

The House committee will meet today on the Langer-Chavez-Stevenson retirement bill.

FPHA: That threatened layoff at Federal Public Housing would be a lot tougher than was first estimated when its budget was approved by the House. The agency has 3500 administrative employes and 1780—or more than half—would be laid off under the House bill. The 50 per cent cut would be applied to the 850-man staff here.

Previously it had been estimated that only a third of the employes would be fired if the House budget is approved. The agency will make a fight in the Senate for additional funds.

MARITIME: It was given $1,800,000 in the deficiency bill. This means that the dark threat of payless vacations for its staff has disappeared.

INTERIOR: Some of the older heads in this department are a bit peeved by the orders they are given by Assistant Secretary Girard Davidson. Incidentally, Davidson has clashed with William Warne over reclamation and public power policies, and he wasn't too happy when Warne was made an Assistant Secretary . . . Secretary Krug will take up the oil shortage at a special Cabinet meeting to be held Tuesday . . . The Senate Appropriations Committee today is slated to report out the Interior supply bill with a sizable increase for reclamation.

NAVY: It's reclassifying the jobs of thousands of its employes. The record to date is: 66.3 per cent of the jobs are unchanged in grade; 23.3 per cent are downgraded, and 10.4 per cent are upgraded.

CIVIL SERVICE: Its latest plan to give greater job security to career employes is now in effect. It was outlined here in detail last Sunday.

FEDERAL POWER: The nomination of Burton N. Behling to be a member of this commission is the center of a GOP jurisdictional fight.

Teacher Hire Delay Is Hit In Arlington

Only half of Arlington's school teachers have been rehired for the fall school term, Dr. Oscar LeBeau, president of the citizens committee for school improvement said yesterday.

His claim was admitted by Assistant School Superintendent Charles Walsh, who said only 172 of the teachers had been appointed Monday, with roughly 168 contracts still to be approved.

Walsh blamed the appointment lag on problems involved in setting up Arlington's recently-published teacher salary schedule.

In criticizing the delay, Le Beau pointed out that "Fairfax County did its appointing for next fall six weeks ago."

"As a result of this delay," he added, "by the time teachers get their new contracts, most of them have left for the summer and they have no chance to get together to improve teaching conditions."

"We sincerely hope," he said, "that every teacher who has served satisfactorily will be notified immediately of his or her reemployment status."

107 Teachers Seeking Posts; 342 Needed

Vacancies for permanent teachers in white elementary and junior high schools won't be filled by this year's batch of applicants.

One hundred and seven prospective teachers, 61 on the elementary and 46 on the junior high level, yesterday completed the annual three-day examination for permanent appointments.

Even if all these teachers qualify, they will do little to relieve the teacher shortage in Schools.

The schools currently need 251 elementary teachers and 91 junior high teachers to replace temporary instructors who don't meet qualifications for permanent jobs.

Negro schools are faring much better. One hundred and fifty-nine prospective elementary teachers and 95 junior high applicants took the examinations. At present there are 14 temporary teachers in elementary schools and 23 in junior high schools.

The shortage of teachers was listed yesterday by Superintendent of Schools Hobart M. Corning as one of the two major defects in District schools.

Speaking at a luncheon meeting of the Junior Board of Commerce, Corning said that young people no longer are interested in going into a profession that pays so little.

In previous years, Corning said, school administrators had long lists of qualified applicants, but now a mere handful are taking exams. Teacher training schools are "depopulated," he said.

The second mayor defect in local schools is a shortage of buildings, Corning said. A 50-million-dollar loan that the Board of Education hopes to get from Congress for new buildings will solve only current needs, he said.

High Priced Beef Not Pushed Here

Butchers' Stocks Ample; Stockyard Raises Dim Hopes For Early Drop

Butchers and meat wholesalers in Greater Washington refused to push sales of beef and lamb at current high prices but reported ample stocks on hand to care for customer demands.

Although many merchants reported "a natural reluctance" on the part of customers to paying 89 cents and over for a pound of steak and proportionately high prices for roasts, they also reported few refusals.

Hopes for an early end to the more than seasonally high prices were further dimmed yesterday by reports from the Nation's stockyards. Prices of steer on the hoof continued to climb in most markets.

Cattle prices were strong or higher at East St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Indianapolis and Minneapolis. Salable cattle receipts at 11 big market yesterday were 34,800 as contrasted to 45,000 on Wednesday. Heavy purchases at lowered prices are needed to crack the current high prices at local meat counters.

Blame for the sudden trend upward in meat prices was placed on "speculation" of meat buyers "to corner the meat supply" at the possible end of Government export control, July 1. The charge was made by Mrs. Sarah Newman, chairman of the Washington Committee for Consumer Protection, yesterday.

Mrs. Newman said her organization has requested the President and Congress to reinstate controls on meat. Pending such action, she said, consumers are asked to cut their meat purchases immediately and refuse to pay the "unwarranted prices."

The retailers' role in today's Greater Washington market was reflected in their advertisements, which featured pork roll, braunschweiger and bolognas. Steaks were conspicuously absent in the advertisements, as were most prime cuts of beef and lamb.

Veal was advertised widely, since its price was little changed by the upswing early this week which sent most lamb and beef cuts up from 4 to 10 cents a pound.

Egg prices advanced 4 cents a dozen here yesterday on wholesale markets. Dealers said the advance reflected a similar increase June 10 at Harrisonburg, Va., producing area for this region.

Grade A eggs sold at local wholesale houses yesterday for an average of 54½ cents a dozen; average price for the medium grade, wholesals, was 48½-cents a dozen.

Butter, which advanced 2 cents a pound at New York market prices Wednesday, remained steady yesterday at 64 cents a pound. Most chains asked 69 cents a pound at retail but at least one supermarket offered it at 68 cents. Normally, the retail price of butter here is 8 cents over the New York butter mart prices, indicating that local wholesalers and retailers are absorbing recent butter price increases.

The concluding article of the series on Rock Creek Park, which was to appear in today's Post, will appear instead in a special travel section Sunday.

2 Catholic Social Service Units Merged

Merger of the National Catholic School of Social Service with the Catholic University's School of Social Work was announced here yesterday.

Simultaneously, Right Rev. Msgr. P. J. McCormick, Catholic University rector, announced appointment of the Very Rev. Msgr. John J. McClafferty of New York as dean of the merged organizations. It will be designated as the National Catholic School of Social Service, Catholic University.

Msgr. McClafferty succeeds the Very Rev. Thomas E. Mitchell, who returns to the diocese of Richmond, Va., after nine years as dean of the university's school of social work. He will be pastor of Richmond's St. Elizabeth's Church.

The merger involves transfer of endowments and property valued at more than $500,000 and is effective July 1. In addition, the university has received from Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, a gift of $50,000 toward construction of a new residence hall for women students of the school.

The unified school will provide graduate training in social work for laymen and women, priests and sisters and offers class and field instruction in general, medical and psychiatric social case work.

Also on the curriculum are child welfare, treatment and prevention of delinquency and crime, group work, community organization, administration of private and public social work agencies, public welfare and research.

Playfield Plan Disclosed for Takoma Park

Partial plans to establish a recreation center for populous Takoma Park, Md., were revealed last night by E. Brooke Lee, vice chairman of the Maryland-National Capital Parks and Planning Commission.

Colonel Lee disclosed that the commission, yesterday afternoon, approved a $23,000 appropriation toward financing purchase of a town site for the proposed center.

Lee spoke before members and guests of the annual banquet meeting of the Allied Civic Group of Silver Spring, a federation of 20 smaller civic organizations.

The speaker also reported that the commission has voted to study proposals for three recreation areas in communities requesting such centers.

He listed these as:

1. Chevy Chase, east of Connecticut ave., north of Western ave. and west of Rock Creek Park.
1. Chevy Chase.
2. Bethesda-Chevy Chase.
3. Silver Spring.

Lee said that the commissioners had prepared master zoning plans for outlying areas

Victor Richter, consulting engineer of Woodmoor, was elected president of the Allied civic group at last night's annual election.

Other officers elected include: Vice president, Robert T. Snure of Four Corners-Northwood Park; secretary-treasurer, John Dietz of Seven Oaks Manor, and corresponding secretary, Mrs. Howard M. Kline of Sligo-Branview.

X-Ray Project For District Needs $66,500

Congress will have to appropriate $66,500, approximately $11,500 more than originally expected, if the District is to have a mass X-ray program to detect tuberculosis here.

This became clear yesterday when Health Officer George C. Ruhland said he didn't "foresee any surplus money" which could be used for the survey out of Health Department funds.

Dr. Ruhland had estimated last April that $11,500 from the department's current budget might be applied to the X-ray program.

Building repairs and other expenditures would probably eat up most of the 1947-48 surplus, he indicated. "And unless there would be authorization to carry remaining funds over into the next budget year," he added, "even they would not be available."

Representative Walt Horan (R., Wash.) said the matter of providing funds for the survey was still an open issue before his House District Fiscal Affairs Subcommittee.

Whether $55,000 or $66,500 would be required would not be a "decisive" point in making the final decision, he indicated.

The D. C. Tuberculosis Association will allocate $33,400 of its funds to assist in public "education" for the survey.

The United States Public Health Service has also agreed to spend $88,507 on the project and to furnish mobile X-ray units.

Senate Unit Votes Day Care Center Extension

Bill to Provide Operating Funds For One Year To Be Reported

A one-year extension of Washington's day care center program was approved yesterday by the Senate District Committee.

The committee voted to recommend Senate passage of the bill presented by Senator John Sherman Cooper (R., Ky.).

Cooper explained the bill means a cut in the present day care center program. It would authorize $150,000 for next year's operation to run the center through June 30, 1948.

This year, said Cooper, the total expense has been about $245,000, of which parents' fees have paid $70,000, leaving a net District outlay of about $175,000.

He said the program has taken care of nearly 400 children.

His new bill, he said, would take care of about 340 children. He said the actual cash paid out by the District government would be from $110,000 to $120,000 and the rest would be made up by parents' fees.

He said the first children to go out of the centers would be those whose parents are paying the full cost of their childrens' care.

He said he was convinced his proposed program would reach all the families who had an absolute need for it.

Without extension of the centers, Cooper told the committee, an estimated 60 families would be forced to turn to the welfare department for another form of financial aid.

Store Owner's Ruse Saves $200 In D. C. Holdup

The hot weather helped a young bandit in holding up a store for $25 last night, but the cool head of the owner deprived the gunman of another $200 in the cash register.

Harry Iroff, 28, owner of the Model Cleaners, 1412 Pennsylvania ave. se., told police he was working late and had left the door open to keep cool.

When the young holdup man entered about 9:30 p. m. and ordered him at gunpoint to empty the till into a paper bag, Iroff turned over only the $1 bills, leaving the larger notes in the drawer.

Consider the Hot Jobs of These Four Workers and You'll Cool Off

SIMMERING—S. L. Alport, of Alexandria, Va., working under a blazing sun yesterday, makes adjustments atop 1200-horsepower engine of plane at National Airport still hot from flight

THE PROVERBIAL HINGES MIGHT BE COOLER—With the mercury pushing 92 yesterday, Mike Poore, of 6400 Davis st., Maryland Park, Md., sweats it out as he "turns on the heat" over a blazing forge at the Potomac Iron Works, 604 L st. nw. For 24 years, cool or warm, Mike has been pounding red-hot iron

HE SERVES IT HOT—The perspiring brow is that of George Sachlis, part owner of the Herald Square Restaurant, 1303 H. st. nw., preparing piping hot consomme. "It seems to cool them off," says George about his "famous summer soup"

Post Staff Photos—Jones

IN THE PIT—Clay James, 2439 M st. nw., a Capital Transit Co. pitman for 30 years, comes up with a "plow" from the depths under the streetcar tracks on Wisconsin, above P st. nw.

By V. R. Montanari
Post Reporter

At 3:48 p. m. yesterday, when the local temperature hit the day's high of 92 degrees, Mike Poore was warming himself over a coal fire, with a blower to make the fire burn.

Summer and winter, man and boy, Poore, who lives at 6400 Davis st., Maryland Park, Md., has been working over a forge, and pounding red-hot iron with a hammer, for 24 years.

Hot? Yes, said Poore as his face gleamed with sweat in the light of the forge fire, "but I sweat a lot more in the winter." He was pounding out ornamental scroll work at the Potomac Iron Works shop, 604-606 L st. nw., where he began work as a helper at 16.

Poore's job is one of several which should make the majority of the city's workers thankful for the offices where they work, what with high ceilings, fans and venetian blinds—not to speak of air conditioning. At least, the humble typewriter pounder doesn't have to contend with artificial, man-made heat.

For the steam laundry worker, the locomotive fireman, the tailor who presses your pants, the many employed in industrial, fuel-burning occupations—it's air conditioning in reverse, when they go to work.

And don't forget the men in the burning sun, such as the workers who keep our highways in repair. Or those with more "glamorous" jobs, like S. L. Allport, American Airlines mechanic, of 24 East Masonic View ave., Alexandria.

At the National Airport, Allport sweats out repair jobs on the airplane engines which have just carried their loads hundreds of miles. With cylinder-head temperatures of about 350 degrees, there's plenty of heat wafting into his face while the sun beats down on his back.

There are lots of other steamed-up jobs, too. For man, in his wisdom, isn't satisfied with Nature's work and has to stoke her fires, even in Washington.

Take hot consomme of beef, for instance. You may not want to take it, in this weather, but George Sachlis, part owner of the Herald Square Restaurant, 13th and H sts. nw., says it's a "famous summer soup."

"They ask for it. It seems to cool them off," say he. The result is that the stove has to be kept hot for 12 hours while the brew simmers, and so does Sachlis.

Meanwhile, the weatherman reminds us that summer is still more than a week away. Yesterday's 92 has been equaled three times on June 12, the last occasion being in 1938. Slightly cooler weather is predicted for early today with the highest temperature in the upper 80's, but is expected to "continue warm and humid," though cloudy as the day wears on. Yesterday's humidity ranged from 89 per cent at 5 a. m. to 50 per cent at 4 p. m.

One case of heat prostration was reported to police by 5 p. m. Lloyd Farran, 26, of 722 S 22d st., Arlington, Va., was admitted to Garfield Hospital after he collapsed while walking along 14th st. at Chapin st. nw. He was released three hours later.

From the Other Extreme Department comes the news that Lander, Wyo., had 6 inches of snow yesterday. Cheyenne had 5 inches, with a temperature of 30 degrees, and Denver had an inch. It was the latest spring snow in the 75-year history of the Denver Weather Bureau.

Fairfax Man Charged In Shooting Death

Bennie Smith, 30, of Fairfax, Va., was charged with murder by Fairfax County police yesterday following the death of another Fairfax man who was shot Wednesday during a dispute that began in a Bull Run dance hall.

The victim, Nobel Jackson, 41, died early yesterday in Arlington Hospital.

Jackson quarreled with Frances Smith, sister of Bennie Smith, at the dance hall, according to police. When her brother took her home Jackson sideswiped his car, police reported. When Smith left his sister at the trailer where she was living, just west of Kamp Washington, Fairfax County, Jackson also entered the trailer. Whereupon, police said. Smith brought a .22-caliber rifle from his home, called Jackson out of the trailer and shot him.

Thefts Show Variety

Various and sundry items caught the fancy of thieves in Alexandria yesterday.

G. P. Peyton, 408 N. Fayette st., reported a pair of $5 shoes were taken from beside the Alexandria pool. Michael Coffman, 202 Duke st., lost his Shelby Flyer bicycle. G. E. Lacy, 208 W. Glebe rd., has three less chickens than when he went to bed Wednesday night.

Burglar Scares Four

Four young women, admittedly "scared silly," yesterday asked police to find a nonchalant burglar who terrorized them in their apartment early yesterday.

The intruder, they said, entered their apartment at 1800 Connecticut ave. nw., at 1:30 a. m., created a minor uproar, and calmly departed $10 richer. He took the money from one pocketbook and ignored five others, all within the same view and reach.

Elsie Demko, 24, UNRRA employe, complained she was awakened by the stranger when he pulled her leg, and when she opened her eyes, she said, he hit her. He then left, without haste, amid the screams of the awakened girls.

Burned Saving Parrot

Successful rescue of her pet canary cost Mrs. Carrie F. Powell, 55, of 542 14th st. se., first-degree burns of the face and neck. She was reported in "fair" condition last night at Casualty Hospital.

Mrs. Powell, her husband, George, 61, and a roomer, Lamont Gordon, 27, all fled flames at 12:15 a. m. yesterday at the Powell home. Then the woman remembered her canary.

The blaze, of undetermined origin, started in the basement and caused extensive damages to the first-floor apartment before extinguished by firemen.

Thief Gets $125

Milton R. Giusti, proprietor of the Calvert Grill, 2340 Wisconsin ave. nw., reported to police yesterday that someone broke in and stole $125 from a drawer behind the grill bar, early Thursday morning. Entrance was gained, he said, by removal of a window screen.

'Dream' Bike Stolen

Norman Vaughn's dream came true—but it didn't last long.

On Tuesday the 15-year-old schoolboy put $10 down for a sleek, new bike and rode it home, to 1432 R st. nw. He'd been thinking about doing just that for three years.

Yesterday the youth—who's been working at a wholesale drug company to earn money for payments on the bike, and other—things, discovered his dream was gone. Stolen, lock, chain and all.

Police got the same bad news from two 'teen-age girls, Billie Fiscus, 13, and Karen Gordon, 14, both of 4540 3d st. se. Billie got her bike for Christmas seven years ago.

Wife's Suit Upheld

A wife who is listed as a partner in a business primarily for tax purposes is entitled to a share of the proceeds when the business is sold, the Maryland Court of Appeals ruled yesterday at Annapolis.

The ruling upheld a decision of Prince Georges County Court in the case of Thomas J. Smith and his wife, Esther, who formerly operated a tavern at Colmar Manor, Md. The couple separated when the tavern was sold for $32,000 last October and the wife sued for an equal accounting. Her husband had contended they never had a real partnership.

Prince Georges County Liquor Board yesterday granted nine licenses, ruled against one and continued hearings on two others at the request of the councils of the towns involved.

Utility Signs Pact

Alexandria Water for Fairfax Unit

The Alexandria Water Co. has signed a contract to furnish up to 500,000 gallons of water daily to a proposed Fairfax County housing project.

The action occurred while the city council was still considering a copy of the unsigned contract presented for its consideration last week.

This was revealed yesterday by City Manager Carl Budwesky. Budwesky had been instructed to investigate a report made in Tuesday's council meeting that officials of the water company had conferred with members of the State Corporation Commission in Richmond last week.

Water company officials told council members that under their charter they are authorized to supply water to Fairfax and Arlington Counties as well as to the City of Alexandria. They said that State officials had advised them they could proceed with their expansion of activity without consent of either State or city.

Meanwhile, Councilman Paul L. Delaney said that he would shortly initiate necessary action for the city to take over the water company from its private ownership.

Delaney said that if such a precedent is allowed to stand it may be followed by further requests for water until the city's supply might be endangered.

Anderson Hails Farmers for Food Output

In the last 12 months the United States has exported "more food to hungry nations than all the rest of the nations in the world combined," Secretary of Agriculture Anderson told 4-H Club members yesterday.

"Go home and tell your fathers and mothers that they helped to win the shooting part of the war, but that now they're winning the feeding part," Anderson told approximately 300 delegates from 45 States and Puerto Rico to the National 4-H Club Camp at Arlington Farms, Va.

"Never in history has any nation, or all the nations ever shipped as much food to keep starvation out of the world, as has this country, thanks to its farmers, in the last two years," he said.

"Cleaning Up the Mess"

Describing the farmers as "cleaning up the mess left by the war," he added that in the last month alone this country has shipped abroad 1,712,000 long tons of wheat, enough to equal 27 loaves of bread from every person in America. The achievements of the Nation's farmers is America's greatest contribution, he said, to the stability of the world.

The delegates visited the Agricultural Research Center, Beltsville, Md., where research is carried on by the Department of Agriculture in behalf of the 6½ million American farmers yesterday afternoon.

Results of poultry breeding for quality eggs, use of DDT—which was developed at Beltsville, artificial cattle breeding to economically improve the quality of stock, and more efficient use of fertilizers were among the subject discussed and demonstrated for the boys.

The best methods of freezing fruits and vegetables, stylizing and construction of garments for use on the farm, and the breeding of sheep for "Persian lamb" were among the subjects described to the girls.

Returning to Arlington Farms, 4-H delegates last night were shown documentary films and participated in group singing.

This forenoon they will visit the Supreme Court, where Associate Justice Wiley Rutledge will speak to them, after which some will visit the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry and some the House Committee on Agriculture. The afternoon will be devoted to conferences.

Play 'Workshop' To Open Thursday

The Recreation Leaders Workshop, sponsored by five Arlington Community Chest agencies and the school recreation department, gets under way next Thursday in the Arlington Recreation Center.

About 800 professional and volunteer recreation workers have been invited to attend a three-day workshop, first of its kind in the county.

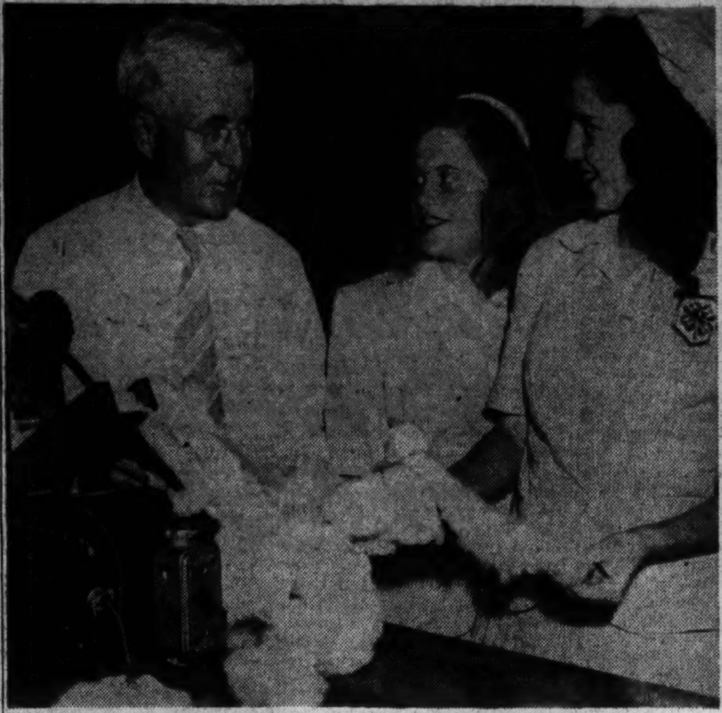
Instruction in story telling and crafts will be given from 10 to 12 a. m., with the 2 to 4 p. m. period devoted to sports and games instruction, trailcraft, and nature craft. Demonstrations of fishing, weaving, folk dancing and group singing will occupy the evening sessions.

Inkwells, Teacups Fly in Shanghai Council

Shanghai, China, June 12 (U.P.).—After undergoing bombardment by teacups and inkwells, the city council decided today it should not ban ballroom dancing in Shanghai.

Two councilors fought a five-minute duel in a bitter dispute over the proposal, throwing inkwells, pens and teacups to back up their arguments.

4-H Delegates Inspect Agriculture Research Center



THE MODERN WAY OF WOOL CARDING—Dr. John I. Harding, animal fiber technologist in the Bureau of Animal Industry at the Agriculture Research Center demonstrates a wool carding machine for two 4-H delegates who visited the plant at Beltsville, Md., yesterday. They are Mildred Swanson, 20, (center) of Arvilla, N. Dak., and Shirley Irene Jones, 17, of Brooksville, Fla. The 4-H encampment is at Arlington Farms, Va.

"LADY ORMSBY" ON EXHIBIT—Richard Larson (left) 20, of Carl Junction, Mo., and Boyd Cook, 17, of Glasgow, Del., study Lady Ormsby Gerben Colantha, an artificially bred cow at the Beltsville Research Center. She gives 1035 pounds of butterfat (equivalent to 1200 pounds of butter) per year. Both Larson—who has 10 registered Jerseys of his own—and Cook have been using artificial breeding at their dairy farms for five years

PUC Challenges ICC Ruling on Joint Fares to Virginia

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday challenged the Interstate Commerce Commission's authority to make Capital Transit Co. continue wartime joint fare arrangements with Virginia bus companies.

PUC ordered the company to charge full District fares for passengers "traveling between points in the District of Columbia and points in Arlington County, Va."

The order was in direct conflict with ICC's May 9 ruling, which requires the transit company to continue honoring interline tickets bought by Pentagon passengers.

These tickets, sold in "books" of 12 for $1.60, have two sections, one good for a ride on CTC lines in the District, the other for transportation to the Pentagon via Arlington, Bancroft and Washington or Arnold Line buses.

CTC receives slightly less than six cents of the 13½cent fare collected. The PUC order thus places the company in the position of having to choose between violation of either the ICC order or the PUC order.

PUC said the "preferred and special rate" to Pentagon passengers violated its orders setting up District rates and was unfair to persons who pay full District fare on CTC lines to points in Maryland.

Officials agree that final decision of the matter will probably depend on a court ruling.

E. C. Giddings, special assistant to the CTC president, declined to comment until company attorneys had studied the order.

Edward M. Reidy, assistant chief ICC counsel, said he had not seen the order. "We take the position, however, that as long as they have a joint-fare to a State, ICC has jurisdiction," he said.

Dr. Mudd's Descendants On Visit to Jail

Key West, Fla., June 12 (AP).—Dr. Richard Mudd of Saginaw, Mich., was on a pilgrimage today to Fort Jefferson in the dry Tortugas where his grandfather was chained as prisoner 83 years ago.

The grandfather, Dr. Samuel A. Mudd of Maryland, was ridden into prison by public hysteria after he unwittingly set the broken leg of John Wilkes Booth, slayer of President Lincoln.

Dr. Richard Mudd and his three children, Mary, Richard and Joseph, left by boat for the island group 60 miles west of Key West to become the first members of the family to return to the big brick fortress since reconstruction days.

Their trip was in marked contrast to that of the grandfather, who epitomized his plight by scratching on the prison wall "He who enters here leave all hope behind."

Dr. Samuel Mudd was freed to save lives when a yellow fever epidemic killed many prisoners and troops, and after a total of four years' imprisonment was cleared of complicity in the slaying of Lincoln. He returned to Maryland where he died 13 years later.

Physicians Forum Favors Health Bill

By Lester Grant

Atlantic City, June 12.—The Physicians Forum, a dissenting group of doctors who disagree with many of the policies of the American Medical Association, voted approval here tonight of the new National Health Insurance bill, which provides for national compulsory health insurance.

At the same time, the membership voted to disapprove the Taft health bill, which is aimed at expanding medical and dental care throughout Federal aid to States.

Most doctors appear to be opposed to the National Health Insurance bill; many doctors favor the Taft bill; some doctors do not like either bill. The Physicians Forum is an organization of doctors who are also members of the American Medical Association or of the National Medical Association, which is a national organization of Negro doctors. The forum claims a membership of about 1000 doctors.

Dr. Elmer M. Greenberg, of New York, in an analysis of the two health bills, both of which are now the subject of hearings before a subcommittee of the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee, asserted: "Its (the Taft bill's) central thesis is to put the American Medical Association in the driver's seat of a State-by-State system of medical charity." He urged support of the National Health Insurance bill, which "by utilizing the social insurance principle, removes the financial barrier between the doctor and patient."

Moderate Smoking Held Harmless in Heart Cases

Atlantic City, N. J., June 12 (AP). Moderate smoking is okay for "most patients" suffering from heart disease—despite a common medical view to the contrary—the American Medical Association was told today.

"In fact, for many," said Dr. Robert Levy of New York, "smoking aids in promoting emotional stability."

But smoking should be forbidden, he said, for patients afflicted with the acute forms of cardiac malady—congestive heart failure, rheumatic heart disease, and acute cardiac infection, a condition in which there is destruction of heart tissue due to circulatory failure.

Also, smoking is taboo for persons suffering from disorders of the "peripheral" blood system supplying the body's surface; and for cardiac patients who show "unusual sensitivity" to nicotine.

Despite the common practice of doctors "to advise cardiac patients to abstain from the use of tobacco," Levy declared, it has been the experience of himself and colleagues "over a period of years, that most patients with a cardiac disorder, including those with disease of the coronary arteries, can smoke moderately without apparent harm."

And he told the AMA's centennial convention that it doesn't make any significant difference whether a patient smokes regular or "denicotinized" brands of cigarettes.

U. S. Intervention In Next Coal Strike Held Industry Slap

Members of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters' Association were warned last night that Government intervention in the threatened July coal strike would be a blow at private industry.

The speaker at the meeting in the United States Chamber of Commerce auditorium, 1615 H st. nw., was Jennings Randolph, assistant to the president of Capital Airlines and a former representative from West Virginia.

Randolph declared a strike would start "government operation of the coal industry, which will be a trend toward the nationalization of the transport and communications systems in this country."

Neil W. McCord, retiring president of the association, presided at the meeting at which the following new officers were installed: William B. Rumple, president; Charles F. Sutter, first vice president, and William J. McCausland, second vice president.

Emergence of Susan Hayward

'Smash-Up' Attempts More Than 'Weekend' And Does Very Well

By Richard L. Coe

AN UNCOMMON AMOUNT of sense and able movie-making has gone into the Metropolitan's "Smash-up—The Story of a Woman." While it has its flaws, it's still several cuts above the average picture.

The film tells of a woman alcoholic over a period of years. Inevitably it will be compared to you know what, which covered only a few days. But whereas the earlier picture simply stated a case and left you to figure out the reasons the man took to drink, "Smash-Up" attempts to explain why the woman drank and how she was cured.

Susan Hayward

In attempting this wider range, "Smash-Up" does clarify the reasons pretty effectively, but her cure is a trifle too pat to be completely convincing. For all that, this is a study in character, which is far more than you can say for the run-of-the-mill film. As a result, it is a picture you will think about and remember.

Producer Walter Wanger has given it an excellent production. The dialogue is natural and usually convincing, without being trite. The settings are credible and the acting first-rate. And it presents Susan Hayward as an actress who may become one of our reliable emotional stars.

Miss Hayward plays the part of a reasonably successful night club singer, a chanteuse who makes you think of Hildegarde. Susan is far more successful than her boy friend, Lee Bowman, who's teamed with Eddie Albert as a song writing duo. You see her nerving herself for each singing appearance before a crowd by taking a heady snifter. She only drinks when she's afraid. Otherwise, she's a simple and natural young woman.

Susan gives up her career to further Lee's. She wangles him a radio singing job at which Lee makes good. By the time their daughter is several years old, Lee is at the top of the hit parade and Susan's staying home.

Staying Home's Too Easy

Staying home is too easy. Lee's success has given them a smart apartment, servants and a fine Scottish nanny for the youngster. Lee's waking moments are taken up with being king of the airwaves. There are always hordes of people to see and to please, endless parties which must be visited and those personal appearance trips. There is also Lee's secretary, who has gone over from her main job as the radio station's Girl Friday to handle Lee's complicated schedule.

Once more fear strikes Susan. She sees herself as an unnecessary appendage to Lee's success. She envies the secretary (Marsha Hunt) for hr ease in meeting people. Gradually she becomes jealous of the secretary's importance to her husband. And not so gradually she hits the bottle.

She comes to blows with the secretary. She baffles her husband by her intemperance and loss of self-control. The child's illness brings her to her senses for a time, but her ultimate reaction to the daughter's sickness is a craving for more drink. Ultimately her husband leaves her and takes the child.

Attempting to make a singing comeback herself, she hits bottom. Finally she steals the child from her nurse and takes her to their country home. Drinking again, she drops a cigaret on the floor. With the house in flames she rescues the youngster but is critically burned herself. The film's finale suggests that she has at last learned her lesson, that her drinking days are over and all will be well with the marriage.

Painstakingly Developed

The situations are painstakingly developed. The husband's role, however, is not always credible. One doubts that he would have been quite so unperceptive, especially if we are to accept the ultimate solution. That the secretary actually has fallen in love with the husband is another facet unnecessary to the main theme; for the wife to think she has is quite enough. Miss Hayward's drinking scenes are too repetitive; had they been graduated they would have been more believable.

Miss Hayward's generally first-rate acting is matched by a fine cast. Bowman's role might have been clearer in the writing. Miss Hunt is beautifully efficient as the secretary and Eddie Albert is likable as the understanding partner. Radio's Carleton Young pops up in his best film part to date as the radio manager. And when the credits are being noted, save a bow for scriptwriter John Howard Lawson. It's far from perfect, but a darn fine try.

"SMASH-UP—THE STORY OF A WOMAN." United Artists-International picture. Produced by Walter Wanger. Screenplay by John Howard Lawson from an original story by Dorothy Parker and Frank Cavett, with additional dialogue by Lionel Wiggam. Directed by Stuart Heisler. Earle's Post-Hays Western More Sex Than Six-Shooter

By Leo Brady

In the days of Tom Mix there was a tradition in horse opera that the hero's love life should consist chiefly of his affinity to his horse.

According to "Cheyenne," at the Earle, all this has been changed. Dennis Morgan, the hero of this "super-western," is more adept with a double entendre than with a six-shooter and is far more at home playing feet with Jane Wyman than etching hoofprints in the receiving earth.

The framework of "Cheyenne" is traditional otherwise. A thug who calls himself "The Poet" has been holding up stage coaches and Gambler Morgan agrees to bring the bandit home in return for a clean slate with the law on some of his own illegal scrapes. Like most poets, this thief is self-styled and wouldn't have rated a D from E. A. Guest, which gives you an idea of the state of letters in the West 80 years ago.

The stage coach gets held up three times (all to the same musical background), stunt men get shot and tumble over and over in the sagebrush, physical attraction rears its pawing forehoofs, and actors skulk around darkened streets and deserted houses shooting at each other. A couple of cogs slip here and there in the plot structure—but you know how offhand things were in the early days.

Raoul Walsh, who has directed some Hollywood epics in the past, isn't able to do much with this one, although he might be consoled on the script they handed him.

Alan LeMay and Thames Williamson are responsible for this. They appear to hæve an ear (or two) for bright if blue dialogue but it doesn't chime with the neighing of horses. Now and then they set up a nice situation, but their lapses from blueprint banality are not frequent enough to exclaim over. And they are never able to resist curving a line just enough to get it over the outside corner.

Jane Wyman is the oasis in this Wyoming desert and delivers herself of a cool, competent, nicely phrased performance. Dennis Morgan is brusque and probably spent hours learning how to riffle a deck of cards—but you wouldn't want him shooting an apple off your head.

Bruce Bennett, as Jane's first husband, talks like Gary Cooper—which is to say his voice keeps fading out on him, and Arthur Kennedy of the stage's "All My Sons" is a tough hombre named, exotically enough, Sundance Kid. Alan Hale mugs his way through a couple of scenes which would be off-key if anybody had sounded an A in connection with this picture.

The emphasis on flesh other than horse is mostly in evidence in a young woman named Janis Paige, who apparently hasn't heard all the fuss about juvenile delinquency.

Whatever you do, don't take your children.

"CHEYENNE." Warner Bros. picture produced by Robert Buckner. Screenplay by Alan LeMay and Thomas Williamson from a story by Paul I. Wellman. Music by Max Steiner. At the Earle Theater.

THE GIRL WITH THAT VOICE: Some voices in moviedom you'd know in the dark of a polar night and about the most unmistakable of all is Butterfly McQueen's. Butterfly is one of the most amusing people in "Duel in the Sun," holding over for a fourth week at the Palace. And surely you remember her as Vivien, Lady Olivier's panicky maid in "Gone With the Wind"

Queen's 'Pin Money' Check for $41,000

New York.—The Dowager Queen of Egypt told the president of the Waldorf-Astoria that she was leaving for Boston because the New York weather is bad. The Queen asked him to cash her check, so that she'd have enough money to take with her. "How much?" he asked. The Queen showed him the check. It was for $41,000 . . . Movie and theater operators will be heartened when, at the Detroit convention of the musicians' union, Petrillo will "suggest" eliminating the stand-by fees.

Ben Hecht

One movie company has broken the understanding of the major film-combine against sell-popular movies for television. An agreement was signed recently providing for the telecasting of the company's short subjects . . . Ben Hecht's doctor spent the weekend at Hecht's home in Nyack, treating him for an internal disorder . . . The cameramen who went to Grand Central to shoot scenes for "The Senator Was Indiscreet" found the railroad officials temperamental about their trains. They refused to let the crew photograph the trains in the station. "These are our old trains," they explained. "Photograph the new ones, which will be here in a few days."

Gardner Cowles, jr., the newspaper publisher, tells this story about his brothers—John Cowles, the publisher, and Russell Cowles, the distinguished painter . . . One day Herbert Hoover was introduced to their mother, Mrs. Gardner Cowles, sr. Mr. Hoover had been spending some time with John and Gardner, jr. and said: "Mrs. Cowles, you should be very happy about your boys. They're smart. In fact, I think one is a genius" . . . Mrs. Cowles turned to one of the people present and whispered: "I didn't know Mr. Hoover knows Russell."

June Havoc's leading man in "Girl of the Golden West" at the Westport Playhouse will be Murvyn Vye. Vye, who just completed two pictures in Hollywood, will work next as Merlin in Bing Crosby's "Connecticut Yankee." . . . Bill Williams of Britain's U. N. delegation, who still is in his 30s and was the youngest general in the British army, is leaving Lake Success to return to his prewar post as an Oxford Don . . . The Hapoel soccer team of Palestine, which will play the All-Stars at Ebbets Field on the night of the 17th, was entertained by Charlie Grimm, manager of the Cubs, and Burt Shotton, maanger of the Dodgers.. Jackie Robinson showed them how to slide into a base, and Grimm and Shotton gave them bats and balls to take back to Palestine. The soccer players' spokesman said: "We don't know how to hit a ball other than with our feet and heads."

Hal Bloch, th eradio gag writer who accompanied Bob Hope on his wartime tour of the front, saw Hope sitting with Harry Kurnitz at Reuben's. Bloch rushed up to them, and Hope asked: "Hal, how're you doing?" Hal replied: "I'm doing fine, Can't you tell? Don't you hear all the customers here hollering 'Oh, Hal; Oh, Hal?'" Kurnitz looked at the customers, and said: "They're not calling you, They're cursing the waiters."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Memo Gives Tipoff On Housing Whodunit

By Drew Pearson

THE MAN who has done more to block the Taft-Wagner-Ellender Housing Act and low-cost housing is shrewd, eager-beaver lobbyist Morton Bodfish of the United States Savings and Loan League.

Bricker

Able lobbyist Bodfish has issued a confidential bulletin to savings and loan members which the general public isn't supposed to know about. For it gives away one of the secrets as to how he gets legislation introduced in Congress. The confidential bulletin also discloses the fact that Senator John Bricker of Ohio has a personal motive behind some of the bills he has introduced on housing loans.

After telling how Bricker had introduced four bills affecting savings and loan associations, Bodfish goes on in his "confidential bulletin" to reveal this significant fact:

"Senator Bricker, who is director of one of our largest savings and loan institutions, is naturally a stanch believer in the fundamentals of thrift and home ownership and his introduction of these bills carries with it an unusual interest in their passage."

Note—Versatile lobbyist Bodfish did not mention two other Congressmen who do his bidding as members of the House Banking and Currency Committee. They are: Representative John J. Riley of Sumter, S. C., a Democrat; and Representative Charles K. Fletcher of San Diego, Calif., a Republican. Though relatively new Congressmen, they strangely turned up on the important Banking and Currency Committee which passes on low-cost housing bills. Both Congressmen are executives of savings and loan associations and they have voted consistently for their associations and against housing that would help the veterans.

Truman's Bust

WHEN PAUL GRIFFITH, commander of the American Legion, and Charles Keck, New York sculptor, called on Harry Truman to present Keck's latest bust of the President, Truman leaned back meditatively and said:

"You know, when I was in the Senate 10 years ago. I never dreamed that this would happen to me—that one day I would be receiving a bust of myself in the White House, as President of the likeness was a personal gift to United States."

Keck reported that the bronze "you and your family." It matches another bust the sculptor made for American Legion headquarters in Indianapolis. Both bear the inscription: "Harry S. Truman, President of the United States, citizen, statesman, legionnaire."

"The American Legion is proud of you," said Griffith, as the bust was placed on Truman's desk.

"Thanks," replied the President. "I'm a legionnaire in good standing. I attended numerous Legion conventions as a delegate from Missouri."

While Truman was appraising the bronze image, he suddenly noticed that something was missing. The bust was a true likeness in every respect save one—there were no glasses on it.

"I thought you'd notice that," chuckled Keck.

"Try these on for size," suggested Truman, removing his own glasses and handing them to Keck. There was a burst of laughter as the sculptor fitted them on the bust. However, Keck said he woudn't consider his job finished until the bust was fitted out with its own glasses—in bronze.

"I'll find a way," he assured Truman. "I had the same trouble with a bust of Teddy Roosevelt, only that job was even tougher, because Teddy wore pince-nez with a ribbon attached."

Under the Dome

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has finally given the green light to his counsel, Clark Clifford, to begin revamping the whole housing program. It is aimed at replacing 20 per cent of the Nation's obsolete housing by 1950. . . . Merlin Hull of Wisconsin will demand that Congress make a full investigation of the Russian "hot money" scandal. It cashed Russian occupation marks printed from plates we had lent the Russians in Berlin. . . The Kaiser-Frazer auto company is now in the black.

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

POVICH

THE HECTIC STATE of the American League pennant race is brightly evident in the position of the Boston Red Sox who are supposed to be the flop of the season, yet only 2½ games out of the lead. This is a year when the Red Sox, playing only two victories better than .500 ball, are not only a close third, but still a prime pennant threat.

They were floundering about in fourth place just before taking off on their disastrous 17-game road trip that ended this week. They won only seven games on that tour. A pace that would normally land a fourth-place club in the second division, but not this year, when the whole league is out of whack. Because there isn't a good ball club in the league, the Red Sox actually moved up into third.

What's keeping the Red Sox up certainly isn't the Red Sox. Ted Williams isn't hitting .300 for the first time in his life. Rudy York is hitting a measly .215. Bobby Doerr's .259 is the best batting figure in the Boston infield, and Tex Hughson, who was supposed to be their best pitcher, has won only three games to date. Dave Ferriss has won only four. But the Red Sox are far from out of it in this kind of a league.

A LOOK AT THE league standings would seem to stamp the Tigers as the nearest thing to a good team with their 27 wins against 20 defeats, but that kind of a pace would give a manager ulcers if he was trying to beat out the Red Sox of last year or one of the pennant-winning Yankee teams of the last couple of decades. The Tigers are on top just now because they're the best of what assuredly is a weak lot.

Even the Detroit fans can make no claims that the Tigers are a good team. George Kell at third base is the only man in their infield who could fetch anything in a trade. Pat Mullin is their only .300 hitting outfielder, and he is receding fast. The Tigers have the pitchers—Newhouser, Trout, Trucks, Hutchinson, Benton—but they're not pitching so very well. Yet, there the Tigers are, out in front. The best compliment to pitching is the position of the Athletics. In fourth place, only three games out of the league lead, Connie Mack has assembled what may be the league's finest staff, in Fowler, Marchildon, Savage, Flores and Christopher, and did you notice that his rookie, Carl Sheib, just blanked the Tigers the other day in his first big league start.

PERHAPS THE A's have had more influence on the league this year than any other club. The teams that used to fatten their own percentages off the Mackmen, can't fatten on 'em this year. The showing of Connie Mack's club has tightened up the race. Eddie Joost has steadied the infield, Rookie Ferris Fain at first base has given the club a spark, Buddy Rosar does some excellent catching, and if the A's are no pennant threat, at least they aren't being laughed off, as usual.

The pitching sensation of the season is Frank Shea, the Yankee rookie who lost a 1-0 game in his first start and was beaten 3-2 in 12 innings in his last. Between times, he was seven in a row, and that was fortunate for Bucky Harris who is suffering in a pitching way. At a time when Joe DiMaggio is hitting, the Yankees can gain little ground because of their pitching weakness.

What the Yankees also have to fear is the collapse of George McQuinn, who thus far has shown no signs of being tuckered, but admits that daily play is an ordeal for him. The Yankees are also carrying something of a load in the weak hitting of the second base-shortstop pair of Snuffy Stirnweiss and Phil Rizzuto.

CLEVELAND AND THE White Sox are hanging in there in a virtual tie for fifth place only 4½ games behind the lead, but neither of those clubs recommend itself as a solid team. The White Sox are a pesky outfit with fair pitching and the league's best catching. but they're out of the same mold as every White Sox team of the last 20 years—no power.

Cleveland is struggling along with the league's most unimpressive outfield. Lou Boudreau already has been compelled to retire his home run threat, Pat Seerey, to the bench for non-hitting of all kinds. The Indians operate with the best second base-shortstop combination in the league in Joe Gordon and Boudreau, but in a year when Bob Feller is not mowing 'em down, the Indians are up against it.

Washington's troubles can be traced chiefly to the flip-flop of Mickey Vernon who can't get up a gallop with his bat, in contrast to his hot season in 1946. The Nats were no power team anyway, and Vernon's year-long slump knocks out their best prop. Travis' failure to hit was another body blow, tough on the club's good pitching. In a year when the Nats could have been far up there, they've been anchored by lack of base hits from two guys who figured.

George Sits Up All Night For News of Babe's Win

Denver, June 12 (AP).—Big George Zaharias' voice was on the sleepy side, but there was a grin in it, anyway.

"I'm so happy, and I know she's happy. She told me last time I called her she was playing pretty good."

He was talking, of course, about Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias, his wife and winner of the British Women's Amateur title. It was the first time an American had ever won it, and the only major golf title the Babe hadn't already taken.

"I've been up all night," George said. "I've a call in right now but I don't know when it'll be completed."

Were they going to celebrate?

"I'll say we'll celebrate. I'm planning to go East and meet her when she returns. That'll be June 25."

"The Norwegian Ambassador to the United States is going to send his airplane to Scotland to pick up Babe. He'll fly her to Oslo to see where her parents lived. Great, isn't it?"

Columbus School Boy Hurler Will Report to Nats

Columbus, Ohio, June 12 (AP).—Earl Davis, 18-year-old Columbus high school pitching star, today was signed to a players' contract by the Washington Senators of the American League.

A southpaw, Davis twice sparked the Linden McKinley High School nine to the city league championship. He received his diploma last night.

Mike Martin, Senator scout, who signed Davis said the young player would leave tomorrow for Washington for a once-over by Senator coaches before being assigned to a farm team.

Davis is a 6-foot, 1-inch husky, weighing 195 pounds.

White Sox on Top

The White Sox defeated Brooklyn, 7-5, in a 12 and under game at Fort Greble Playground yesterday. Dudley Peters of the Sox pitched one-hit ball, while striking out seven.

Nats Face Newhouser Here Tonight

By Al Costello
Post Reporter

Friday the 13th may be a bad luck day for some people but to the seventh-place Nats today is a somewhat happy occasion.

For tonight they begin a home stay of 2½ weeks, embracing 17 games, that will see every rival American League club visiting Griffith Stadium.

The Nats expect, or rather hope, to start an upward surge that will lift them from their present embarrassing position to a spot where they will become more respected citicens in the red-hot flag scramble.

Tonight the Detroit Tigers invade for a three-game series, with single afternoon games tomorrow and Sunday. The Nats haven't beaten the league-leading Bengals yet in three starts. In order will follow the Indians, Browns, White Sox, Red Sox, Yankees and finally the surprising Athletics before the Nats again hit the road as July rolls around.

Newsom or Masterson

Either Bobo Newsom or Walter Masterson will work tonight, opposed, no doubt, by Hal Newhouser, who takes great delight in beating the Nats.

Masterson, who turned in an epic 16-inning scoreless masterpiece last Sunday against the White Sox in Chicago, was sent home from St. Louis Tuesday for treatment of a minor skin rash. Newsom followed him Wednesday after twirling a four-hitter against the Browns but losing, 1-0, on an unearned run.

It is Masterson's turn but Manager Ossie Bluege said last night he might pitch Bobo in order to give Walter an extra day of rest after his marathon chore of last Sunday.

If Newsom, who has been hurling great but somewhat luckless ball of late, pitches tonight, Masterson will get tomorrow' call, or vice-versa.

Perplexed, But Surprised

As the Nats completed their second swing of the rugged West Wednesday night, they found themselves somewhat perplexed but not nearly so downhearted as it might appear on the surface.

They were (1) puzzled at their inability to win more than four games of the 11 played on foreign soil, but (2) happily surprised to find that, despite their poor showing, they are no worse than six games in arrears of the leading Detroit Tigers.

They have been getting fine pitching, but the hitters simply are not functioning. Only Stan Spence and Buddy Lewis are clouting the way they figure.

Navy Stroke Ill With Tummy Ache

Annapolis, Md., June 12 (AP).—Predicting "the fastest field they've ever had at Poughkeepsie," Comdr. Charles S. (Buck) Walsh today pinned Navy's varsity chances in the collegiate crew "world series" June 21 on a case of food poisoning.

The fly in the ointment is Navy's stroke, John Cartwright of Edgewood, Pa., who's had an upset tummy ever since June Week which interrupted the training routine at the Academy.

'The Pants Did It for Me,' Says La Didrikson

GULLANE, Scotland, June 12 (AP).—Babe Didrikson Zaharias of Denver became the first American ever to win the British Women's Amateur golf championship today—but she had to change her clothes to do it.

She began the final 36-hole marathon this morning dressed in gray culottes—a skirt cut like a pair of pants—and a yellow sweater pulled over a white blouse. To the surprise of everyone she was held even by Jacqueline Gordon, the London unknown.

During the lunch period Mrs. Zaharias changed to the faded blue corduroy slacks she had worn during the early rounds and quickly closed out the match on the thirty-second hole, 5 and 4.

"The pants did it," she yipped on the green after sinking the putt that brought her the victory.

Then she grabbed one leg of the slacks and began a dance as the gallery surged in to have a closer look at the new queen of the British fairways.

She had difficulty in getting through the crowds which had gathered before the presentation, and after forcing her way through she hurdled the small dyke surrounding the clubhouse amidst further cheers.

Yanks Club Giants, 7 to 0

New York, June 12.—A couple of Yankee also-rans were the men of the hour here tonight as the Giants and their crosstown rivals opened the three-game interleague series for the Mayor O'Dwyer Trophy.

Charley Wensloff and Mel Queen, usually relegated far back in the bullpen when the Yanks are clubbing their American league opponents, teamed up their pitching arms to give the American League club a 7-0 shutout victory.

Cubs Trim Pirates, 7-3 Tie for 2d

Pittsburgh, June 12.—The Chicago Cubs moved into a second-place tie with the Brooklyn Dodgers here tonight as they hung a 7-to-3 beating on the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Dodgers, who were idle today, and the Cubs are a full game behind the pace-setting New York Giants.

Cincinnati Keeps Card In Eighth Place, 1-0

Cincinnati, June 12 (AP)—Kent Peterson, rookie southpaw, held the St. Louis Cardinals to five scattered hits as the Cincinnati Reds edged the staggering World Champions, 1-0, before 27,075 fans here tonight. The loss kept the Cards in a cellar tie with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Breadon Won't Sell Cardinals

St. Louis, June 12 (AP).—Taking cognizance of frequently recurring reports that he will dispose of his interest in the St. Louis Cardinals, President Sam Breadon tonight authorized this one-line statement:

"My interest in the St. Louis Cardinal organization is not for sale."

The statement, which he declined to amplify, was issued through his secretary, Miss Mary Murphy.

Breadon is said to own about 77 per cent of the stock in the Cardinal organization.

Locke Has 68; Hogan Turns in 70

By Gayle Talbot

St. Louis, June 12 (AP).—A couple of thousand fans pelted around the St. Louis Country Club course today after Bobby Locke, the straight-shooting South African, and returned to the clubhouse and learned that a trio of little-known homebreds had shot equal 67's and stolen the lead in the National Open Golf championship.

Two natives of a famous golfing State, Harry Todd and Henry Ransom of Texas, and Chick Harbert, the long-hitter from Detroit, flashed around the 6532-yard layout in four strokes under par to share the lead in the classic at the one-quarter mark.

70 for Worsham

Lew Worsham, pro at the Oakmont (Pa.) Country Club, who hails from Bethesda, Md., led the Washington area qualifiers with a 36-34—70.

Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., and George Payton of Hampton, Va., were right behind with 36-35—71 and 35-36—71, respectively. Walter Romans of Baltimore carded a 38-35—73, John O'Donnell of Norfolk, Va., had a 40-34—74, and Buck Worsham, Mamaroneck, N. Y., pro, whose home is in Bethesda, posted a 41-40—81. Charles Bassler, of Chevy Chase, shot a 42-43—85, and Otto Greiner, of Baltimore, had a 32-37—69, for the lowest score of the area group.

But it could not be said that Locke, the solemn-faced man with the knickers, disappointed the great gallery that followed him.

Bobby Has a 68

He established himself firmly in the minds of many experts as the player to beat by shooting a cool 33, 35—68 and taking firm possession of the runner-up spot.

Had he sunk a 10-foot putt on the final green instead of falling short, the South African menace would have been in a four-way tie for the lead tonight. He gave an impressive exhibition of golfing skill, and he will be very difficult to head off.

Four players, Leland Gibson of Kansas City, Marvin (Bud) Ward, the former amateur champion from Spokane, Wash., Dick Metz of Arkansas City, Kans., and Otto Greiner of Baltimore, who turned professional only a brief time ago, were deadlocked at 69.

As predicted, par 71 for the championship course took quite a beating.

Hogan Has a 70

Ben Hogan, cofavorite with Locke to win the title, shot a crisp 70 along with four others and remained within quick striking distance of the lead. Those who shared the spot with "Little Ben" were the veteran Horton Smith of Detroit, Edward Furgol, also of Detroit, Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., and Alfred Smith of Danville, Va.

The Leading Scorers:

Henry Ransom, Ravinia, Ill.	34	33—67

Otto Greiner, Baltimore	32	37—69
Horton Smith, Detroit	34	36—70
Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa.	33	37—70
Ed Furgol, Royal Oak, Mich.	34	36—70
Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa.	36	34—70
Alfred L. Smith, Danville, Va.	34	36—70

Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, Va.	36	35—71
George Payton, Hampton, Va.	35	36—71

There was little doubt this early that a new champion would be crowned Saturday night.

Lloyd Mangrum, who won the title under dramatic circumstances a year ago at Cleveland, got off to a miserable start with 41, 36—77, and was 10 big blows off the pace.

By a wondrous coincidence, two of the leaders, Todd and Ransom, flared around the sun-broiled course together while everybody's back was turned. Todd, 30, a formerly well known amateur, is from Dallas. Ransom, a 36-year-old campaigner, originated at Houston and now is attached to a Chicago club.

Each of them shot a thundering eagle three on the 500-yard fifteenth hole. Hodd chipped into the cup from about 60 feet and Ransom then knocked down his put from 18 feet. Todd went out in par 35 and blazed back in 32. Ransom scored 34, 33, and Herbert followed them within a few minutes with his 33, 34.

Their 67's tied the record for an opening round in the championship, established by Sammy Snead in 1940 at Cleveland. Six players have shot 66's in Open play, but never on the first day.

All afternoon the remainder of the field shot away at the three leaders. There were alarms, as when the virtually unknown Greiner, playing in the same threesome with Locke, went out in 32 strokes. Also when Joe Kirkwood, the famous trick shot star, produced the same count at the turn.

But Greiner slipped to a 37 coming back for his 69, and Kirkwood blew himself to a brace of sixes on the way home to wind up at 72.

Tomorrow they will play another 18, and at nightfall the 60 low scores and ties will be certified for Saturday's final mad scramble over 36 holes. The forecast was fog rain.

BABE HOLDS THE CUP—Babe Didrikson Zaharias holds the cup she won yesterday as she became the first American to capture the British women's amateur golf championship

Babe Routs Jackie Gordon, 5-4 For 16th Straight Victory

Gullane, Scotland, June 12 (AP).—Babe Didrikson Zaharias hitched up her faded blue corduroy slacks after lunch today and slapped out a 5 and 4 conquest of London's Jacqueline Gordon that made the Texas Tomboy the first American-born golfer ever to win the British women's crown.

Her triumph cleaned out the British golf trophy chest—every English title for which Americans may compete now is held in the United States.

The one-time Olympic javelin thrower switched to her lucky pants after lunch and promptly won five of the first six holes to gain her victory margin.

The Cards:

Women's unofficial par out	455	354	443—37
Par in	555	355	344—39—76
MORNING ROUND
Mrs. Zaharias out	454	354	453—37
Miss Gordon out	455	353	443—36
Mrs. Zaharias in	555	345	344—38—75
Miss Gordon in	545	356	344—39—75
AFTERNOON ROUND
Mrs. Zaharias out	434	354	543—37
Miss Gordon out	556	365	543—42
Mrs. Zaharias in	534	35
Miss Gordon in	444	35

Mrs. Zaharias wins, 5 and 4.

"The pants did it," she chortled on the thirty-second green in a brief victory jig immediately after ramming home the putt that gave her a half for the hole and closed out the match for her sixteenth straight tournament triumph.

The string includes the United States Women's Amateur meet of 1946.

That putt also brought an end to the most concentrated golf by a woman this windswept course on the Firth of Forth had ever seen. During the seven rounds Mrs. Zaharias had a best ball score of 62, which is nine strokes below the unofficial par for men and 14 under the women's figures. British courses have no set par as do courses in the United States.

That same putt also brought to a climax a 16-year golf campaign that started quietly in Dallas when the Babe, already famous as a track and basketball athlete, spent the money in her purse for a set of shiny steel clubs instead of the dress she intended to buy.

Lucky pants or no, the Babe

Mrs. Filchock Gets Divorce

A divorce in Carson City, Nev., has been obtained by Mrs. Frank Filchock, wife of the former Washington Redskin quarterback, on grounds of extreme cruelty, Attorney Albert Brick, lawyer for Filchock, reported yesterday.

Filchock did not contest the divorce action, Brick said, since the football player did not want to raise the question of custody of the two Filchock children, John F., 4, and Frank J. jr., 1. The children now are with Filchock's mother in Altoona, Pa.

Brick said that if Mrs. Filchock seeks custody of the children, such action will have to be filed in the District. Months ago, Mrs. Filchock reportedly intended to marry Steve Bagarus, former Redskin star now with the Los Angeles Rams, when she obtained a divorce.

Filchock, suspended by the National Football League for being involved in alleged bribery attempts in New York, has been operating a frozen custard store at 2032 P st. nw.

Fusari After 49th Straight Victory Tonight

Tony Pellone Underdog in Garden Bout

By Sid Feder

New York, June 12 (AP).—Charles Fusari is a nice looking young fellow out of Irvington, N. J., who has had 48 fights in his quick career and won them all—and if he doesn't make it 49 in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night against Tony Pellone from New York's East Side, then a lot of folks are going to be mighty surprised.

As a matter of fact, the betting boys have made Charlie a 5 to 11 favorite and wouldn't be surprised if the price goes higher than that before the two welterweights start lighting up their firecrackers at 10 p .m. (EDT). This corner picks Fusari to gallop home on top without even getting his hair mussed.

Now, unbeaten strings in the fight came ordinarily are looked on with a somewhat suspicious glance, because it is practically no trouble at all to get opponents who are experts at aquatics to swoon in front of a clouter being built up. But in Charlie's case, it has been different.

The Jersey sizzler has piled up his run the hard way. And to show there was nothing about it that would cause the ringside customers to get splashed, he went in against Tippy Larkin in February and belted the Garfield gunner out in nine rounds. And Tippy is the world junior welterweight champion, at that.

Pellone's recent scrambling has resulted in five victories out of six starts since last summer. In his two most recent clambakes, he whipped lightweight champ (New York version) Bob Montgomery and Chuck Taylor.

Those who give him much of a chance to win tomorrow point to the fact that when he runs into the close ones, he usually winds up with the decision, although it's disputed about as often as not.

It has happened more than once hereabout, causing the customers to just about boo the ears off the officials on occasion. It is considered, therefore, that Tony is just plain lucky, and has a flair for catching the eye of the officials. Which is a nice flair if you can get it.

Promoter Mike Jacobs' ticket-office men expect some 14,000 fans to show up and chip in to an $80,000 gate.

Thomas Pulls Tennis Upset

Gerry Thomas, of Wilson High, upset highly regarded Jack Yates, of London, in a hard-fought five-set match in the semifinal round of the Interscholastic Qualifying tennis tournament yesterday at the Columbia Country Club.

Thomas' victory broke up the prospect of an all Landon final, as Gil Bogley, the top ranking junior in the District, defeated Ed Wesley of Georgetown Prep, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2, to enter the last round against Thomas.

The score of the Thomas-Yates match was 4-6, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2.

No date has been set for the final round, but the doubles final will be held today at 4 p. m. Bob Cabell and Walt Horsley, of St. Christopher's, will meet the Landon twosome of Gardner and Lewis.

Midgets Hold Delayed Lanham Opener Tonight

Little car racing opens its 1947 season at the West Lanham (Md.) Speedway tonight when an all-star field competes on a program of seven events starting at 8:30 o'clock.

The scheduled inaugural was rained out last Friday, and rain checks holding over from the original date will be honored tonight.

Chartered buses will depart from 403 11th st. nw., at 7:15 p. m.

Maryland State Police again will direct motorists from the Peace Cross on Bladensburg rd. to the Speedway.

A percentage of tonight's receipts will be donated to the Prince Georges County Police Boys Club, and tickets will be available at the Fairway, 1328 G st. nw., until 3 p. m. today, and at the Speedway thereafter.

Nee, Marion Tie With 75s

Maury Nee, golfing star at Devitt Prep and Georgetown University back in the early "thirties," took top honors in the golf tournament that highlighted the Touchdown Club field day yesterday at Manor Country Club.

Nee posted a 37, 38—75 to tie Rod Marion for low gross honors. Marion's gross score was 38—37—75.

Low net laurels went to Ed Milans, whose 86—22—64 was one stroke better than J. F. Phelan's 79—14—65. Dr. W. R. McAllister won the tourney for the 50-year-olds and over with a 39, 37—76.

Carl MacCartee registered an 81 to hit the blind bogie draw right on the nose. Booby prize, the high score of the day, was turned in by Lou Franks, who clicked off a 149.

Carl MacCartee, Al Holmes and Ed Demarest all hit the blind bogey with 81s. Lou Franks won the booby prize with the high score of the day, 149.

In the driving contest, Frank Mailley slammed out a 280-yarder to edge Maury Nee's 275-yard wallop.

In the nongolfing events, the Touchdown Club Lettermen defeated the Non-Lettermen, 9-5, in softball; John Hiser won the 25-yard dash for men weighing over 250 pounds and over 45, and Charles Jacobs captured the open 40-yard dash.

Sias Defends Tourney Title

Lieut. H. S. Sias defends his Bel Haven golf championship Saturday and Sunday in match play at Belle Haven Country Club. Sias, who qualified last Sunday with an 81, is paired against Eddie Edwards Saturday. Edwards and Col. Ben A. Schriever shared medal honors among the qualifiers with 74s each.

Pairings and qualifying scores:

had to shoot golf for the title today. Miss Gordon took advantage of the Babe's wildness at the start and tore the iniative from her.

A few bad shots that wound up in the rough or in a trap and the Babe, whose closest match in the early rounds was a 3 and 2 victory of Jean Donald of Scotland, was two down to the gray-eyed girl from London at the twelfth tee.

On the fourteenth, however, Mrs. Zaharias drove straight down the fairway and on her second shot she used an iron boldly over three bunkers that guarded the green to land on the carpet in two. Miss Gordon, who learned her game from Britain's great Henry Cotton, played it safe and lost the hole to only one up.

The Babe got a winning five on the fifteenth when Miss Gordon's ball bounced away from the cup after hitting Mrs. Zaharias' ball on the putting surface. That meant a six for Miss Gordon and evened the match once more.

They halved the remaining holes in the first 18. After lunch, and the change to the lucky pants, it was all Zaharias.

On the twentieth hole the Babe outdrove her rival by almost 100 yards off the tee and dropped her chip 18 feet beyond the cup. After lining up the putt for several minutes, she sent it home for an eagle 3.

From that moment on Miss Gordon appeared to have lost the confidence which carried her to her surprising noon deadlock.

Mrs. Zaharias lost only one hole after lunch—the twenty-eighth—where her topped drive hopped along like a rabbit for 90 yards before coming to a halt on the edge of the rough.

After the match was over Miss Gordon said that "I got chilled during the lunch hour and I couldn't get warmed up for four or five holes in the afternoon. But by that time I was four down." The weather was bright but cold and most of the 6500 galleryites wore heavy coats.

To one fan who crowded up to show her the program on which she had written her name two days ago as the winner she repeated her secret by saying: "That's right, I just loosen my girdle and let the ball have it."

At the presentation ceremonies, for which she wore a blue gabardine dress and white and brown shoes, Mrs. Zaharias said her immediate plans consisted of but one thing—"To get back home to George. This is the first time in nine years that I have been separated from him so long."

She will return to the United States on the Queen Elizabeth June 25 but promised the Scots that, "Oh, yes, I want to come back next year and defend my title."

Out Fishing . . .

By Jack Bell

THE week-long meeting in St. Petersburg, Fla., of some 200 members of the Outdoor Writers Association of America came to an end Sunday afternoon with a Jungle Cock Campfire.

The now famous ceremony was held in Myakka River State Park and was witnessed for the first time by a large number of Floridians. The campfire was dedicated to the youth-sons-of Florida sportsmen.

Doyle Conner, 18-year-old president of the Future Farmers of America in Florida, was selected to represent Florida boys and was inducted into the Jungle Cock circle of influence.

Welcomed by J. Hammond Brown, honorary president of the brotherhood and newly elected president-director of the OWAA, Doyle was charged with the duty of informing the people of Florida of the youth movement, which stresses the necessity of always taking less than nature can afford, be it fish, game, flowers or trees, and dad taking his son fishing with him.

Conner was presented with a complete fishing outfit, books on fishing and the outdoors, and a framed copy of the Jungle Cock Creed.

WE ARE of the opinion that this is not the time of year for Florida black bass fishing. Better bass fishing now can be found in North Carolina. Records studied convinced us that bass fishing around St. Petersburg is excellent during the winter months. However, tarpon, snook, weakfish, bluefish and snapper fishing is superb.

Those who go to Florida for fishing need only take along bass casting tackle, which is suitable for casting from shore, rowboat or causeway for weakfish, snook, blues or snapper. Heavy tackle is furnished to boat captains for tarpon or other large fish.

Driving during daylight hours from Lake City, Fla., through Georgia to Walterboro, S. C., we counted one dog, one red fox, four razorback hogs and six cows that had been killed by automobiles or trucks. The only wildlife killed we saw were five hawks and many opossum and skunks.

We have heard of fish in Georgia that are called "stumpknockers" but never have we known of "roadknocker" hawks. How so many hawks—a wary bird—are killed on the highway can only be answered by some ornithologist.

Upperville Show Opens

At 10 a. m. today the Upperville Colt and Horse Show will open at the Grafton Farm, near Upperville, Va.

One of the oldest of American horse shows, todays' meeting will be the ninety-fourth running of the event. Forty-three classes will be held today and tomorrow, with much of the emphasis on ponies and younger horses.

Five pony events are on the program, together with 12 breeding classes and 25 hunter tests.

The Founders Cup event, for 3-year-olds bred in Fauquier and Loudoun counties, and the Admiral Cary T. Grayson Trophy division for the thoroughbred breeding championship, are feature events of the show.

Grays Shut Out Baltimore, 1-0

The Washington Homestead Grays edged the Baltimore Elite Giants, 1-0, last night before a crowd of 3500 at Griffith Stadium.

The Grays scored the only run of the game on a walk to Paul Bruce, a sacrifice, and Ray Benjamin's single to center.

Comedy Player Shakes Off Field in Winning Joe Judge Purse

Rebline Beaten by A Length

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., June 12. J. E. Crider's Comedy Player, a 6-year-old who almost wore out his heart chasing high class horses on major tracks this spring, won here today.

The 6-year-old forged to the finish line a length in advance of N. S. P. Stitt's Rebline in the Joe Judge Purse, the day's feature named for the Nats star of yesteryear, who saw the running. Third money went to H. W. Shaffer's Woodscott in a field of seven.

Apprentice Bobby Shirey rode the winner, coupled with Alhalon, the mile and a sixteenth in time of 1:47 2-5 over a track that was in lightning shape. The record for this oval is held by Overnight and Saran at 1:45 1-5.

Comedy Player Favored

The Crider entry was the favorite from the start of the betting and those who invested the right way collected at the rate of $4 for the traditional deuce.

Woodscott, a so-so performer, proved a surprise when he went to the front in the early stages. However, Shirley had Comedy Player under wraps and closest to the pacemaker. On the backstretch, Comedy Player went to the front and it appeared to be all over but the payoff.

Entering the stretch, Comedy Player got out of control of Shirley momentarily and swung very wide as Rebline came on with a rush. Comedy Player never got out of the lead but gave his backers some anxious moments. However, in the final drive it was all Comedy Player.

First Victory This Year

It was the first victory of the year for the Strolling Player gelding who had failed in five previous efforts, including one here when Sammy Palumbo "stole" a race from him while aboard Inez M.

In the fifth event, the Marty Gallagher Purse, went to Ray Bates' Idaho Maid and Shirley was again aboard the winner. He took the 11-year-old mare to the front at the first jump and she stayed there, getting home with much daylight to spare in advance of J. G. Schorsch's Kapmec with Mrs. A. White's Nobby third.

Idaho Maid was an outsider in the betting despite winning her previous start and paid $13.80. The daily double payoff of $207.40 came on Busy Moose and Kabo Lea.

Bennings

At Charles Town

DEAR FOLKS:

Jockey Al Vesseli, who was injured in a spill early in the meeting, will be inactive for some time. X-ray pictures have disclosed that he has a cracked shoulder. Pat Kelly, representative of the Jockey's Guild and Humphrey Finney, editor of the Maryland Horse, were visitors today. The horse Sightseer was scratched today because he got out of his stall last night, ran off and injured himself. He will be shipped to the farm. New York fans are booing Eddie Arcaro out of the track, I'm told. Seventy-three different trainers have saddled winners here. Apprentice Pat O'Brien is riding in good style and may take down the jockey title here. Talking to Alan Clarke, who had the stallion Mowlee, the other day and he told me that last year the get of that stud won 37 races, 6 years after his death. Remolee is the biggest winner sired by Mowlee having a lifetime total of 57 races and still going strong. English Harry, another son of Mowlee, still holds a track record at Santa Anita. Incidently, the day Mowlee died in the spring of 1940 three of his sons won at Bowie. Seldom has any sire had three winners at a single track on one day. See you on the rail. BILL.

Team Wins Seven of 12 Road Games

Philadelphia, June 12 (AP).—As far as the Philadelphia Athletics are concerned, this is the rarest day in June since 1933, and Connie ("Mr. Baseball") Mack says "By heck! We may surprise everybody yet."

"I never thought we'd be in fourth place in June, three games out of first and still in a winning mood—especially this year," the 85-year-old manager grinned.

"We've sure been playing good ball—no, I'd say it was great ball."

That was rather an abrupt about face for the wrinkled leader of the American League A's, who have finished in the cellar nine times in the past 12 years. Shortly after the season started Connie expressed "regrets" that his club was destined again to finish eighth.

Today? "Well, we've been playing better than I ever imagined," he says.

The A's left home Memorial Day in fifth place after annexing a double-header from the New York Yankees. They won 7 of 12 on the road including three over league-leading Detroit. It's the first June in a decade that the A's percentage has been over .500.

"There's no reason why we shouldn't keep on winning," says Mack whose teams have won nine pennants and five world championships.

With the season one third completed the A's have won 25 against 24 losses. Last year they could win only 49 games all told.

Fusari Bout Aired on WMAL Tonight

In going after his 49th straight win tonight, Charley Fusari, unbeaten Irvington, N. J. welterweight, faces a difficult assignment. He tangles with tough Tony Pellone (above) of New York in a ten-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Pellone is determined to mar Fusari's clean slate. Tony is a puncher with a blasting left hook. He's cunning, strong, fast—knows how to sustain an attack. Pellone handed Billy Graham his first defeat after Graham had gone through 58 bouts without a loss.

Fusari is the current hot attraction in the 147-lb. division. For a welter, Charley is tall and rangy. He possesses smashing power in either hand, prefers bing-bang tactics and rarely resorts to fistic science. His string includes 34 knockouts.

Enjoy the excitement, blow-by-blow, on Gillette's Cavalcade of Sports over American Broadcasting Co. and WMAL (630 on your dial) at 10 p.m.

And remember, men . . . LOOK sharp! FEEL sharp! BE sharp! Use Gillette Blue Blades with the sharpest edges ever honed!

Mrs. McClure To Head D. C. Bank Auditors

By S. Oliver Goodman

Mrs. McClure

Mrs. Margaret S. McClure of the City Bank of Washington was elected chairman of the auditors' section of the District of Columbia Bankers Association at the annual meeting last night in the Washington Hotel. She succeeds Vernon R. Dorman.

First woman ever to head the local section, she came to Washington in 1939 after 15 years' banking experience in her home State of Kentucky. At present she is auditor of the City Bank. Active in section affairs, she has served successively as a member of its executive council, secretary-treasurer and vice chairman. She is also a member of the Association of Bank Women and a graduate of the University of Kentucky.

Other section officers elected and installed last night are Ernest R. Wilson of Bank of Commerce and Savings, vice chairman; Fulton H. Dixon, of Security Savings & Commercial, secretary.

Tudor Whiton of the Second National Bank was elected treasurer. Named to the executive council were Louis K. Lynn of Union Trust Co. and John R. Cocker of Riggs National Bank. Dorman, as retiring president, also was named to the executive council.

More than 150 bank auditors and guests attended the dinner meeting.

Underwriters Hear Randolph

American business must get on with the job of full production or face the loss of foreign markets, Jennings Randolph declared last night.

Randolph

"America is losing foreign markets because these countries find we cannot supply their growing and immediate needs," Randolph said in an address to members of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

Former Congressman from West Virginia for 14 years, Randolph is now assistant to the president of Capital Airlines.

Citing an example, Randolph said in part: "Where once the English supplied 12 per cent of the import of Brazil, she now has some 37 per cent against our 23 per cent. Brazil would rather purchase from the United States, but she is forced to other markets . . ."

Emphasizing work stoppages and industrial unrest, Randolph declared that America no longer can "afford the costly technique of settling important disputes in key industries through the medium of economic trial by combat."

Another speaker was Charles Zimmerman, past president of the National Association of Life Underwriters, who spoke on 'Top Priorities.'

Theater Firm's Net Gains

Harry Freedman, president of District Theaters Corp., yesterday reported net income of $165,024 for the first 13 weeks this year, equivalent to 50 cents a share on common stock. In the same period last year, net was $136,625, or 40 cents a share.

Personnel Notes

W. E. Mullestein, formerly with War Production Board, has been named field sales manager for Lukens Steel Co.

Robert C. Gilmore, member of R. J. Johnson Agency of Bankers Life Co., led the firm's entire field force in production of new business for the week ended May 29 with $75,000.

H. L. Beckwith, Washington district manager of Sun Oil Co., returned from Philadelphia home office conference with prediction that supplies of gasoline this summer and home heating oil this winter will barely meet rapidly expanding demands of consumers.

B. Allen Mays, local advertising executive with Bert M. Sarazan, Inc., has bought single-engine monoplane to make business calls. He calls it "Heavenly Daze."

Jerome Theodore, formerly with men's clothing branch of Civilian Production Administration, will become field secretary of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers on July 1.

New Bottling Company

Joe Louis Punch, a soft drink, will be distributed here by a newly formed bottling company at 750 10th st. se., starting June 23. The firm is headed by Phil N. Millstone and sales manager is Donald Tebbe.

New Plane-Shore Radio

American Overseas Airlines announced yesterday it would institute plane-to-ground radio telegraph service for trans-Atlantic passengers as soon as Civil Aeronautics Administration approval is received.

The new service will be provided initially aboard AOA flagships over the North Atlantic, at the same rates available to steamship passengers for ship-to-shore radio telegraph service.

Food Index Moves Higher

The wholesale food price index of Dun & Bradstreet moved higher this week to $6.12, compared with $6.09 the previous week and $4.21 on the corresponding date last year. It was the third consecutive week in which the index has moved up.

Steels, Motors Lead Uneven Stock Retreat

New York, June 12 (AP).—Many pivotal issues retreated in the stock market today although enough bullish sentiment remained to give the list a spotty appearance.

Losses ranging to more than a point were registered by leading steels, motors, rubbers and some other industrials. Selective demand kept a few favorites well forward.

The session started at an active pace but slowed after noon and transfers totaled 1,040,000 shares against 1,350,000 on Wednesday's rally.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite declined .2 of a point to 62.6.

Profit-taking following recent upturns was credited by commission houses with applying mild pressure to some leaders. Belief in prospects for tax reduction cooled somewhat, although optimism over an expected mid-June rally persisted.

New York Cotton

New York, June 12 (AP).—Cotton futures turned reactionary in moderately active dealings today and closed 25 cents to $1.20 a bale lower. Persistent profit taking and trade liquidation discouraged rallying tendencies.

Short covering in nearby July was less aggressive and mills covered against textile sales on the scale down.

The New York Cotton Exchange service estimate of May domestic consumption represented a decline that was greater than seasonal. 815,000 bales against 883,000 in April and 871,000 in May last year, but traders had expected an even sharper drop.

Accountants Open Two-Day Parley in D. C.

Labor management relations, Federal taxation and accounting and auditing problems involved in postwar readjustment of business will be major topics at the Middle Atlantic States Accounting Conference opening this morning at the Mayflower Hotel. Program details were announced last night by Harvey T. Casbarian of Washington, chairman of the conference committee.

Sponsored by the District of Columbia Institute of Certified Public Accountants, and the similar State societies of accountants of Delaware, Maryland, North and South Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia, the regional meeting will get under way with a brief address by John M. Stoy, president of the District of Columbia Institute, and general chairman of the conference.

Next will be a discussion session on the subject of auditing from the viewpoint of present-day business operations. Papers will be presented by J. Edward McDevitt of Boston, a member of the committee on accounting procedure of the American Institute of Accountants, and Burnell H. DeVos of Washington.

In the afternoon will be an address by Maurice E. Peloubet of New York, treasurer of the American Institute of Accountants, and a panel discussion on taxation. Members of the panel will include Byron J. Harrill and Charles Kershenbaum, both of Washington.

Earl Bunting, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, and Edward B. Wilcox of Chicago, president of the American Institute of Accountants, will be among speakers at the conference tomorrow.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, June 12 (AP).—Heavy selling in the last 30 minutes of trading produced a sharp trend reversal on the Board of Trade today, wiping out gains in all pits and substituting wide losses. Trading was active on the decline.

Hardest hit by the late liquidation was corn, which during the early dealings had advanced to new seasonal highs. Touching off of stop-loss orders accentuated the decline and final prices were either at or just above the day's lows.

Wheat finished 1¼ to 2 cents lower, July 2.14½@2.14¾; corn was down 3 to 5¼, July 1.86½@1.86, and oats were 1¾@2⅞ lower, July 93@93½.

A major factor in the late selling was a growing belief that the Commodity Credit Corporation was about ready to withdraw from the cash corn market. The belief was strengthened by announcement of the local Commodity Credit Corporation office that it had purchased only 20,000 bushels yesterday. Less aggressive demand for cash corn from commercial interests was another depressing factor.

"Make The Investment Fit The Time"
That isn't quite what Gilbert and Sullivan's Lord High Executioner declared, but it very decidedly states what should be the investor's "object all sublime."
Thorough and unremitting study of business conditions, of industrial and corporate prospects, is necessary to attain that objective. Our Investment Advisory Department carries on such studies to assist holders of securities in determining sound investment policies. We will be glad to discuss the work of the Department at any time.

Welfare Setup in District Is Criticized at 2 Hearings

Two House subcommittees yesterday turned up sharp criticism of Washington's present welfare setup.

House District Appropriations Subcommittee Chairman Walt Horan (R., Wash.) said hearings on the welfare budget sharpened the need to clarify responsibilities and to get a better check on funds in welfare administration.

He said he was inclined to favor giving the District Commissioners full authority over welfare.

This transfer of power from the Welfare Board was debated anew before the House District Subcommittee headed by Representative A. L. Miller (R., Nebr.)

Miller said the hearings would continue after the Commissioners send to the Capitol their bill to give them full control over welfare, leaving the Welfare Board as an advisory agency.

Testimony to Miller's subcommittee led him to observe "there is a maze of uncertainty" in the present welfare administration.

"That's true," agreed Paul L. Kirby, assistant director of Public Welfare. He had testified it was necessary to go to the Commissioners on some policy questions and to the Welfare Board on others.

Kirby said the 18 present laws governing welfare in Washington make for "confusion and conflict." It would be better, he said, to have a clear single law.

Mrs. Ernest W. Howard, of the Federation of Citizens Associations, said the Commissioners should be given control, but added "we marvel at the wonderful things the Board of Public Welfare has accomplished under terrific odds."

Mrs. Harold Bannerman, of the Children's Protective Association, a Community Chest agency, endorsed transfer of welfare control to the Commissioners. Mrs. Frances Simsarian, of the District Chapter, American Association of Social Workers, called for expansion of the foster-home program.

Six Lanes Wide

Georgia Ave. Resurfacing Is Started

A major face-lifting job on Georgia ave. from East-West hgwy. to Colesville rd. was announced yesterday by the State Roads Commission.

Wilson T. Ballard, chief engineer for the SRC, said the Silver Spring thoroughfare will be resurfaced with concrete paving six lanes wide, a distance of six-tenths of a mile.

The work is being done, he said, in conjunction with present construction on the Baltimore & Ohio underpass in Silver Spring.

Work on the underpass is proceeding according to schedule, he said, with a construction firm at present providing a fill on which the B. & O. tracks will be relocated.

Both the bridge and street construction should be completed by late spring or early summer of next year, he said. Sealed bids for the concrete surfacing and drainage of George ave. from East-West hwy. to Colesville rd., an exact six-lane distance of 0.650 miles will be received until noon June 24, Ballard said.

He said the bridge and street construction could not be completed simultaneously as the detour route of the railroad tracks will have to be returned to the original location before construction can be completed.

The present bridge, which was the subject of strong protests by Montgomery County commuters for almost 20 years, will be removed entirely, the road official said.

Radio Famed 'Dr. I. Q.' Now Texas Parson

Evanston, Ill., June 12 (U.P.)—James Wesley McClain, who earned $500,000 in radio as the original "Dr. I. Q." and gave up his career to study for the ministry, headed for his new parish in Texas tonight—with his last $35 in his pocket.

The Rev. McClain's ambition is to become a country parson, and as such, he never can hope to make more than $2400 a year.

He was among 19 students who knelt and received diplomas today in the little chapel at the Seabury-Western Theological Seminary.

"I'm not at all sorry I left a fat job before the microphone to appear behind the pulpit," he said. "All right, so I'm broke. I don't consider that I threw my money away. Part of it paid for my training here. I have a lot of expensive movie equipment—which is my hobby. And I have a library worth $10,000—many of the volumes on theology."

McClain, his attractive wife, Doris, and three children, ranging in age from 8 years to 8 months, left immediately. He will take over the Eastland, Tex., mission on July 1.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Nature Hikes Will Include Tour of Ponds

Kenilworth's water lily ponds, Washington's vandal insect life, and the stars that belong to everybody are objectives of three Government sponsored walks hereabouts this weekend.

The nature hikes are sponsored by National Capital Parks and are popular features in Greater Washington's extracurricular activities.

Park Naturalist Drew Chick and Ranger-Naturalist James A. Fowler will alternate as leaders of the jaunt through the Kenilworth Aquatic Gardens, from 8:30 to 11:30 a. m., Sunday. The tours will begin at the gardens office, near Kenilworth ave. and Douglas st. ne.

The star study outing will be held in Fort Barnard Hill Park, Bunker Hill rd. and 26th st. ne., from 8 to 10 p. m., Sunday, under Fowler's direction.

Insect vandals in the C. & O. Canal area will be studied on the walk to be conducted Saturday from 3 to 5 p. m. Fowler and Dr. Elizabeth E. Harland, Maryland University entomologist, will meet the group at Stop 24 on the Glen Echo carline, at Brookmont, Md.

On Saturday evening, the Potomac River will be presented in color motion pictures as a feature of the National Capital Parks' outdoor campfire program in Rock Creek Park. Campfire area is located near 16th st. and Colorado ave. nw, and the program begins at 8:30 p. m.

On Sunday, June 22, the Government recreation program, through U S. National Capital Parks Service, offers a $3.35 tour of George Washington's birthplace and Fredericksburg. The following Sunday, the service features a $1.50, bring your own lunch, trip to Manassas, Va. (Telephone reservations to MI. 6363, extension 400, between 9 a. m. and 6 p. m.).

'Progress' Reported in Talks To Settle Milkmen's Dispute

Conciliation Commissioner James J. O'Byrne announced "some progress" late yesterday in efforts to settle the contract dispute between Metropolitan area milk producers and their employes.

The report was made following eight hours of joint negotiation at Hotel Wardman Park. The talks will be resumed at 10 a. m. today.

About 1700 workers, members of the Milk Drivers and Dairy Employes Union, Local 246 (AFL), are involved in the dispute. The union originally asked for six days' pay for five days' work.

Curley Loses In Move to Stay Sentence

Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, who has been sentenced to serve from 6 to 18 months in jail for mail fraud, yesterday lost a move designed to delay beginning of his sentence.

The United States Court of Appeals ruled that Curley's lawyers must file no later than today in the Supreme Court their request for reconsideration of the Supreme Court's recent refusal to review his conviction.

The Appeals Court ruling makes it possible for the Supreme Court to issue its final order in the case before adjourning for the summer.

Curley's lawyers had hoped to delay filing the reconsideration request until June 27, a move which would have kept Curley out of jail all summer.

It was purely a strategic move, for once the Supreme Court has refused to review a case it almost never grants a request for reconsideration.

The Government had asked that today be set as a deadline for filing the reconsideration request. Curley's attorneys answered that the Government was trying to put the 72-year-old mayor behind the bars without regard to normal Supreme Court practice.

The Court of Appeals ruled, however, that the sentence will be carried out "forthwith" if the request is not filed today.

Rev. Brown Quits as Head VA Chaplain

By Robert Tate Allan
Post Reporter

Resignation of the Rev. Crawford W. Brown as director of the Veterans Administration Chaplaincy Service was announced last night. It will be effective today.

Brown

For the time being, Chaplain Brown will serve as interim successor to Canon Precentor W. Curtis Draper at the Washington Cathedral. Canon Draper resigned to become rector of Trinity Church, Upper Marlboro, and Diocesan Missioner.

A successor to Chaplain Brown has not been elected, VA officials stated.

Chaplain Brown became chief of VA chaplains in June, 1945, after three years' service as Army chaplain. He was rector of the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer, Elgin, Ill., from 1931 to 1942. He was a machine gunner in World War I.

In 1936 the Rev. Mr. Brown received the Episcopal Church's distinguished service cross for his outstanding work in the Illinois Diocese.

Court to Name New Judge in Trial of Fast

A new judge is to be named this morning—in place of Justice Alexander Holtzhoff—to try Howard Fast, the author, and 16 others for conspiracy and contempt of the House.

Justice Holtzoff was out of the case for good yesterday when the United States Court of Appeals here stood by its order that he go no further with the trial, which began before him on Wednesday.

Fast and the others on trial are members of the board of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee, which has been called a Communist front. For not turning the committee's records over to the House Un-American Activities Committee, the board members were indicted for conspiracy and for contempt.

Dr. Edward K. Barsky, secretary of the committee, last week charged Holtzoff with bias. The justice refused to get out of the case and Defense Counsel O. John Rogge asked the Court of Appeals to put him out. This the court did, in a swift emergency session day before yesterday. Chief Justice D. Lawrence Groner said from the bench that the court was not finding Holtzoff guilty of bias, but that when such a charge is made against a judge—in the proper form—it becomes the duty of the judge to get out of the case.

District Attorney George Morris Fay yesterday asked the Court of Appeals for a new hearing, filing a sworn statement in which Holtzoff denied he has any prejudice against the committee or its members. Fay's plea was turned down and the prosecutor said he would give up the idea of appealing the Holtzoff ban to the Supreme Court.

Without comment Justice Holtzoff sent the Fast case back to the chief justice of the District Court, Bolitha J. Laws, who refused to put off action until Monday.

At the same time, Justice Holtzoff filed a three-page note on the case of Gerhard Eisler, who was found guilty before him of contempt of the House and was due to be tried soon for passport fraud.

His note said that if another judge could be found to try Eisler he would get out of that case, because "the ineptitude and discourtesy of counsel" ought not to work against him.

NOW TWO GREAT RAILROADS UNITE TO FORM "THE GREATER C&O"

On June 6th the Pere Marquette Merged with the Chesapeake & Ohio. Shippers and Travelers now have a New, Unified Service between the Great Lakes and the Mid-Atlantic Coast.

For years it has been apparent that a combination of these two railroads is a common-sense proposition. One serves the nation's greatest coal-producing area, the other reaches some of the greatest coal-consuming sections.

A Great Network . . . Vital traffic lines of the Pere Marquette now join those of the C&O. The former is a natural extension of the great C&O system into Michigan, with direct service into Canada. Fast freight and passenger ferries across Lake Michigan serve the state of Wisconsin.

Improved Passenger Service . . . Both railroads have earned the appreciation of the traveling public for their pioneering of basic improvements in passenger service. Revolutionary new equipment, "Pay-As-You-Go" and Credit Card travel, "No Tipping," Hotel Accommodation service—these are some of the latest but not the last of C&O's popular innovations. Now the best features of both roads are combined to bring still further improvements in rail-riding comfort and convenience.

Shippers' Problems Simplified . . . The merger provides direct line communication for the exchange of the great industrial, agricultural and mineral output of the new "Pere Marquette District" of the C&O Railway, with the vast coal, agricultural and manufacturing wealth of its "Chesapeake District." And both of these rich areas will have direct access over the C&O to foreign trade, through the modern port at Newport News.

Broader Opportunities for Employees
This union of two major rail arteries means further security for the men and women who helped to develop these lines and who make them run. Diversified traffic, mutually beneficial to both sections, will result in broader opportunities for employees all down the line.

Stockholders Agree . . . The many stockholders of both railroads saw clearly the opportunity to improve both service and earnings by linking the 3,106-mile C&O with the area served by the 1,950-mile Pere Marquette.

The greater Chesapeake & Ohio is a major move toward closer communication, better service and increased prosperity.

Soviet Is Seen Unaltered in View on Atom

Russia's position on atomic energy has not been changed by the Gromyko speech to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, Wednesday, Senator Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) told the Senate yesterday.

The former chairman of the Senate Committee on Atomic Energy asserted the Soviet position was clarified but not altered. He said the Russians still wished the U. S. to disarm unilaterally, still refused to accept the stage-by-stage control of the U. S. plan, still wanted national rather than international ownership and operation of atomic plants, still wished to leave punishment to the Security Council and still desired the international agency to remain powerless to enforce control.

"It is in no sense a change of plan or a change of heart," McMahon concluded. He praised the Baruch plan as "fair and just."

Kendrick Held In Attack on Woman Friend

The second chapter in a racket-land hearts-and-flowers feud was written yesterday as John Kendrick was charged with assault on his lady friend, Jean Neva (15 aliases) Kent.

While Jean Kent, 29, was recovering in Gallinger Hospital, Kendrick, 52-year-old former cop shooter and Alcatraz alumnus, was being charged at No. 3 Precinct with assault with a dangerous weapon, namely his foot. He later was freed in $1000 bond.

Police said Kendrick, among other things, kicked his girl friend in the stomach Wednesday night at Jefferson Hotel, 1200 16th st. nw.

Kendrick, a member of the notorious old Tri-State gang, took a shot at Tommy English, 34, also an old-time gangster, June 1 as English walked from his house at 832 10th st. nw.

Kendrick was charged with assault with intent to kill, possession of a deadly weapon and a few spare traffic violations and was allowed to go his way after posting $2700 bond. Police said a woman (guess who) was the innocent cause of it all.

Learning tricks is quite boring. But every training table serves good food . . . Usually beefsteak.
Steak? For YOU, Gorgon?
It can be rare or raw. It makes no difference to me.

June Debutantes

THE tree shaded lawns of the Army War College, looking out over the Potomac, were a cool setting for the debut of Miss Betty Welsh Arnold and her sister, Miss Emily Cocke Arnold, presented to society on Tuesday.

Ellen Bacon Makes Bow At Dance

MISS Ellen Bacon made her debut last evening at a dance given at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Bacon. Red roses decorated the house, and small white tables were set up in the candlelit garden. Music was provided throughout the evening by Sidney and his orchestra.

The debutante graduated this month from Madeira School, and in the fall will enter Bryn Mawr. Her mother and father assisted through the receiving hours last evening, and two cousins, Miss Ann Robb and Harry B. Robb 3d, came down from Philadelphia for the occasion.

Miss Bacon's full-skirted dress of white tulle was trimmed with bunches of pink roses, and she carried an old-fashioned nosegay of pink and white roses edged in a stiff white frill. Her mother wo: grey chiffon trimmed with gold.

Dinner Parties

Before the dance, Judge ar Mrs. John M. Sternhagen entertained at a dinner at their house with Mrs. Rodney Bean. The party was for the debutante and her house guests, Miss Robb and Mr. Robb, Miss Sally McKnight of Sewickley, Pa., and Miss Ann Louise Baker of Wilmington. Other guests were Miss Alison Bean, Miss Betsy de Sibour, Miss Ann Kilpatrick, Miss Betty Burbank, and Miss Frances Sternhagen.

Their escorts included Tod Bacon, Henry Brown, Donald Kindler, Donald Winslow, Michael McHugh, William Hoover, Maurice Heartfield, Avery Faulkner and Henry Plaster.

A buffet supper party was given before the dance by Col. and Mrs. C. H. M. Roberts and their daughter, Miss Patricia Roberts. Guest of honor was Miss Beatrice Blair, who had made her bow to society the day before.

Among the young guests were Miss Edith Moffat, Miss Martha Fulton, Miss Ellen Owen, Miss Kristen Curtis, Miss Suzanne Alexander, Woodlief Thomas, David Fulton, Ned Bailey, David Sterling, Peter Bunzel, John Fairchild and Smith Hemstone, Miss Aileen Patterson, daughter of the Secretary of War and Mrs. Robert Patterson, was also a guest.

MISS EDWINA POU WADDEN captured two swains at the party. At left is Edward Ernst, of California, a student at George Washington University. George Bauernschmidt (right) came over from Baltimore for the event. Miss Wadden had been asked to assist and to stay for the informal supper and swimming party later

U. S. Officers Decorated

The Philippine Republic, through Ambassador Joaquin M. Elizalde, yesterday awarded 11 medals to Americans who have rendered outstanding service to the Philippines.

The presentations were made in an afternoon ceremony at the Philippine Embassy on Sheridan Circle. As each citation was read by Col. Jaime C. Velasquez, Military Attache of the Embassy, the Ambassador pinned the medal to the coat of the recipient.

Highest award, the Distinguished Service Star, went to Gen. George C. Kenney, who commanded General MacArthur's air forces in the liberation of the Philippines.

Seven members of Congress and two former members received the Military Merit Medal in recognition of their work in framing legislation for Philippine rehabilitation. They are Senator Hugh Butler, Senator Owen Brewster, Senator Allen J. Ellender, former Senator Abe Murdock, Representatives Karl M. LeCompte, Eugene Worley, George P. Miller and Fred L. Crawford, and former Representative J. W. Robinson.

This medal was also presented to J. Weldon Jones, assistant director of the budget, who twice served as Acting High Commissioner of the Philippines.

About 100 guests from diplomatic and official ranks attended the ceremony and the cocktail party which followed.

IN LINE to welcome the guests were, left to right: Miss Elizabeth Standish Darst, who made her debut in St. Louis last week and shared honors at Betty and Emily Arnold's debut tea; Miss Emily Arnold, Miss Betty Arnold, and their parents, Maj. Gen. William H. Arnold and Mrs. Arnold. The debutantes wore white lace and net frocks and Miss Darst was in pale pink

Harris and Ewing Photos

Diplomats, officials and members of the Army and Navy were among the guests who greeted the sister debutantes. Here is Gen. Edward F. Witsell, and his daughter, Miss Mary Ellen Witsell, yielding to the temptations of the buffet

Debutante Betty Arnold was graduated this month from Georgetown Visitation Junior College. Emily will study voice and piano at the Peabody Conservatory of Music next year

Wadsworths Entertain For Niece

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Wadsworth entertained at a dinner and dance at their home last evening, to introduce their niece, Miss Katharine Wadsworth of New York City. Miss Wadsworth made her debut in New York last winter. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Wadsworth of New York, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Clarence Seymour Wadsworth of New York, Palm Beach and Bar Harbor.

The dinner before the dance was for young people. Other young people and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wadsworth came in later for the dance, which began at 11 o'clock. Sidney's orchestra played.

Other dinners before the dance were given by Mr. and Mrs. Snowden Fahnstock at 1925 F Street Club, and by Miss Patricia Bellinger and Miss Miriam Bellinger at their home.

Miss Heard Here

Miss Anne Heard has arrived in Washington and is stopping at the Mayflower.

Miss Heard has been living with her father, Capt. W. A. Heard, who is stationed in Puerto Rico. A schoolmate of Miss Nancy Mayo, Miss Heard will be a member of the wedding party for Miss Mayo's marriage to Samuel Dunham which takes place June 20.

Brides-to-Be Honored Here By Miss Thors

Miss Margaret Thors, pretty daughter of the Icelandic Minister and Mme. Thors, entertained yesterday afternoon in honor of two friends who will be married within a week of each other at St. Albans Church. The honorees were Miss Doris Mackintosh, who will marry Lieut. (j.g.) Robert F. Russell, USNR, today, and Miss Llewellyn Good, who will marry Vasco Nunez on the eighteenth. Miss Thors will be maid of honor in the latter's wedding.

The party was like class reunion for some of the guests. Miss Thors has five house guests over the weekend—all members of June's graduating class from Briarcliff Junior College, New York. They are here for the wedding of Miss Mackintosh, who, like Miss Thors, is a member of the same class.

The house guests are Miss Marcia Gladding of Wilmington, Miss Celia Latimer of Cleveland, Miss Ann Boyd of Cleveland, Miss Janet White of Worcester, Mass., and Miss Sally Matter of Merion, Ind.

Mme. Thors was there to help her daughter receive, but the Minister is in Iceland on a business trip. Young guests included Miss Jocelyn Freer, Miss Evelyn Maddox, Miss Sophie Finkenstaedt, Miss Ann Gillespie, Miss Edwina Wadden and many others.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Secretary Who Goes With Her Bachelor Boss Is Depressed Because Some of His Friends, Wealthy Men and Women, Snub Her Pointedly

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: What is your opinion of a single girl, who is a secretary, going with her boss, who is also single? Neither has been married before; and each knows the other and the respective parents well.

Formerly my sister was secretary to this man and when she married I was given the position. I have been going with him for some time.

Recently, however, I have begun to feel somewhat depressed over the fact that some of his socially minded friends, men and women—some of whom are quite wealthy—have on numerous occasions snubbed and ignored me. Your advice will be appreciated. R. G.

Doubtless Boss Is a Snob, Too

DEAR R. G.: 'Tis said that birds of a feather flock together and a man is known by the company he keeps.

Thus if your boss is chiefly identified on the social side with a caste-conscious "smart set" of wealthy folk who turn a glacial eye on you for going with him, we may infer that essentially he is cut from the same cloth as they.

That is to say, he also is a callous snob, who likewise feels that white collar workers are non-assimilable by his "class"; that they have more in common with "the great unwashed";—and that he is making an adventurous exception in your case as a bachelor pastime, simply because he has taken a shine to you personally and figures the honor he does you, in conferring the favor of his company upon you, should be more than sufficient to compensate for the humiliating treatment his friends accord you.

If you have been going with him for some time and during that period have suffered "the cut direct" from sundry of his friends on various occasions, he hasn't much concern for your welfare, really, and is far from being a bone-deep aristocrat, who has an ineffable faculty of investing a timid protege with ease and dignity in socially chill surroundings.

Taking Beating To No Purpose

THE DRIFT of events suggests that his friends have a cynical estimate of his character and romantic pursuits, even though fond of him for caste-ingrained reasons. Or are they perhaps only tolerant of him because he has useful connections or personal prestige in the money-making field?

Whatever the details of the story, it is my conviction that you are taking a beating to no purpose in going with him and trying to keep your chin up among his friends. I think, so far as he knows or cares, his interest in you is purely transitory. Marriage hasn't been mentioned, I gather.

Hence the fact that he happens to be single, and maybe also rather magnetic, doesn't certify him as an acceptable candidate for your leisure time company. If the associations he provides trample your selfesteem to shreds, it's a waste of youth to accept his attentions, I believe. M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Post.

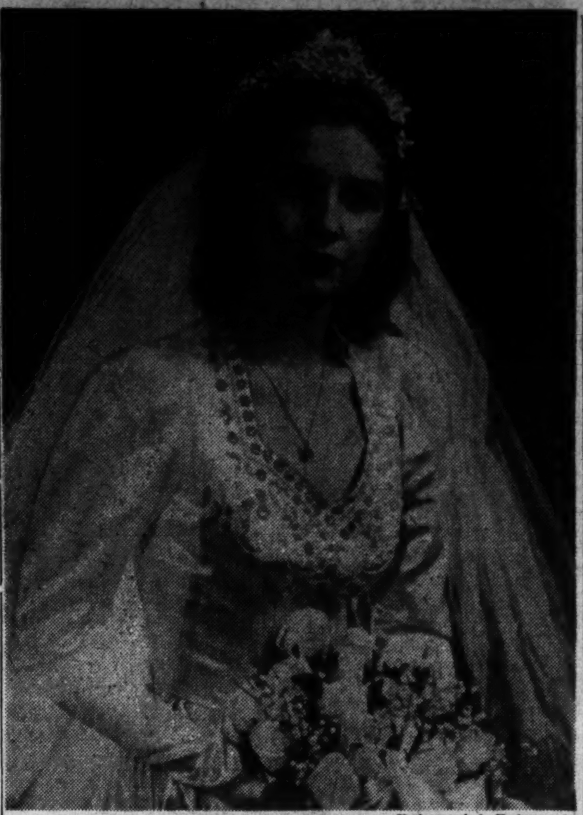
Hugo Black, Miss Hobson Are Married



MRS. HUGO BLACK, JR.

Underwood & Underwood

. . . Married yesterday

MISS B. GRAHAM HOBSON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Archer Hobson of Alexandria, and Hugo L. Black, jr., son of Justice and Mrs. Hugo L. Black, were married yesterday in Immanuel Church on-the-Hill, in Alexandria. The 5:30 ceremony was performed by the Rev. Oscar de Wolfe Randolph, in a setting of white flowers and greens with tapers burning in candelabra.

The bride wore a gown of ivory duchess satin made with sweetheart neckline edged in seed pearls; long sleeves ended in points over the hands, and a long, full train. Her full-length tulle veil was held by a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of gladioli and lilies of the valley. Mr. Hobson gave his daughter in marriage.

Miss Jane Smith, maid of honor and only attendant, wore a blue marquisette gown fashioned with a hoop skirt and a round neck finished with ruffled tiers. Her wide-brimmed horsehair hat of the same shade had a wreath of pink roses and pink velvet streamers. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet.

Sterling Foster Black was best man for his brother and ushers included Edward Kimbrough, professor of English at the University of Alabama, and Girvan Peck of New York, both classmates of the bridegroom.

A reception in the garden of the home of the bride's parents, for members of the two families and close relatives, followed the ceremony.

When the bride and bridegroom left for their wedding trip, Mrs. Black wore a yellow pique costume trimmed with white; a large white pique hat trimmed with pique daisies. The couple will be with Justice and Mrs. Black for the summer, and in the fall will go to New Haven, Conn., where the bridegroom will continue his studies at Yale University Law School.

The bride attended Bryn Mawr College. She is the granddaughter of Col. Edwin L. Hobson and the late Rev. Hartley Carmichael of St. Paul's Church, Richmond, Va., and the late Mrs. Carmichael.

The bridegroom is the grandson of Sterling Foster of Birmingham, Ala., who was present at the wedding. He was graduated from the University of Alabama.

Joneses Return From Chicago

Mr. and Mrs. F. Henry Jones have just returned from Chicago, where they visited their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Walker, and made the acquaintance of their granddaughter, Catharine Letts Walker, who was born May 14.

Mrs. Walker is the former Emilie Letts Jones, who was married in March, 1945, to Mr. Walker, then a lieutenant, USN, at the Foundry Methodist Church. Mr. Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl M. Walker of Arlington, and a graduate of the United States Naval Academy, served in the Pacific during the war on submarine duty. He resigned from the Navy, and is now with Standard Oil of Indiana.

"My mom's sure a pal!"

"When I get tired of drinking all my milk, she never says, 'You drink it or no dessert!' like some mothers. She just gives me a swell rennet-custard dessert an' tells me to eat the rest of my milk—an' everybody's happy!"

It's easy to make milk into rennet-custards with "Junket" Brand Rennet Powder or Tablets, for you do no cooking. They're not only fun to eat—the rennet enzyme makes the milk easier to digest, too. And the whole family enjoys light, tasty rennet-custard desserts.

Make rennet-custards with either "Junket" Rennet Tablets—not sweetened or flavored—add sugar and flavor to taste; or "Junket" Rennet Powder—six flavors, already sweetened. Both at all grocers. Three Little Girls in Blue...And Black...And Pink

COULD be you're seeing triple. But it's just those triplets from the cast of the "Lute Song" at the National Theater who are playing tricks on their public again. This time Pat, Polly and Prue Ward (from left to right, that is) are wearing the same dress—three ways.

Confusing, isn't it? This is how it's done. The entire outfit consists of six pieces; wrap-around skirt and bare-midriff top; long dinner skirt and blouse, the back of which may be pulled up to form a hood; bathing trunks and bra. The pieces are interchangeable and can be switched around to make other ensembles, as Prue does at left, when she slips the short skirt over her bathing trunks.

Best feature of this complete "week-end wardrobe" outfit is the fabric which is a new rayon product. It is soft, light, yet durable and strong. It is both washable and packable, can be rolled up into a ball, pushed into the corner of a small overnight case and pulled out hours later with nary a wrinkle to mar your holiday grooming.

Styled by Cole of California, it comes in a variety of colorful prints, featuring pink, blue and green on black backgrounds. It is available in the beachwear department of an F st. specialty shop.

PEGGY PRESTON.

Vacuum Cleaner Care

That little "plink" you hear as a hairpin is picked up by the vacuum cleaner may be pleasing to a musical ear but it is not at all so pleasant to the insides of one's favorite dust remover. Metal objects should be picked up by hand before vacuuming begins. A little bending is good for the figure, anyway.

Playsuits Transformed Into Dresses

Playsuits that can pose as dresses are double-duty additions to the business girl's summer wardrobe, says the June issue of Charm magazine. One pretty example of the new style is a red-and-white striped dirndl skirt, topped by a scoop-necked white pique blouse. Shorts match the colorful skirt. New York 1947 is the ensemble consisting of brown jersey shorts attached to a brown-and-aqua printed shirtwaist. For street wear, a matching printed skirt is donned.

Warm Weather Menus

The wise woman arranges her menus in the summertime in accordance with the weather, serving less meat and plenty of fresh vegetables, salads and fruits, not forgetting the ever-healthful milk.

New Handkerchief Prints

To be seen for the first time at the Fashion Fair at Madison Square Garden, June 12 to 21, will be a group of "Sevres" print handkerchiefs. These prints are derived from the authentic designs of this popular china and employ the characteristic ground colors of Sevres. Another group to make its debut at the fair will be the silhouette series which depicts figures in costumes of the Old South silhouetted against a background of garden scenes and executed in high-fashion colors. All the handkerchiefs are pure linen and hand rolled.

WCTU to Open Convention Here Sunday

MRS. CAROLINE COATES

Mrs. Caroline E. Coates, president of the District of Columbia Woman's Christian Temperance Union, who is now in Asbury Park, N. J., attending the National WCTU's three-day conclave which closes today, will return to Washington to preside at the District's seventy-third annual convention which opens here Sunday at the Francis Asbury Methodist Church.

The temperance leader also headed a large local delegation to the World WCTU's convention which closed Tuesday. Both the world and national gatherings were at Asbury Park.

The United States is "drying up again," according to Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president of the National WCTU.

"By local option the country is drying up again, with 500 additional communities becoming dry in 1946," she said in a convention address Wednesday.

She told the delegates that one fourth of the United States, covering 28 million population, is now dry or bans hard liquor. "It is an encouraging sign that Representative Joseph R. Bryson (D.) of South Carolina has introduced a resolution for an amendment to restore Federal prohibition.

"Organization by drys is now under way to submit the question of State-wide prohibition to the voters of Alabama, Arkansas, North Carolina and Texas," she explained. "Sentiment for State-wide prohibition is developing also in Georgia, Kentucky, South Carolina and Tennessee."

D. C. Wellesley Club Awards Mrs. Swormsdet Two Degrees

By Genevieve Reynolds

WHEN Mrs. Lyman B. Swormsdet heads for Massachusetts soon she will be the proud possessor of two enviable degrees—doctorate of perpetual youth and the order of Ponce de Leon—awarded to her last night by Mrs. Hugh Perrin, president of Washington Wellesley Club, "in tribute to her youthful outlook and personality." At the same time she was presented with a life membership certificate in the local club.

Occasion was the alumnae's picnic honoring Mrs. Swormsdet, member of Wellesley Class of 1890 and four Washington girls who are this year's scholarship winners. They are Louise Browning, graduating senior from Friends' School, Ridgely Chapline, Woodrow Wilson High School graduate; Ruth Ann Clark, senior at Central High School, and Carolyn Andervont of Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School.

Intelligent Family

Miss Browning, whose mother Mrs. Robert Browning attended Wellesley, and Miss Chapline whose mother, Mrs. W. Ridgely Chapline, and sister, Barbara Chapline, were Wellesley students, won scholarships offered by the Washington Club. Miss Chapline also won the Spanish award at Woodrow Wilson and honorable mention in a city-wide Spanish examination sponsored by the Nicaraguan Embassy here.

Miss Clark is winner of a Pendleton Scholarship awarded by the college to contestants in the Middle Atlantic States. Associate editor of her high school magazine and a member of the national honor society, she plans to study medicine.

Miss Andervont who won a National Pendleton scholarship, has been active since 1944 as a junior aide at Suburban Hospital, and as a member of the Pepper Club at Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, she headed a committee of girls who did baby sitting to raise funds for the support of Belgian child refugee.

Mrs. Swormsdet Leaving

Mrs. Swormsdet is leaving to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Helen Mansfield, executive secretary of Wellesley College Alumnae Association. She has been in the Twentieth Century Club, American Association of University Women as well as that of her alma mater.

Another feature of the last meeting of the year was the special recognition and thanks given to several Wellesley Club members who have devoted much time and enegry to club activities during the year. These included Mrs. Philip W. Garnett, former publicity chairman; Mrs. Charles L. Werts and Mrs. W. O. Sturgeon, who headed the Connecticut Avenue Style Show Committee; Mrs. Bernard A. Chandler, head of the scholarship committee; Miss Elizabeth Haswell, chairman of the Wellesley overseas committee; Mrs. Philip A. Singleton, head of the membership committee, and Mrs. Harold H. Burton, Mrs. John Price Gregg and Mrs. Jacques Reinstein who make up the committee for the seventy-fifth anniversary fund campaign which will begin next fall.

Ringside Table

With Mary Harris

On Wednesday this column announced that the China Clipper was closing for the summer. This is to notify all the China Clipper patrons that they can continue dining and dancing throughout the summer months in air-conditioned comfort.

FIVE FINE YEARS under Brahms-Mitchell management are being celebrated at Olmsted's this week. Before James Brahms and Leonard Mitchell took over. Olmsted's in 1942, it was no secret that the famed restaurant had slipped a bit from its 50-year-old tradition of perfection . . . They redecorated in a dignified and handsome way. went shopping for the finest chefs and best waiters. Now Olmsted's is again a pattern of restaurants, is often written up in national magazines . . . The tribute we like best is that of Mrs. Bert Olmsted, widow of the founder. On her frequent visits to Olmsted's she often says, "Bert would have liked this."

Mr. Wiz, Merry-Land's jovial prognosticator, is cherishing a letter from Elizabeth Arden telling him how right he was when he told her last Christmas that she'd have this year's Derby winner . . . Tana, the blonde and beautiful seeress, is now at the Madrillon.

GLEN ECHO RATES MEDAL. Any expert amusement man will tell you that in Glen Echo our city has one of the cleanest, smartest, best-operated parks in the country. Echo's slogan, "Forty Acres of Fun," tells the story. There are tree shaded spots for picknickers, dozens of rides, a big "fun house," acres of free parking space. The swimming pool is a triple threat—meaning the big pool, the medium deep pool and the wading pool for little folks. In the ballroom you'll find Jack Corry's big band putting out stylish rhythm.

MISSES' DEPARTMENT. Dona Mason of the King Cole Room is developing into a highly effective young comedienne. She ad libs gayly with the customers, is fast and light with comebacks . . . Jerry Schorn, now singing in the Mayflower Lounge, left Swarthmore College flat for a singing spot at No. 1 Fifth Avenue . . . Accordionist Toni of Michel's combined her music course at Catholic University with nightly work as a pianist and accordionist. She now has a master's degree in music . . . Sherry Sherwood of Bob Knight's Lounge Riviera band looks like a dream walking in her white gown with the high neck, kimono sleeves and drape-shape hips . . . The Jean Davis Girls at the Lotus are parading with special pride this week. Because their lovely gowns are from New York's Copocabana. Especially eye-catching are the white satin numbers with huge appliqued leaves of yellow satin . . . Louise Lee, sassy little singer with "Jive" Schaffer's band at the Casino Royal, is praised by all the musicians around town for her adept vocalizing. That's the kind of tribute that means something.

Busiest vacation imaginable is being enjoyed by Paul Ahrens, silver-haired waiter at the now closed Cairo. He has a chicken farm, with a population of 3000 cacklers, out near Greenbelt, sells to restaurants all over Washington.

INDOOR SCENERY. The animal kingdom has fantastic representation on the white-and-scarlet walls of Ruby Foo's. Among the fauna are double humped camels, coy rabbits, chubby Chinese horses and a genuine fire-breathing dragon . . . Hornets' nests, minus their spirited inhabitants, hang in the entrance hall at River Bend . . . The Purple Iris has been freshened up charmingly in early American style with flowered curtains and white wainscoting . . . The Water Gate Inn is done in the Pennsylvania Dutch manner with jolly painted hobby-horses cavorting over the windows . . . Alluringly cool is the pale green setting of the Good Earth with its accents of delicate Chinese drawings and frostily glittering crystal chandeliers . . . Like an Eldorado is the bar at the New Athens—all one sumptuous dazzle of gold colored plexiglass . . . A mask of Bacchus leers jovially over the bar in the Muses' cocktail lounge.

LOVELY LISTENING. The sparkly tunes of Bob and Bertie Hellman are now being broadcast (WASH-FM) twice a week from the Neptune Room . . . Ciro's patrons dote upon the Neapolitan ballads of Silvio Bianchini, elderly waiter who studied voice with famed Tito Ruffo . . . there's magic in the air when Sammy Marks' band at the Roosevelt Hotel plays the beautiful "Come to Me, Bend to Me" from "Brigadoon" . . . George Berg of the Dubonnet Room plays a fascinating something he calls "United Nations Rumba." It's a composite of various national songs played in rumba rhythm . . . Jimmy Nichols' Rainbow Room band is doing an unusual group of Berlin waltzes including "Beloved," "At Peace With the World" and "Because I Love You" . . . those who like their "jump" tunes are having a time for themselves listening to Clinton Hobbes' fast tricks in rhythm at the Nightingale . . . the cultivated clientele of the Silver Fox keeps the twin pianos of Bob Stickney and Walter Salb busy with classics and semiclassics until far, far into the night . . . Nini Baker of Sammy Seymour's Skyliners on the Starlight Roof, has made a quite fantastic arrangement of "Tea for Two." Leader Sammy says, "It sounds like 'Coffee for Four.'"

Are Post "Apartment Wanted" ads EFFECTIVE?

Miss White's found a HOUSE!

Miss Inez White came from Oklahoma last November to take a job with the Veterans' Administration. Her room at Arlington Farms was pleasant, but the other day she and two government-girl friends decided to try the apartment life together. So they told their story in a Washington Post "Apartment Wanted" ad—and got ten replies. But that's not the best part—one reply was an offer of a HOUSE, a nice little furnished house in Falls Church, renting for $75 per month. Now the three girls are at home to their friends . . . in a real home found through The Post.

There's a 'Rub' If You'd Lose A Double Chin

By Ida Jean Kain

To kiss a double chin goodby, perk up a sagging chin and bolster your morale, work from the outside and the inside. Keep the skin on the outside pliable to discourage wrinkles, and keep the muscles on the inside firm and toned to fully support the skin to a smoother covering. These two schemes, used together work wonders.

Creams lubricate the skin and help ward off wrinkles . . . so cream to your heart's content. In massaging in cream start at the base of the throat and massage upward, using an up and out circular motion—might just as well help counteract gravity while you're about it. Continue massaging up under the tip of the chin and along the jawline. Work firmly along the cushion of muscle that rounds the chin bone, using the heel of your hand. These involuntary muscles respond to deep massage.

Keep Chin Up

But you never get something for nothing . . . even when you pay for it, and creams, be they ever so costly and richly perfumed, can't keep the chin from doubling if too many calories snuggle under there. And if you let your head droop forward, there will be soft folds of flesh under the chin, willy-nilly. So that's where exercise and posture come in. Tone the muscles that support the skin under the chin . . . and keep your chin up!

In exercising, go after that thin sheet of muscle smack under the chin, the platysma, for it's up to this muscle to keep the throatline snug. When it gets flabby, you've got a head start on chin troubles.

The secret of chin exercises is to work the muscles under the skin without any unnecessary pulling of the skin. The technique is to tense the throat muscles in all throat exercise, and add a resistance exercise for good measure.

Try it out for yourself. A good exercise is to turn the head slowly to one side then the other, especially when offered chocolate layer cake—but I got off the track—put your hand under that soft spot under the chin, then merely turn your head to the right. See, that spot is still limp. Back to center, now tense the muscles in that area by "setting" your jaw as if you meant business, then turn your head slowly to the right. See the difference?

Now you're getting some place. Try it again, this time tipping your chin in the air, pulling the lower jaw up strongly, and slowly circle the head around to one shoulder, then very slowly circle back to center.

Your Questions On Homemaking

Please tell me if there is any way to remove water marks from a solid background wall paper. Also, if you know of a way to remove a smudge from wall paper that has been made by a radiator.
M. E.

Put a poultice of Fuller's earth or commercial dry cleaning powder and carbon tetrachloride on the water stain. Let dry overnight, scrape off loose powder. Remove any remaining powder with cloth or sponge dampened with cold water.

Use a dough-type wallpaper cleaner or art-gum eraser to remove the radiator smudge. Unless the rest of the wall has been cleaned very recently you will probably have to clean at least the entire wall.

Can you tell me how to keep a pair of genuine light gray and white reptile shoes from turning yellow? Is there any polish or dressing that can be applied that will keep them at their original color? I have been told they will sunburn.
E. E. W.

Always keep your shoes well polished with neutral or light gray polish which is made especially for reptile shoes. You can buy this at any store which handles reptile shoes.

I have been using a glass pyrex baking dish on my radiator all winter to humidify the air. Now, of course, there is a crust of chlorine deposit in it. Could you tell me if there is any way that I can remove it?
G. I. S.

The stain on your dish is probably a mineral deposit. It should come off readily by rubbing with a cloth soaked in vinegar. If this doesn't move it, there is a special cleanser on the market to remove mineral deposits from sinks and such and should work very well on your dish.

Upperville Horse Show Opens Today

The Upperville Colt and Horse Show of Northern Virginia will be held today and tomorrow. An outstanding sporting event, the Upperville Show is the father of American horse shows. Started in 1853, by the late Col. Richard Dulany, for the better breeding of thoroughbreds, this show has continued throughout the years.

This year a new class has been added to the already long list. A thoroughbred breeding championship class with a trophy to be given in memory of the late Admiral Cary T. Grayson, whose thoroughbred stud farm is nearby, is the added feature.

Richards Peach of Upperville, secretary of the show, reports a list of more than 500 entries. Every breeder, farmer and owner around will be exhibiting, and numerous parties are planned. Rooming houses and private homes are overflowing with visitors.

Among those showing in the 49 classes are Dr. and Mrs. Paul Rosenberg, Dr. and Mrs. Alvin I. Kay, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Plummer and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Garrett, all of Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bryant of Alexandria, who have entered their 3-year-old Sherwood; Mr. and Mrs. G. Watts Hill of Rondemont, N. C.; James McKennon of Elmira, N. Y., who is entering his famous show horse, Bill Star. Mr. Smith will show his Blue Chick and Blue Ridge, at the show this year; Miss Cynthia Cannon of Millbrook, N. Y., will be showing several horses; as will be Mrs. Raymond Barbin of Keswick, Va. Robert Saiburn of Morristown, N. J., will exhibit Chief and Gussen; Mrs. Page Jennings of Keswick, Ice Capade; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reynolds of Richmond, Hawkwood and Ceil; Mrs. Larry Lunch also of Richmond, will be here with His Nibs.

Donald Sutherland of Brooklyn, N. Y., will also exhibit horses as will Mrs. Henry Wellen of Rossville, Pa.; Dr. L. M. Allen, will bring Clifton's Peggy; Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Lynn of Philadelphia, Philbo. Others showing will include Mrs. Carl Butler of Cleveland, Ohio; Louis Howell La Mott of Rockville, Md.; Miss Dorothy Von Stade of Long Island; Miss Anna Hedrick of Arlington and Miss Anne Kenyon of Rhode Island; Oliver Durant of Boston, Va.

Yessir—Things Are Really Going to Be Tough

CONVERSATION PIECE

The customer in the delicatessen was chatting with the clerk as his order was being filled.

"Yes, sir," he said. "this economy wave is sure going to hurt this town. Thousands of Government people are being fired, you know."

"Uh huh."

"And thousands more are going to be fired, too. Believe me, Washington is going to feel the effects of this budget cutting."

"Uh huh."

"And Government workers won't be the only ones to suffer. Private business will drop when the Federal payroll is cut. Stores won't need so much help, and lotsa people will lose their jobs in private industry."

"Uh huh."

"You don't seem to realize how serious this is. What are you gonna do when the boss tells you he don't need you any more?"

"Me? Why, I'll get a job in the Government."

HOUSING NOTE

Friday the Thirteenth is supposed to be unlucky, but at least two District Liners aren't impressed by that superstition. They're getting married today.

Paul Martin, program director at WQQW, and Lou Chamberlin, the station's office manager, will have the knot tied at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

As soon as the ceremony is over, they'll rush right down to the Veterans' Housing Authority.

The honeymoon will have to wait a few hours, because of a quirk in the law.

It seems that Paul and Lou (both vets—she was in the Waves) have found an apartment out in Fairlington, but they can't sign the lease until after they get a certificate from the Housing Authority.

And that agency won't issue permits on the strength of "intent to wed." You've got to take the leap before they'll certify you.

So the Martin-Chamberlin honeymoon will have to wait until the United States Government gives its official blessing.

ANYBODY GOT A PIE-ANNER FOR SALE?

The National Capital Housing Project citizens in the Bellevue section of Southwest have organized a teen-ager club and plan to give shows this summer.

But they're lacking a piano, and would like to buy one. The contact is Kay Ritchie, 313 Beyer rd. sw. (LUdlow 2276.)

EXCESS BAGGAGE

For weeks now, I've been trying to find out why airline patrons have so much trouble claiming their baggage at National Airport.

Incoming passengers usually find the baggage room a scene of quiet chaos. Nobody knows which planes have unloaded and which haven't, and every time the freight elevator disgorges another load of luggage there's much pushing, shoving and complaining among the ticket holders.

It's reminiscent of those pictures of the Chicago wheat pit, in which everybody shouts simultaneously and myriad arms are thrust violenty forward at nobody in particular.

Yet all that's needed is a little horse sense. Two large signs should be erected, one saying: "These flights are still being unloaded," and the other saying: "Baggage from these flights is now available."

Beneath each sign should be posted the proper flight numbers. Then everybody would know whether his baggage was up or still on the field.

What makes this simple suggestion such a monumental project, fellows?

The Bridge Deck

By Florence Osborn

You are defending the East cards of today's deal against South's three no-trump contract and West opens the five of hearts.

Today's Hand

Neither Side Vulnerable
SOUTH DEALER

North:
♠K7
♡962
♢KQ94
♣Q1083

West:
♠J104
♡J9753
♢62

East:
♠Q6532
♡K10
♢875
♣A52

♠A96
♡AQ4
♢AJ103
♣J96

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: 5 ♡.

Your king falls to South's ace. Declarer then leads a diamond to dummy's queen and returns the three of clubs. How do you plan your defense?

East sets the hand by preventing his partner's entry card from being drawn before his hearts are established. To do this he sacrifices his own high card in clubs at once.

When East is asked to play on the club lead he can see that if his partner holds the club king it is probably his only entry to run the hearts after they are set up. Therefore, East employs the club ace and returns a heart, forcing declarer's second stopper before his partner's club king is gone.

Declarer tries to duck the heart ten, letting East hold the trick, but West overtakes with the heart jack, continues a heart, drawing the queen, and later West has to get in with the club king to take two more heart tricks. South goes down one trick at three no-trump, losing two clubs and three hearts.

If East plays low on the club lead, West's king is forced immediately and when East gets in with the club ace he has no heart to return. If West holds up with the club king, South has his ninth trick in his pocket and game in bag.

If declarer holds up on the opening heart lead, a spade shift by East will defeat him.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

HE HASN'T LEFT BY PLANE... AND ALL THE ROADS ARE BLOCKED...
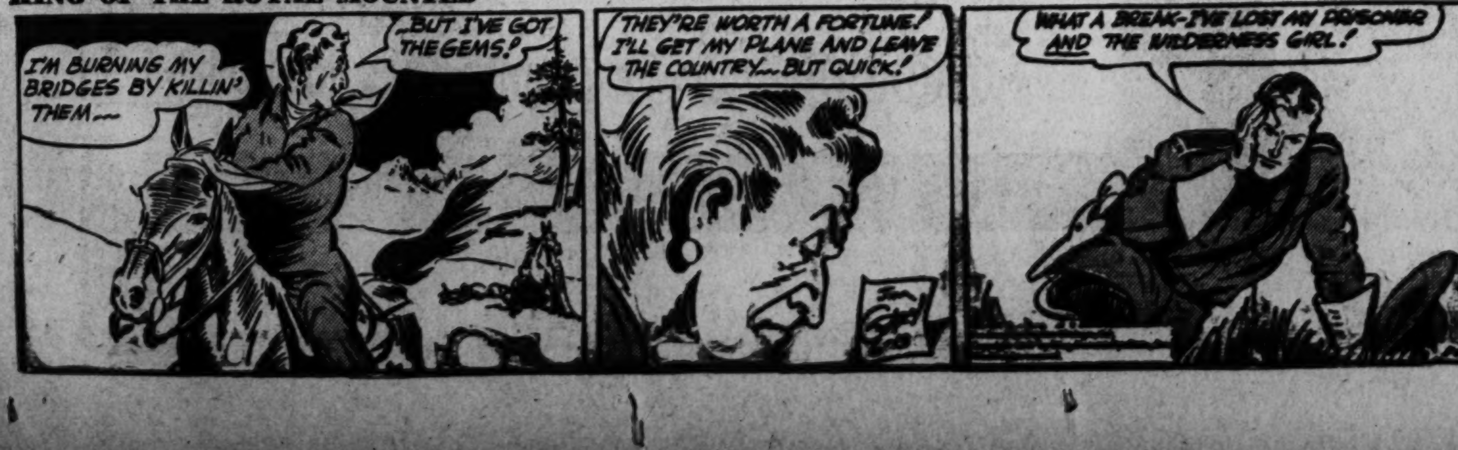
THAT'S IT! HE'LL TRY TO GO THROUGH THE SWAMP...
ED DODD
I'M GOING OUT TO LOOK AT SOME EAGLES NESTS, MERIDY ...COME ON, ANDY...
OKAY, DAD, I'LL STAY HERE AND WAIT FOR MARK.
WE'RE NEARLY THERE, FARNUM.
YES, AND IF MERIDY IS THERE I THINK I HAVE AN IDEA THAT WILL PAY OFF IN A BIG WAY...!

KING OF THE ROYAL MOUNTED



I'M BURNING MY BRIDGES BY KILLIN' THEM—
...BUT I'VE GOT THE GEMS!
THEY'RE WORTH A FORTUNE! I'LL GET MY PLANE AND LEAVE THE COUNTRY... BUT QUICK!
WHAT A BREAK—I'VE LOST MY PRISONER AND THE WILDERNESS GIRL!

WHO CARES ABOUT AIR-CONDITIONING?

● You've got it pretty soft ... frolicking and splashing in your cooling tub while the thermometer zooms like a V-2 rocket . . . but we think it rather impractical to install bathtubs in the middle of our main floor . . . even though you seem to recommend it with an appropriate Bronx cheer.

● The answer to your question is simple . . . everybody wants relief from the heat . . . and everybody cares about air-conditioning . . . the safe and sane way to "do something about the weather."

● The Hecht Co. is doing it . . . with the aid of this modern miracle of science . . . providing a healthful, invigorating environment for the thousands and thousands of Washingtonians and their families who shop in comfort . . . no matter what the climatic conditions may be on the outside.

● Everybody is happy about air-conditioning . . . our associates who work in healthful and comfortable surroundings . . . and our patrons who find it pleasant and cheerful to be greeted by our courteous and friendly staff.

● So even when the weatherman reports "Rising Temperatures". . . you're sure to find a refreshing oasis at The Hecht Co. . . . and you're always welcome to drop in and relax while we take care of your wants . . . while we're also taking care of the weather.
